Chaos at Capital Is Graphically Told.

In order to portray graphically the chaos in the government that would be a grave possibility if none of the candidates for President should receive a majority of the electoral votes on Nov. 4, Mr. Henning, projecting himself into the future, imagines in the following the dispatch he may be called upon to write on March 3 next.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., March 3, 1925.—[Special.]—The American nation tonight faces the greatest crisis in its history since the Union was saved from disruption half a century ago.

With the deadlock of the last three weeks still prevailing in congress—the house deadlocked on the election of a President and the senate still unable to choose a Vice President—the prospect is that the country will be without a regularly elected chief executive when President Coolidge's tenure of office expires at noon tomorrow.

Coming on top of the business depression and winter of unemployment following the failure to elect a President at the polls last November, the impending interregnum involving governmental chaos has wrought a general consternation.

Resembles Excitement of '61.

Not since the first inauguration of Lincoln has there been such excitement at the seat of government. More than 100 of the foremost men of the nation in industry, agriculture, finance and transportation, as well as the leaders of the most important labor unions and of the major political parties, are now here participating in a continuous series of conferences at the White House and the capitol on measures to meet the crisis and restore national confidence.

President Coolidge at this hour is meeting with members of his cabinet, and Republican, Democratic, and third party leaders in a last effort to obtain a tri-partisan agreement on the unusual steps that it now seems necessary to take in order to provide for the presidential succession.

Coolidge Refuses to Stay.

It is understood that Mr. Coolidge has definitely rejected the advice of some Republican leaders, including a number of eminent authorities on the constitution, that he retain his office after noon tomorrow until his successor somehow shall be chosen. The Democrats and third party leaders were fairly frenzied by that suggestion, pointing out that when this congress ends tomorrow the next congress will have no constitutional authority to elect a President and Vice President, and Mr. Coolidge no authority to call a special election. It would mean four years more of Coolidge, they said, the hotheads among them asserting that if the Republicans "attempted such a usurpation" they would plunge the country into civil war.

Hughes Becomes Acting President.

The course the President is said to have determined upon is to resign his office before tomorrow noon. At the moment he resigns Secretary of State Hughes automatically will become acting President under the presidential succession act and will serve until a President shall be regularly chosen. Mr. Hughes will be required by the succession act to call congress into extraordinary session, and it will devolve upon congress to call a special presidential election. This will mean several months more of uncertainty and industrial stagnation.

The President has been advised that the succession act does not apply when there has been a failure to elect a chief executive and becomes operative only upon the death, removal, or resignation of a President. The predicament of the nation tonight tragically accentuated the failure of the constitution framers to provide for the succession in the event of neither a President nor a Vice President being chosen by March 4. It is now proposed to amend the constitution to remove this defect by authorizing congress to provide for the succession in such a contingency.

How Chaos Could Be Avoided.

The country would have been spared this latest stage of chaos in government had the senate, with the house hopelessly deadlocked in choice of a President, been able to elect either former Gov. Charles Bryan or Gen. Dawes Vice President. The Vice President so chosen then would become President tomorrow for the next four years.

But the senate has been no more capable than the house of discharging

STILLMAN CASE ENDED; ANNE'S WEDDING CAUSE

Family Reunion in Nuptial Event.

Pleasantville, N. Y., Oct. 19.—The Stillman divorce case is at an end. An informal truce, which may eventually pave the way to a complete reconciliation, has been agreed to by James A. Stillman, the banker, and his wife, Mrs. Anne U. Stillman. All legal proceedings against his wife have been withdrawn from the courts by the banker, it was said by a close friend of the family today, and it is doubtful if any others will be pressed.

MRS. ANNE U. STILLMAN. [International Photo.]

The sensational complications in the lives of the banker and his wife, the former Anne Urquhart Potter, are said to be moving to a reasonably happy ending.

Happy Over Anne's Wedding

This culmination has been brought about by the memory of a little child over whose tiny form both the banker and his wife bent in mutual love in the happier days of long ago. This child was Anne Stillman. It was her wedding to Young Henry Pomeroy Davison yesterday which eliminated the bitterness from the hearts of her parents.

The wedding, it was learned today, was preceded by the picture of Mr. and Mrs. Stillman having breakfast together with their daughter and their sons, the first complete reunion of the family in three years.

This breakfast was served in the Manor House of the Stillmans at Mondanne, the home which the banker built for his wife and named in her honor. It was a buffet service. Upon Stillman's entry, Mrs. Stillman and her husband shook hands.

United in Wedding Plans.

Mr. Stillman began to thaw several weeks before the wedding, it was said today. He supervised the preparation of his wedding gift to his daughter—a string of pearls.

For the first time in several years his voice began to be heard over the telephone at Mondanne. He called up daily, making arrangements for his daughter's wedding.

He and his wife agreed—for the first time they have agreed on anything since they agreed four years ago to disagree and indulged in bitter accusations and recriminations, he naming Fred Beauvais, Quebec Indian guide, as co-respondent, and she naming Flo Leeds, former roof show beauty. This time they agreed that "Anne must be happy on her wedding day."

It is understood Stillman remained with the honeymooners and his wife at Mondanne last night. There Mrs. Stillman remained and relaxed today as the bridal pair journeyed to Canada on their honeymoon after being dinner guests of the banker in his town house in Manhattan.

After Costly Litigation.

The litigation with his wife was not profitable to Stillman, either in prestige or finances, for when he sued for divorce, naming Beauvais, and seeking to attack the legitimacy of Guy Stillman, youngest child of the couple, Mrs. Stillman won on both counts.

The divorce was refused Stillman and the legitimacy of the child was established. In the fight Mrs. Stillman developed that Stillman had a son by Flo Leeds, who had lived with Stillman as his wife.

Wed Under 16? Must Still Be in School

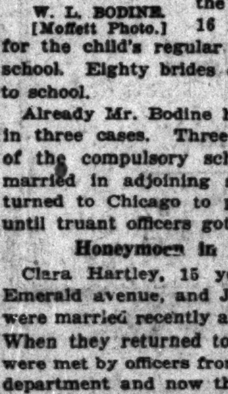
Wives, if you are under 16 years of age you must attend school! And it is up to your husbands to keep you there or face a jail sentence.

This bit of news comes from W. L. Bodine, superintendent of compulsory education of the board of education. The law, Mr. Bodine explains, provides that every person having custody of a child between the ages of 7 and 16 is accountable for the child's regular attendance at school. Eighty brides of 15 must go to school.



W. L. BODINE. [Moffett Photo.]

Already Mr. Bodine has had to act in three cases. Three young brides of the compulsory school age were married in adjoining states and returned to Chicago to play housewife until truant officers got after them.

Honeymoon in School.

Clara Hartley, 15 years old, 4510 Emerald avenue, and John McKeown were married recently at Crown Point. When they returned to Chicago they were met by officers from Mr. Bodine's department and now the young bride is in regular attendance at a continuation school.

The same fate befell Mary Nixie, 15 years old, 2524 Wentworth avenue, who eloped to Crown Point with Peter Moros, 25 years old. She is now in school and her husband will be held responsible for her regular attendance until she is 16.

So anxious were the parents of Florence Gadio, 15 year old pupil of the Foster school, to have her married to Antonio Stancato that they gave a false age at the marriage license bureau.

Parents Help Romance.

When truant officers investigated her absence from school they found her working on her wedding trousseau. The parents took the couple to Kenosha, where they were married. As soon as they return Mr. Bodine will insist that the young wife attend school.

Some grooms returned from "over the line" in Indiana where they married 12 year old girls, have been arrested for contributing to delinquency of minors when they returned to live in Chicago. The school records impeached the false ages given. One of these grooms was sentenced to the Bridewell recently.

Aged Man Runs in Front of Street Car and Is Killed

Francis Schlegel, 831 Altgeld street, 88 years old, died last night. He was struck by a Halsted street car near Altgeld street. Police were told he became confused and rushed in front of the car.

UNFORGIVING DAD TAXIS 87 MILES AFTER ELOPERS

Noah Suddeth, 3134 West 42d place, was so angry when he learned his daughter, Edna, had eloped he hired a taxicab and drove eighty-seven miles to South Bloomington, Ill., to bring his new son-in-law to justice. The taxi bill was $47. Suddeth claims his daughter is only 14 years old, but she insists she is 19. She was married in Joliet on Thursday to William Boyd, who took her back to his home in South Bloomington.

Suddeth obtained a warrant for Boyd's arrest and then taxied to the Illinois town with a deputy sheriff to bring him back. The daughter told the lieutenant at the detective bureau last night she would not give her husband up. She accused her father of beating her. Boyd was held over night and the matter will be turned over to the juvenile authorities today.

IF HE LOST HIS HEAD HE MIGHT DENY THAT, TOO

Although Charles Leopold, 29 years old, 5857 South State street, an overseas veteran, lies at the Bridewell hospital with a bullet wound in each leg, he stubbornly refuses to admit he has been shot.

South Park Policeman Carr was standing at 22d street and Michigan avenue yesterday when he heard several shots and turned in time to see a man fleeing and another man collapse on the sidewalk.

"Who shot you?" he was asked as he lay on the sidewalk.

"Shot who?" he countered.

"You," replied the policeman.

"I ain't shot," Leopold insisted. "I'm just resting. Go on away and leave me alone. You didn't hear any shots."

Mob Menaces Woman Who Shoots Boy

Police of the Warren avenue station yesterday saved Mrs. Alice Lain-Palmer, 63 years old, from violence at the hands of angry neighbors who besieged her in her home at 2849 West Adams street after she had shot a 14 year old boy.

The elderly woman had fired from her rear porch at a group of boys who were playing ball in a school yard next door because she "didn't like all that racket on Sunday afternoon." Then she had sent a bullet whizzing over the head of a man who attempted to pick up the wounded boy, Joseph Gallina, 313 South Francisco avenue, as he lay beside the school yard fence with a bullet wound in his neck.

Lynching Threatened.

When Sergt. Frank McCarthy of the Warren avenue station and a squad of policemen arrived at her home they found she had barricaded the doors against a crowd of irate mothers and fathers of the neighborhood who were threatening to lynch her.

The woman told the police her second husband, Peter L. Palmer, is a railroad man who works nights and that his sleep during the day is disturbed by the boys playing in the yard of the Calhoun school, Jackson boulevard and Francisco avenue.

About an hour before her husband's return from work she went to her rear porch, flourished the revolver and ordered the youthful ballplayers to go away.

Answers Taunt with Bullet.

"Why don't you shoot?" one of the boys yelled, then they began scurrying over the fence. She answered the taunt by firing her revolver several times. One bullet struck young Gallina and he fell to the ground. George K. Watterman, 237 Stanley terrace, says he ran to the wounded boy's aid when the woman fired at him, the bullet passing over his head and lodging in a car parked across the street.

"I didn't mean to hit any of them," Mrs. Lain-Palmer insisted.

She was held without being booked pending the outcome of the boy's injury. At the West Side hospital physicians said he will recover.

MANILA TROOPS CHECK CHINESE FILIPINO RIOT

MANILA, Oct. 20.—[By the Associated Press.]—Gov. Gen. Leonard Wood, after touring the city today to observe the situation created by clashes between Chinese and Filipinos, ordered four companies of constabulary held in readiness to suppress any outbreak beyond the control of the police.

Sporadic cases of attacks on Chinese continued throughout the morning. Two Chinese were stabbed and mortally wounded by Filipinos when a crowd gathered near a railway station. Police, armed with riot guns, however, so far have been able to disperse the crowds before concerted action could be taken by the mobs.

Rental Rate for Husband $10 Per Week

"She pays me $10 a week for my man! And she says I should be contented."

"Ma" Langor, for these thirty-nine years the wife of Julius Langor, 55 years old, a machinist, folded her arms around herself and rocked and chanted the saga of a deserted wife and a vampire of Lexington street yesterday afternoon at the foot of the stairs that led to her third floor flat at 2356 West Van Buren street.

Not the Money So Much.

Saturday she filed suit against Mrs. Anna Larscheid, 56 years old, 2443 Lexington street, for $25,000 damages for winning away her husband, Julius. Yesterday she said it wasn't the money so much that she wanted. What she wants to do, she says, is to make her husband quit living with the plump, well to do widow on Lexington street.

"He rents her garage. Then he stays away from home every night," she says, "fixing up an automobile. Always promising to take me a ride, but he never does. Pretty soon I find out he has been taking her riding. I get mad and tell him he can stay all night where he stays so late.

"So he went away, forgetting me, that had been his wife for thirty-nine years and bore him eight children. He's not a good looking man, either, but he's been my man so long.

All for $10.

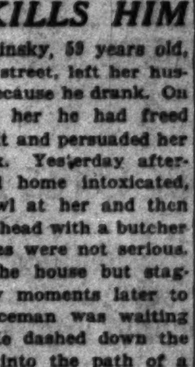
"So he goes to live with her. He wears an apron and sings around the house. He scrubs her floors and back steps. He quit his job and she gives him $10 a week to give me so I'll let them alone. It's been going on since summer.

"And to make it worse, my oldest daughter, Mrs. Marie Buetow, 2141 West Congress street, takes his side. 'If pa can get a rich woman to keep him and pay ma $10 every week for him, he's a fool not to take her up. He's getting old and he'll need to quit work pretty soon.'"

EX-WIFE OF YEAST MILLIONAIRE TO BE BRIDE TODAY

[Copyright: 1924: By the News, New York.]

PARIS, Oct. 19.—Mrs. Laura Fleischmann is to marry Jay O'Brien tomorrow. The divorced wife of Julius Fleischmann, millionaire yeast manufacturer and sportsman, today completed the details for her wedding to the Broadway frequenter and crack polo player.



MRS. LAURA FLEISCHMANN. [International Photo]

A Paris divorce was granted to Mrs. Fleischmann July 20. It was stated that Mr. Fleischmann had agreed not to contest the suit and had stood aside to permit his beautiful wife to take O'Brien as a husband. It was added that he had given her $5,000,000 as a bridal present.

Mr. O'Brien will be No. 3 in the list of husbands. Mrs. Fleischmann married and divorced Louis Heminway, silk manufacturer, prior to her marriage to Mr. Fleischmann.

STABS HIS WIFE; RUNS FROM COP; AUTO KILLS HIM

Mrs. Agnes Latinsky, 59 years old, 1703 South Canal street, left her husband a year ago because he drank. On Saturday he told her he had freed himself of the habit and persuaded her to take him back. Yesterday afternoon he returned home intoxicated, shied a sugar bowl at her and then stabbed her in the head with a butcher knife. Her injuries were not serious.

He ran from the house but staggered back a few moments later to learn that a policeman was waiting to arrest him. He dashed down the street again and into the path of a speeding car containing a man and a woman.

He died on the way to the People's hospital. Children told the police they saw the driver of the car hand two $10 bills to two witnesses, who evidently recognized him. The children heard him tell the witnesses to "Beat it." Then the car sped away. The witnesses ran through the railroad yards as the police arrived, the children said.

Duke and Duchess of Alba Leave for Detroit

The duke and duchess of Alba attended religious services yesterday morning at St. Mary's church at Ninth and Wabash avenue. They were guests of friends at luncheon and dinner, and left last evening at 11:45 for Detroit. After visiting in Philadelphia, Washington and New York, they will sail for London Oct. 29 on the Aquitania.

$105,950,000 TO DIG SUBWAY, MERGE ROADS

Single Fare on L, Tube, and Surface.

BY WILLIAM LAWSON.

Consolidation of the surface and elevated lines under one management and immediate construction of subways by the city with its $40,000,000 traction fund is the solution of Chicago's transportation problem offered Mayor Dever and the city council yesterday by Henry A. Blair, president of the Chicago Surface Lines.

HENRY A. BLAIR.

Mr. Blair's scheme proposes a single fare and universal transfers for elevated and surface lines, "service at cost, municipal partnership in operation and eventually municipal ownership." It involves the expenditure of approximately $105,950,000 in six years for subway digging and extension of existing facilities.

Enabling Acts Required.

Fulfillment of the plan, however, is contingent upon the passage of legislation permitting the city to grant indeterminate or long term franchises and authorizing the consolidation of the surface and elevated lines. [illegible] it differs from other traction proposals to be given the city council next Wednesday by Mayor Dever and Samuel Insull, chairman of the elevated lines' directorate.

The mayor's plan, evolved after his failure to negotiate purchase terms with the owners of the surface or elevated lines, would provide a municipally owned and operated competitive elevated-subway system. Ample authority for financing the construction by special assessment against adjacent benefited property exists, he will tell the council.

Offer by Insull.

In an application for franchises to permit $23,000,000 worth of elevated line extensions, including the construction of a mid-city trunk line from Evanston to Englewood along Ashland avenue, Mr. Insull offers to dig a downtown subway at once if the city is unwilling to undertake the project.

Two phases of construction are contemplated in Mr. Blair's plan. In the first period the city would dig a four track subway in State street from 22d street to Division street or North avenue and in Washington street from Grant park to Union park or Ogden avenue, at a cost of approximately $35,400,000.

During this same period the elevated and surface lines would spend $32,600,000 in track extensions, equipment purchases, and other service improvements.

Jackson Boulevard Subway.

In the second construction, the city, it is planned, would build a subway in Jackson boulevard from Grant park to Franklin street and south to connect with the Van Buren street tunnel under the river. The combined elevated and surface lines would be spending $33,950,000 in further extensions and new equipment.

The total cost of the six year program would be divided as follows:

City-built subways	$ 39,400,000
Total	$105,950,000

With the subways built and in operation, and their projected extensions and additions completed, the unified elevated and surface lines will be capable of carrying two billion revenue passengers a year, or double the present number, Mr. Blair declares.

Big Service Increase.

The completed program will increase rush hour service in the downtown business district 110 per cent, his engineers have estimated. The proposed subway and rapid transit development will permit an additional 600 surface cars and 1,973 elevated cars to operate in the district during the peak hours. The plan provides for auxiliary or "feeder" service by motor busses wherever the demand exists and conditions for its operation are suitable.

Mr. Blair's proposal provides for acquisition of the unified elevated and surface lines by the city at will, through direct purchase or by gradual amortization of capital in the city's favor. Tentative details of this part of the scheme provide for the creation of an amortization fund into which the city's share of the transit company's revenue would be placed.

Control with Company.

In slightly more than twenty-four years, under Mr. Blair's plan, the city's equity in the combined lines will exceed one-half of the value of the properties. During that time, control of the system would remain with the company, although the city would be represented by a minority membership on the board of directors.

The city's representation on the controlling board would increase in direct ratio to its equity for twenty-four years, when control would pass to the municipality by virtue of a majority on the board, Mr. Blair points out.

The value of the combined lines if the city desired to take them over would be based on the capital account value of the surface lines, now $162,500,000, the value of the elevated lines, nearly $93,000,000, as fixed some years ago by the state commerce commission, and the total amount expended by both in track extensions, purchase of new equipment, and rehabilitation, according to the proposed plan.

It is estimated that this would make the total purchase cost of the lines nearly $350,000,000. Under the suggested plan of the purchase, more than $175,000,000 of this amount would have to be amortized by the city in twenty-four years. In seventeen years the city has received only $40,000,000 from the surface lines as its 55 per cent share of the lines' net divisible receipts.

State Street Plan.

Both surface and elevated trains would operate in the proposed four track State street subway, according to the plan. The two outside tracks would be used by the street cars, while the inner pair would be devoted to express elevated train service. North bound State street surface cars would enter the subway at 18th street and emerge again at Grand avenue on the north side.

The Washington street subway would be used by two car surface trains for the present, but would be so constructed as to permit the entry of elevated trains at a future date. The Jackson boulevard tube is also designed for immediate use by the street cars, but planned to accommodate rapid transit trains if needed.

Mr. Blair's construction program also includes the extension of the elevated lines' tracks in Wells street to Polk street and east to a connection with the existing south side structure, thus affording two rapid transit routes between the north and south sides.

Local elevated service only would be operated on the structures from 18th street on Wabash avenue and Lake street, while express trains would be routed through the State street subway.

Mr. Blair's Statement.

"The only real solution of Chicago's traction problems lies in the unification of transportation agencies with a single fare and universal transfers based upon service at cost and adequate provisions for the immediate needs and the future growth of the city," Mr. Blair says in his proposal.

"It should be possible for a Chicago citizen to board the street car in front of his door, transfer to a rapid transit train, and enter the loop through a subway, all for one fare. By the unification of the major transportation facilities of the city under one operating management the several types of service would be coördinated so that each could function to its maximum efficiency at minimum cost."

"Service at Cost."

Under the plan the lines would be "operated under a service at cost agreement between the city and the companies which will, subject to regulatory statutes, provide rates of fare adequate to produce all operating expenses, taxes, maintenance, renewals, and replacements, a fair return on the capital investment, an amortization fund for city ownership at a rate to be agreed upon, a fare stabilizing fund, and any other proper and necessary charges arising out of the operation of the transportation facilities."

The proposed fare stabilizing fund would permit the lines to meet operating expenses without raising the fares if at some time the established rate did not produce sufficient revenue, it is pointed out. The fund would be maintained between certain minimum and maximum limits.

"While the plan is presented here in the most abstract form every statement is supported by carefully worked out details, developed after more than two years of intensive study by engineers of recognized ability," Mr. Blair continues. "It is therefore no half-baked proposal. It has the approval of the best engineering judgment and has been accepted as entirely feasible from a financial standpoint by conservative investment authorities. Presentation of the plan has been determined upon at this time because many suggestions are being made for immediate subway construction. It is felt that when subways are built, as they should be at once, they should be located where they will best serve the people.

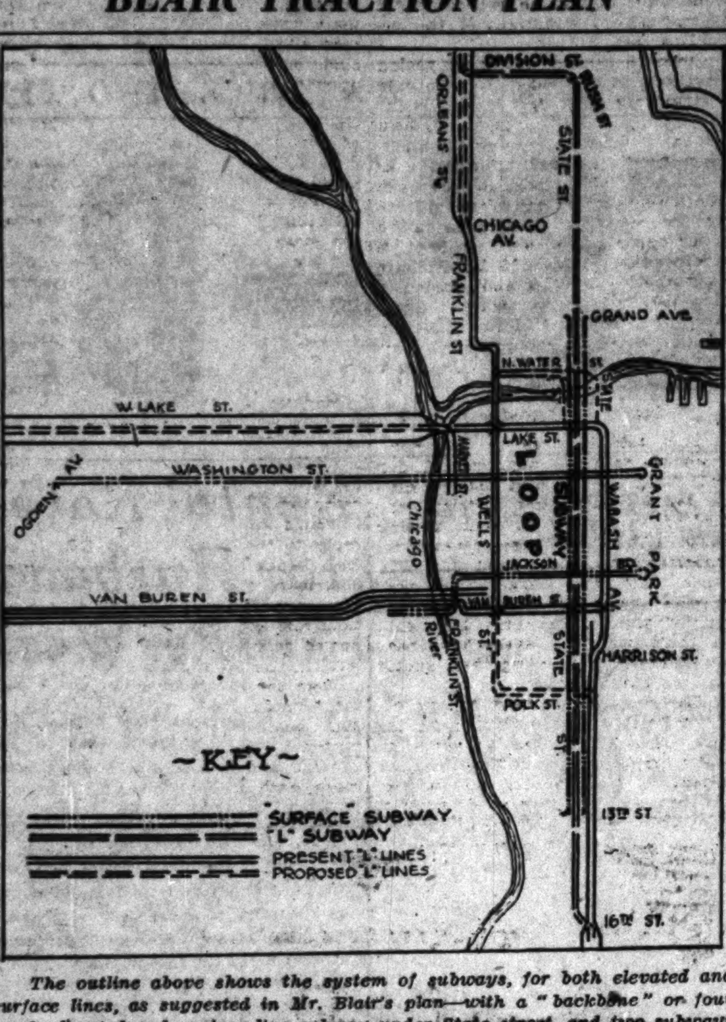
"I am convinced that regardless of the final decision on other features of the plan, the subway locations suggested here would give the maximum service, since they would accommodate both surface and elevated lines.

"Should a situation arise which would prevent the full coördination of these various agencies, the Chicago surface lines are prepared and willing to coöperate with the city in carrying out such a plan to the fullest extent possible."

Statement by Mayor.

"Mr. Blair outlined that scheme to me during our conferences with him relative to possible purchase of the surface lines properties," declared Mayor Dever last night. "I told him at that time, and I still believe it, that his plan is impossible of fulfillment. It requires long term franchises or indeterminate grants if the scheme is to be financed. In my judgment, the people would never authorize a franchise longer than twenty years if such a grant were legal."

BLAIR TRACTION PLAN



The outline above shows the system of subways, for both elevated and surface lines, as suggested in Mr. Blair's plan—with a "backbone" or four track elevated and surface line subway under State street, and two subways extending westward. The key on the map is explanatory of the proposed construction.

HUNT MAN WHO SNIPS SAMPLES FROM COAT TAILS

A search is being made by the police for a "coat chopper," an affable gentleman with grayish hair who has a penchant for cutting samples from passengers' coats on street cars and busses.

The latest victim of his shears or razor blade is L. J. Steffens, 4148 Jackson boulevard, who walked into the detective bureau last night and displayed a square hole, five by three inches, cut from the coat of a new suit.

DEPUTY SHERIFF IS HURT IN RAID ON PHOENIX CAFE

OTTO GNEWUCH.

A gang of hoodlums met Sheriff Peter M. Hoffman and fourteen deputies led by Otto Gnewuch early yesterday when they raided the soft drink parlor of Frank Styka at 15439 South Halsted street, in Phoenix. A battle royal ensued before the deputies drew their guns and put the hoodlums to rout.

Gnewuch broke his right wrist in the melee. Frank Stokes, said to have carried a revolver, and John Mungal, armed with a piece of iron pipe, were arrested. Styka also was taken into custody. A large quantity of moonshine kept in ordinary water pails was seized.

Raids were also made in Burr Oak, Harvey, Blue Island, Stickney, and Lyons.

ARREST MAN WHO REPORTED SLAIN FRIEND'S DEATH

Joseph Malaro, 907 Claremont avenue, was being held last night by the Marquette police in connection with the mysterious shooting to death of his neighbor and companion, Bruno Martini, 904 South Claremont avenue.

Malaro notified the police that Martini had been electrocuted as they entered the garage behind Martini's home. When the police arrived they found Martini had been shot with a sawed off shotgun, there being 19 bullet holes in the back and head.

Detectives said they believed Malaro and Martini quarreled while riding in the latter's car and that Martini was shot as he stepped out of the machine. If Malaro is innocent he knows who did the killing, they believe.

CAVERLY PLEADS FOR HOSPITAL TO END BOY CRIME

JUDGE JOHN R. CAVERLY.

New York, Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Scientific attention, given in time, might have saved Loeb and Leopold from committing their murder, according to a statement issued by Judge John R. Caverly, who presided at their trial, in connection with the appeal of the general committee of the neuropathic hospital for $2,500,000 for its projected building. The hospital will be the first of its kind in the country. It will be devoted to free diagnosis and treatment of incipient mental derangement.

"Such an institution will prove a bulwark to the community," said Judge Caverly. "The nation needs many of them.

"Who knows but that scientific attention to Leopold and Loeb might not have saved them from committing a great crime?

"Our centers of population hold out strong temptations and the minds of the weak are easily swayed. No doubt there are hundreds of thousands of boys in crowded cities in need of scientific examination and attention.

"An institution like the neuropathic hospital for free examination and treatment without compulsion should be established in every metropolitan center."

AUTOS KILL 3; 75 ARRESTED ON SPEEDING CHARGE

Judge La Buy Will Not Alter Stand.

Two boys and a man were killed by automobiles yesterday; another boy suffered a skull fracture.

The arrests for speeding numbered seventy-five between 10 o'clock Saturday night and noon yesterday.

WILLIAM LUKES.

Chief of Police Morgan A. Collins said the speed limit is twenty miles per hour and those exceeding it will be arrested.

Judge Joseph La Buy, candidate for reëlection, said he would continue his policy of discharging those motorists who drive "reasonably" at thirty or more miles per hour.

That was a summary last night of the campaign to save lives by forcing automobilists to comply with the speed laws. The number of deaths by automobiles in the country this year had reached 543.

La Buy Explains Stand.

The remark for which Judge La Buy was quoted: "I have made 25,000 votes by my policy," led to much discussion. He denied discharging motorists brought to trial before him to win their votes.

"What I said was that I made 25,000 friends, not votes," he stated. "A traffic policeman told me that my stand against fining those who go twenty miles or a little faster was approved by 25,000 automobile drivers, who were all for me. I see no reason now for changing my mind.

"The law says automobiles must be driven at a reasonable speed, and when, in my judgment, those arrested were driving reasonably I have discharged them, and will not do otherwise."

Freed by Judge La Buy.

More of the police captains' reports on the speed law arrests were made public yesterday. All the following, who had driven thirty miles per hour or faster, were discharged by Judge La Buy during the last week:

CANTON C. WILKELM, 30 East Ontario street, 30 miles on Vincennes avenue at 83d street.

Freed by Other Judges.

WEST JOHNSON, 5633 Woodlawn avenue, thirty miles on Woodlawn avenue at 57th street.

Some of the speeders discharged by Judge William Fetzer were:

HAROLD D. LARSON, 4437 N. Francisco avenue, thirty-two miles on Kedzie avenue at Grand avenue.

Among the defendants exceeding twenty-nine miles an hour who were discharged by Judge Frank T. Sullivan were:

S. BUURMA, 455 Clinton street, thirty miles on 12th street at Kilbourne avenue.

V. JOHNSON, 3509 Grand boulevard, thirty miles on Roosevelt road at Tripp avenue.

How Boys Were Kiled.

Those killed yesterday were William Lukes, 19 years old, 2309 South Millard avenue, and Joseph Schmidt, 16 years old, 5453 Shields avenue.

Lukes was riding in an automobile with a friend, John Hack, 2511 South Lawndale avenue, on the Willow Springs road near 5th avenue, Willow Springs, early in the morning. Hack was blinded by the lights of an automobile coming toward him and his machine plunged down a steep incline and crashed against a tree. Hack escaped with only minor injuries.

Schmidt was riding on a bicycle which was struck by an automobile truck driven by William Brehn, 2139 West Roosevelt road.

Joseph Latinsky, 60, ran in front of an automobile while fleeing from the house where he had stabbed his wife. He died before reaching the hospital.

Leonard Shapiro of 4828 Winthrop avenue was playing in front of his home when struck by a car driven by Mrs. H. D. Fargo, 4932 Kenmore avenue, who took the boy to the Ravenswood hospital. She was not arrested.

As Mrs. Alice Pascale, 11824 Michigan avenue, was bending over to kiss her 2 year old baby, Lupa, while her son, Vincent, 6, looked on, an auto, driven by John Mall, 11356 Michigan avenue, crashed over the curb at Michigan avenue and 113th street into the family group. Vincent probably will die. One of Lupa's legs was broken.

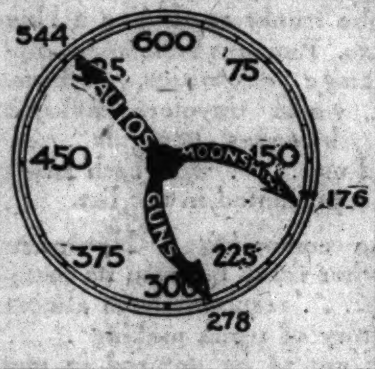
HANDS OF DEATH



Women Rout Holdup Trio by Screaming

Screams foiled three bandits early yesterday morning.

DISINTER BODY TO SOLVE RICH WOMAN'S DEATH

Greenville, Ill., Oct. 19.—Authorities of Bond county today joined Albert Button, special deputy of the sheriff's office in Jackson, Mich., in the investigation of the death of Miss May Tefft, 34, reputed wealthy land owner, who died in Jackson under circumstances which aroused suspicion. Her home was in Spring Arbor, Mich.

The body was ordered exhumed from its grave here in order that the contents of the stomach could be analyzed and upon the report of this analysis depends further action to be taken in the case. At the time of Miss Tefft's death a physician signed a death certificate giving lobar pneumonia as the cause.

Deputy Sheriff Button and the county authorities here are preparing to question a young woman who acted as Miss Tefft's companion and who was named as co-respondent in the divorce action filed by Mrs. Robert E. Lee, sister of the dead woman. The young woman, it was reported, had been named in Miss Tefft's will as one of the beneficiaries.

An incompleted death bed statement by Miss Tefft has added to the mystery surrounding the death. Those who were at her bedside said Miss Tefft had attempted to tell of a hidden treasure. She died, however, before being able to coherently express her directions.

BUTLER CHARGES BIG SLUSH FUND FOR LA FOLLETTE

BY FRANK BUTZOW.

An impartial investigation of campaign funds by the Borah committee is all that the Republican national committee asks, Chairman William M. Butler declared yesterday at G. O. P. headquarters.

WM. M. BUTLER. [Harris & Ewing.]

Such an investigation, Mr. Butler asserted, will disclose a La Follette "slush" fund of $500,000 in Wisconsin alone, an amount far out of proportion to the fund that Senator La Follette says was raised for the G. O. P. in Pennsylvania.

Borah Goes East.

This counter by the Republican national chairman to the charges made by Senator La Follette and his attorney, Frank P. Walsh, who says a fund of perhaps $10,000,000 or $12,000,000 is being raised to elect Coolidge and Dawes, was made as Senator Borah [Rep., Ida.] and his committee left for Washington to open hearings there this week into the campaign funds of all parties.

Mr. Walsh, who is representing Senator La Follette before the investigating committee, also left for the east yesterday.

With the controversy over campaign funds overshadowing all other issues for the time being, Mr. Butler's statement in effect charges that La Follette was engaged in a "slush fund" conspiracy of his own at the same time he was raising a loud cry against the use of huge sums of money in support of the Republican ticket.

Numerous subpoenas are understood to have been issued by the Borah committee for its inquiry this week into funds raised outside as well as within the managing committees of the political parties.

"Since the senatorial investigating committee has decided to continue hearings into campaign funds I want to say once more that the Republican national committee willingly coöperates in producing such information as is desired," Chairman Butler said. "We hope that the committee will go into the matter of the funds raised by our opponents as well. On Sept. 9, in Milwaukee, Wis., 100 La Follette leaders held a meeting and decided to raise $500,000 in that state. Among those present were Herman Ekern, attorney general, who presided; Gov. John J. Blaine, and State Treasurer Sol Levitan.

Split Among Districts.

"This $500,000 was to be apportioned to various congressional districts, each one of eight districts raising $43,000, and three districts, the third, four, and fifth, each raising $55,000. These were the quotas fixed. Proportionately, that fund for Wisconsin was much larger than that proposed by certain Republicans in Pennsylvania. I can only hope that the third party managers have been more successful in filling their quotas than we have.

"The Republican party has no objection to the raising of funds for the third party candidates by such gigantic organizations as the American Federation of Labor or the railroad brotherhoods. But such funds must of necessity become the subject of inquiry by the senatorial committee if it is to continue hearings at this time.

"The election is just two weeks away. Already we have had smoke screens to divert attention from the main issues. During these next fourteen days there will be many more such smoke screens put up by our opponents. But we go into this last phase of the campaign confident that we shall win. We ask the citizens of the country to keep their minds fixed upon the fundamental issues instead of the charges and counter charges which some of our opponents, selecting the senatorial committee as the stage, will make.

"Our reports indicate, and polls taken by newspapers and organizations throughout the land affirm, that Calvin Coolidge and Charles G. Dawes will be overwhelmingly elected on Nov. 4."

"Only $40,000," Is Reply.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 19.—Wisconsin to date has contributed $40,000 to the campaign fund of Senator La Follette, according to a statement here tonight by Eric Onstad, one of La Follette's campaign leaders in Wisconsin. Mr. Onstad's announcement was made in reply to the demand of William Butler, Republican national committee chairman, that the senate committee now investigating campaign contributions and expenditures turn to the purported raising of $500,000 for La Follette in the Badger state alone.

That there had been an announcement made to the effect that such a sum would be raised Mr. Onstad admitted.

"The announcement, however, was more enthusiastic than actual facts justified," he added.

M'ADOO 'ALL IN'; CAN'T STUMP BUT CHEERS 'EM ON

So He Pats Bob on Back and Derides Cal.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

WILLIAM G. McADOO.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—From his bed in Johns Hopkins hospital at Baltimore, William G. McAdoo has written to Senator Claude A. Swanson, chairman of the speakers' bureau of the Davis-Bryan campaign, a letter given out tonight by the Democratic national committee in which he regrets the necessity of abandoning his plans for a speaking trip in the interest of Mr. Davis, but promises wratever aid he is able to give.

Division in the progressive ranks within the Democratic party due to the presence in the field of a third party ticket is deplored by McAdoo, who nevertheless pays tribute to Senator La Follette for the "courageous fight he has made against entrenched privilege and the invisible forces of government, and for the fight he is now making to drive the corrupt and incompetent Republican administration out of power."

Scores Cal's "Indifference."

President Coolidge is scored as "a personally honest man" who "has shown an amazing indifference to the criminal acts which have brought reproach upon the administration."

The record of the last four years is reviewed and condemned, and an appeal made to "all progressives" to join with the Democratic party in electing Davis and Bryan in order to "drive corruption and graft out of Washington, to purify the government, and to accomplish the reforms demanded by the people."

"I regret that I have been obliged to abandon my plans to make an extensive speaking trip in the national campaign," the letter says. "Not only have I been compelled to remain in the hospital longer than anticipated but my physician, Dr. Hugh H. Young, emphatically advises against my undertaking the strenuous work involved in a speechmaking campaign.

Must Have "Rest Period."

"He says that after leaving the hospital I must have a 'period of rest and quiet before undertaking any fatiguing or strenuous work.' I am, however, through letters and telegrams to my friends in various states, doing my utmost to help the cause.

"I am convinced that the only chance to drive corruption and graft out of Washington, to purify the government, and to accomplish the reforms demanded by the people is to elect Davis and Bryan.

"The alternative to Davis is Coolidge, reaction, and chaos. The events of the last fifteen months, since Mr. Coolidge has been President, have demonstrated beyond all question his utter incapacity for leadership.

"Mr. Coolidge has no sympathy with the common men and women of America. Their cause is not his cause.

"I will not deny that Mr. Coolidge is personally honest. I do not believe, for instance, that he would violate the eighth commandment, but as an honest man he has shown an amazing indifference to the criminal acts which have brought reproach upon the administration."

WOMAN GIVES UP $30 TO BANDITS, BUT CAR? NO!!

Miss Alice Kramer, proprietress of a north side shop, knows when a holdup man has enough. Three bandits held her up last night as she was putting up her car in a garage at the rear of her home, 4406 Magnolia avenue, and she handed over $30. When they demanded her car, however, she snatched the keys out and refused to give them up.

"That money is enough for you," she announced emphatically. "I won't give you the car."

The bandits were forced to escape on foot.

'MRS.' PREFIXED TO 4 NAMES ON ILLINOIS BALLOT

No protest has been made and no official opinion has been sought regarding the use of the title "Mrs." on the Illinois ballot, and election officials yesterday were therefore unable to state definitely whether the use of the prefix by four women running as presidential electors in Illinois would result in charges of illegality as in New York.

In New York protests have been made against placing the names of two women selected as electors by the Democrats on the ballot because the title "Mrs." has been used. John E. Voorhis, president of the board of elections, is inclined to the belief that use of the title is illegal as it cannot be used in registering voters. The same registration rule applies in Illinois.

One Uses Husband's Name.

Of the four Illinois women whose names will appear on the ballot with the prefix "Mrs." only one has used the given name of her husband. One has used her initials. The other two, like those who omitted the prefix, are certified under their own given names and the family names of their husbands.

Secretary of State Emmerson last night expressed the opinion that the prefix would not invalidate a woman elector who uses her own given name and that the prefix "Mrs." is only a superfluity. In the other case they were not so positive, although they said all the names will go on the ballot as certified.

Involved in Controversy.

Here are the women electors as they have been certified with the "Mrs." prefix: Mrs. Natalia Porter Pegram, Republican; Mrs. Helen T. Judd and Mrs. George Leach, Workers party; and Mrs. M. H. Landis, Prohibition party.

Women electors of the major parties who did not use any prefix to indicate whether or not they are married are:

Bertha Baur, Republican; Pauline Prince, Democrat; Anna K. Hulburd, Jane Addams, and Marie C. Plumb, Progressives.

COOLIDGE BOOKED FOR 'BUSY' WEEK; TO SPEAK TWICE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—President Coolidge spent today resting after a rather strenuous week-end. The President and Mrs. Coolidge attended services this morning at the First Congregational church.

Mr. Coolidge will remain at his desk during the closing weeks of the campaign, limiting his participation, as heretofore, to conferences with various party leaders. The President has impressed upon his recent callers the necessity for organization to get out the vote and to this end his efforts in a partial way will be directed.

Two speeches are on the program of Mr. Coolidge for this week. Thursday night he will address the eastern division of the chamber of commerce of the United States meeting here and Saturday he will deliver a talk by radio to the meeting of the Federated Societies of Jewish charities in New York. The Thursday night address also will be broadcast.

Leading Meat Packers Open Big Convention

Seventeen of the leading meat packers of the United States will give ten-minute talks today as the annual convention of the Institute of American Meat Packers opens at the Drake hotel. Charles E. Herrick, president of the institute, will preside and deliver the leading address.

Among the speakers will be Arthur Meeker, Oscar G. Mayer, Arthur Lowenstein, L. D. H. Weld, W. Lee Lewis, R. F. Eagle, J. P. Harris, Myrick D. Harding, Thomas E. Wilson, and Prof. William H. Spencer, director of the Institute of Meat Packing.

FOSTER HITS AT LA FOLLETTE IN POLITICAL DEALS

New York, Oct. 19.—William Z. Foster, speaking here today in behalf of his campaign as presidential candidate of the Workers' party, declared that Robert M. La Follette, independent presidential candidate, has in the present campaign been guilty of the most unscrupulous political trading ever witnessed in American politics.

"Here in New York he (La Follette) is entering into a deal with Al Smith, the Tammany candidate, with the Socialist party in apparent agreement," said the Workers' party candidate. "La Follette is to hand over the Progressive and Socialist votes to Smith, and in return Smith will knife Davis and throw his Tamany following to the Wisconsin senator."

POLL INDICATES DEMOCRATS FACE TWO HARD WEEKS

Their Ticket on West Side in Peril.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

THE TRIBUNE'S three polls of the west side last week demonstrate conclusively what should and must—if possible—be done by local democratic leaders. It maps out the course they will attempt to sail as clearly as a public announcement from them would make it.

The Democratic leaders will put on "the works" for the remaining two weeks of the campaign. They must, to preserve their own interests. They cannot afford to permit the returns Nov. 4 to duplicate the story now told by THE TRIBUNE'S straw ballots. It would be highly injurious, if not suicidal, to allow John W. Davis to get only 10 or 12 per cent of the votes of the west side in view of the fact that he spent a large part of last week in Illinois from which he cannot reasonably expect one electoral vote. Twice as good a showing in the election as in the straw vote to date is essential to Democratic leaders for a maintenance of their influence and power.

Many Have Strayed.

In addition they have more than a patriotic interest in their local ticket, because on it some of the hardworking members of the organization are candidates. Probably the most prominent is Michael L. Igoe, candidate for state's attorney. It is easier to get votes for him and other Democrats on the county ticket, if the Jeffersonian voters are gotten back in the Democratic column. The poll shows that many of them on the west side have strayed over to the independent column to indicate a preference for La Follette; and then a large percentage of these have skipped over to the Republican column to mark a straw for Gov. Small. The next move is to get these Democrats to hop back to the Democratic column and mark a square for Candidate Igoe.

The poll indicates the amount of work in this direction which the Democratic leaders will attempt. For state's attorney the west side poll accounts for 3,739 straws, which is nine more votes than were cast in the poll of the same division of the city for governor; but the total straw ballot for President in the same territory numbered 4,092.

Three Polls Compared.

A comparison of the three west side polls for the three sets of candidates may be summarized as follows:

FOR STATES ATTORNEY.
Candidate—	Party-straws.
Crowe, Republican	2,202
Igoe, Democrat	1,045
Thompson, Independent	331
Uretz, Socialist	161
Total	3,739
FOR GOVERNOR.
Small	2,434
Jones	900
Lafis	201
McDonald	185
Total	3,730
FOR PRESIDENT.
Coolidge	1,595
Davis	408
La Follette	2,014
Foster	75
Total	4,092

In this strongly Democratic territory Davis polled only 9.97 per cent of the straws cast, as compared with 24.19 per cent of Jones, Democratic candidate for governor, and 27.94 per cent for Igoe, Democratic candidate for prosecutor.

Crowe, the Republican candidate for prosecutor, made a much better showing than Coolidge, but not so good as Gov. Small. Coolidge polled 38.97 per cent of the straws, Crowe 58.88, and Small 65.43. As heretofore related, La Follette was the high presidential candidate with 49.21 per cent of the votes cast, and Foster received the remaining 1.83 per cent.

The argument between the ministers of the gospel and others relative to the merits of the candidates for prosecutor does not appear to have aided Thompson, the independent candidate.

POLITICAL NOTES

All Democratic state and county candidates will be present at a luncheon to be given on Wednesday at the Auditorium hotel by ward committee women in honor of Mrs. Emily Newell Blair, vice chairman of the Democratic national committee, who is on a speaking tour of the west and middle west. Miss Harriet Vittum, Republican, will speak in behalf of Norman L. Jones, Democratic candidate for governor.

Frank L. Smith, Republican state chairman, in a statement issued yesterday, said his prediction of a 500,000 plurality for the Republican national and state ticket in Illinois still stands, despite party bitterness and discord. He said he will not engage in any mud slinging or violent language against opponents of the G. O. P. nominees, nor call attention to any of their shortcomings.

Headquarters of Col. A. A. Sprague, Democratic candidate for United States senator, yesterday issued a list of business and professional men, most of them Republicans, who have pledged their support to him. The list includes H. Milne McIntosh, Henry D. Sturtevant, O. E. Taft, W. H. Bush, Fred P. Boynton, J. W. Embree, Calvin Fentress, Jules Girardin, Charles R. Holden, Arthur S. Jackson, J. R. Nichols, Joseph A. Rushton, Tom Miller, Cyrus Bentley, Hubbard Carpenter, A. S. Peabody, Victor Elting, Frederick K. Copeland, Carter H. Fitz-Hugh, Thomas W. Algeo, Stewart B. Andrew, and William A. Erwin.

State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, Republican candidate for reëlection, will speak at a massmeeting at the Adelphi theater at noon today.

Resolutions have been adopted by the Chicago Teamsters' Joint council indorsing John J. Gorman, Republican candidate for congress in the Sixth district.

Col. A. A. Sprague, Democratic candidate for United States senator, will be the first candidate who will speak at the open forum conducted by the Press Club of Chicago. Col. Sprague will speak Wednesday noon following a luncheon.

Stolen Safe Containing $250 Found in Quarry

A small steel safe was found by the Hyde Park police yesterday in a quarry at Stony Island avenue and 93d street. It was intact. The safe, containing $200 and a $50 Liberty bond, had been stolen from the candy store of Alfred Krise at 1466 East 63d street Saturday night, the police believe.

ESTATE TRUSTEE SLIPS INTO HOME, HANGS HIMSELF

Police last night were investigating the condition of an estate of which James Franta, 30, 3115 South Millard avenue, who hanged himself in his attic, was recently made administrator by the will of his father.

The investigation was made when Mrs. Franta told detectives Franta might have been worrying over the estate.

Mrs. Franta thought her husband, a clerk, had not returned from work Saturday. When he had not been seen yesterday morning Mrs. Franta made a search, believing he might have slipped into the house unnoticed. She found the body hanging from a rafter in the attic. Franta had been dead for hours.

PEKING ARMY OF 20,000 BEATEN; 1,400 CAPTURED

Chang Wins Victory on Jehol Front.

BY RODERICK MATHESON.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

MUKDEN, Oct. 19.—A communique today reports a signal victory yesterday by Chang Tso-lin's Manchurian troops on the Jehol front at Julingshan, where the third brigade of the second army, under Gen. Chang Chun Chang, scattered the main Chihli army, 20,000 strong, capturing 1,400, including thirty-one officers, 1,800 rifles, and three guns, and seven machine gunners.

The battle began on the afternoon of Oct. 16, continuing three days and two nights. The Chihliites fell back to Tadachutse, where they made a final stand. The Mukdenites drove an attack on the center, smashing the Chihli line, taking the town, and scattering the enemy.

Another report from the Jehol front says a Mukden squadron of three planes attacked 4,000 Chihliites advancing to relieve Pingchiian, due east of Jehol. The troops were marching in close order when bombed. The troops retreated in disorder. The garrison at Pingchiian is expected to capitulate shortly, removing the last barrier to the advance on the city of Jehol.

Split Wu's Army.

Flushed with victory, the Manchurian troops are giving the defeated armies of Gen. Wu Pei-fu no respite. They are continuing a strong offensive in an attempt to annihilate the entire Chihli force in the neighborhood of Shanhaikwan, according to reports given out here.

Mukden airplanes are driving the Chihli fleet to the sea. They have sunk two ships and damaged others. Gen. Wu is reported to be aboard the cruiser Hai Chi, whose whereabouts or destination are unknown.

A communique describes the situation of the remainder of the Chihliites around Shanhaikwan as desperate. Gen. Wu's troops, with which he expected to drive the Mukdenites from Chihli are now cut in three sections, each unable to communicate with the others and unable to secure supplies and munitions.

Claim Half of Enemy Casualties.

One smaller force is close to Shanhaikwan, surrounded by the northerners. Another force is cut off at Chinwangtao, with the third holding the prepared defenses at Lanchow.

These troops consist of what is left of the 3d, 15th, 28th, and 23d divisions and the 12th and 13th bridgades. Mukden estimates that half their strength is already casualties, with every prospect of the surrender of the rest.

Mukden's heavy losses are minimized in all official reports.

Leave Wounded to Die.

The work of collecting the dead from the battlefields has been proceeding for the last ten days. Long strings of carts convey the bodies to common trench graves. Friends and foes are intermingled. The searchers are finding a number of seriously wounded surviving the two or three days of bitterly cold weather. Many of these beg to be killed to end their agonies, but the religion of the Chinese forbids cold blooded killing. The wounded are simply left until they die, when they are gathered up and buried.

ARREST PEACEMAKERS

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

SHANGHAI, Oct. 19.—[11 p. m.]—Negotiations between the Chinese chamber of commerce and the officers of the defeated Chekiang troops broke up in a row today, and the foreign police of the international settlement were forced to arrest several of the participants of both sides.

The military officials yesterday notified the chamber of commerce that that body must pay over $1,000,000 for the repatriation of the defeated troops, and this morning a meeting was arranged at the chamber of commerce building for the payment of the first $100,000. When the military officers came to the meeting the chamber of commerce officials told them it was necessary to go to another place for the final arrangements. After the motor cars started the militarists got suspicious and charged the merchants with attempted abduction.

A fight started in a public street of the foreign settlement, and the police arrested the whole gang and took them to the central station. After a quizzing, the whole crowd was released, but the Chekiang troops who are still massed around the railroad station and armed, are in an ugly mood tonight at the alleged attempt to double cross them by the merchants. American volunteers and other units have again been mobilized for twenty-four hour duty.

'PROPHET' DAVIS HANDS AT LEAST 6 STATES TO BOB

It May Be 8, but They Aren't His, He Says.

BY DONALD EWING.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—La Follette will carry six or eight states and will keep Coolidge from any chance of being elected, John W. Davis, Democratic presidential candidate, said today in his first prediction as to the strength of the third party candidate.

Mr. Davis, in a discussion with all newspapermen in his party, declared that neither he nor any member of the Democratic party had any fear of La Follette. The fear, he insisted, should lie entirely in Republican ranks. The nominee would not name the states he expects to go to La Follette, but said they all normally were Republican.

The statements came after a discussion of Charles Evans Hughes' recent declaration that La Follette had ruined Democratic chances of victory.

Some Questions for Hughes.

"Is it fear of defeat that leads this spokesman of the Republicans to urge a combination against Senator La Follette," Mr. Davis asked. "Is the chief of the cabinet conceding that the La Follette rebellion threatens to make the reëlection of Mr. Coolidge impossible?

"If so, it must be admitted this fear is not without foundation. A great division has come on the Republican party. It is a Republican who is leading the revolt which may snatch six or eight states from the Repupblican column with the support of thousands of discontented members of the party."

"This open insurrection is but another indication of that dissension which has existed between the President and his party in congress, which resulted in constant opposition and clash on such propositions as the world court, the Mellon plan, the Japanese immigration bill and the bonus bill.

No, Democrats Not Afraid.

"The Democratic party, while opposed to Senator La Follette and his supporters, does not share in this fear of them. Our confidence rests mainly on the fact that those who are justifiably discontented with the present state of affairs will find their relief in the platform we are advocating and the promise of reforms to be carried out.

"No, the Democratic party does not fear Senator La Follette. It makes its fight on the faith of those upholding a just cause. It is armored in the knowledge that its principles are truly progressive."

SEARCH CHICAGO FOR TONG KILLER FROM DETROIT

Search for the slayers of Eng Sang Chuey, newest victim in the countrywide feud between warring Chinese tongs, who was murdered in Detroit on Saturday night, turned to Chicago last night.

Sang Chuey was seated about a big table with a number of friends when, without warning, several around the table opened fire upon him. Six bullets took effect and he was dead when police arrived to find the place deserted.

Six Chinese were arrested.

ILLINOIS TO HEAR C. BRYAN, NATIVE SON, THIS WEEK

La Follette Also Due Downstate.

[Townsend Photo.]

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 19.—The Democrats and independents will be found fighting tooth and nail in Illinois, one of the main battlegrounds of the campaign, as the final full week of the presidential race gets under way.

While Senator La Follette, independent candidate for President, is speaking in the northern part of the state, Gov. Charles W. Bryan, Democratic candidate for Vice President, will be taking a downward and upward swing in the southern Illinois coal regions.

Arriving here this morning just five hours after John W. Davis, the Democratic presidential nominee, departed after speaking here and in East St. Louis, Ill., Gov. Bryan spent the day resting and preparing for his first speaking tour east of the Mississippi river, which begins tomorrow and continues through Tuesday, with speeches in small farming and laboring communities in Illinois. The four remaining days of the week are to be given over to addresses in Ohio and Indiana.

La Follette in Western Windup.

La Follette Special, en Route to Omaha, Sioux City, Ia., Oct. 19.—Senator La Follette was on his way tonight to Omaha, where he will deliver his last campaign speech west of the Mississippi river tomorrow night. The senator plans to remain in his private car over night at Manilla, Ia.

In addition to engagements at Rock Island, Ill., Tuesday night and Peoria Wednesday night, Senator La Follette will invade Michigan for an address Thursday night at Grand Rapids, and will speak Friday night in Syracuse, N. Y. After a two day rest he will plunge into the final week in Baltimore, on Oct. 27, and speak the following night in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Engagements have not yet been booked, but plans are being made to have Mr. La Follette speak at least once in New England, probably in Boston, and to go again into Pennsylvania. He may deliver a speech in Pittsburgh and also visit Buffalo, N. Y., before going to Cleveland to conclude his campaign Saturday night, Nov. 1.

SHENANDOAH IS GLIDING ITS WAY BACK EASTWARD

Astoria, Ore., Oct. 19.—[By the Associated Press.]—The navy dirigible Shenandoah, en route from Tacoma to San Diego, after turning inland at the mouth of the Columbia river, apparently headed for Portland, turned south again at 5:05 p. m. after flying over this city and started south along the coast.

Leaves at 12:10.

Refueled and her supply of helium gas replenished, the dirigible was expected by her officers to reach San Diego in thirty hours, or soon after 6 p. m. tomorrow, unless unfavorable weather impedes her progress.

Mary Depta, 9 years old, was slightly injured yesterday when a gas main exploded in the cellar of the Depta home, 2725 Warren avenue. The first floor was wrecked and several windows in the neighborhood were broken. Mr. and Mrs. Tony Depta and their other three children were uninjured. Firemen could not explain the cause of the blast.

100 HURT WHEN STAND FALLS AT FOOTBALL GAME

Police Say Managers Then Locked Gates.

More than 100 persons were injured yesterday when a grandstand seating 1,000 and filled to capacity, collapsed in the Roseland Panthers' football park at 116th and Halsted streets

While the injured were being dragged from the wreckage and hysterical women, many of them with babes, were being helped from the mass of shattered timbers, the management of the park locked the gates and refused to allow the police to enter.

The accident occurred at 2:30 in the afternoon and it was 4:30 before flivver squads, ambulances and firemen gained entrance to the enclosure.

Three-Ply Inquiry.

Within three hours after the accident three separate investigations had been launched. Ald. Sheldon W. Govier [9th] announced he would make a thorough inquiry as to the condition of the stands at the park.

Lieut. Roger Murphy of the Kensington station said he would find out from Building Commissioner Frank L. Doherty when the stands were last inspected and consult with the city law department as to what steps the police might take in making arrests.

Herman Burghardt, 5726 North Western avenue, one of the injured, declared he would ask Congressman Sabath immediately to start proceedings against Alex Lindsay, manager of both the football team and the park.

Some of the Injured.

Capt. Paul Wheeler, 10435 Hamlin avenue, commanding officer, Kensington station; twisted leg.

Injured Set at 100.

It was estimated that at least 100 others were badly bruised and lacerated by splintered boards but escaped without broken bones and were given treatment at nearby drug stores or taken to doctors' offices by friends and relatives.

The crowd had assembled to witness a game between the Roseland Panthers and the Spring Valley Wildcats. The game had not yet started and about 2,000 persons already were inside the enclosure when the crash came. The stand which fell, an uncovered structure about ten feet high and with about five tiers of seats, extended along the entire west side of the playing field and continued at right angles across a portion of the south end.

VOTE FOR NORMAN L. JONES.

A reader who does not distinguish between news and editorial opinion infers that THE TRIBUNE favors the reëlection of Len Small because it publishes straw vote results which indicate that Small is running ahead of Judge Jones in Democratic wards of the west side.

We publish the results because the votes run that way. We do not propose to suppress them because we do not like them; and we do not like them.

We do not favor the reëlection of Len Small as governor. We said this repeatedly and unequivocally in the primary campaign, and gave our reasons at length. A majority of Republicans who voted in the party primary did not agree with THE TRIBUNE and renominated him for the governorship.

That primary under the law binds the party machinery. It places Len Small's name on the ballot as a Republican. It does not bind the conscience of THE TRIBUNE or the conscience of any Republican or of any citizen. It does not make Len Small a Republican. In our opinion he is not a Republican. In this campaign he is a syndicate candidate, supported by some Republicans, and, as the straw votes show, by Democrats and La Follettettes. Len Small is not a Republican. His platform is contrary to the Republican national platform and to the principles of Republicanism.

In our opinion, far from its being the duty of any Republican to vote for Len Small, it is the duty of all Republicans to vote against him because they are Republicans. He is a discredit to the Republican party of Illinois and, as his platform shows, a renegade from it and a traitor to Republican principles.

Good citizens, regardless of party, should vote for Norman L. Jones, the Democratic candidate for governor.

KEEP IT SOUTH WATER STREET.

South Water street is the oldest street in Chicago. In name, in history, and in location it is the most picturesque. Chicago lives in its names as much as in its engineering works. This name should be preserved.

Charles H. Wacker is capable of a graceful deed. He has done much for Chicago. He will do much more. His own suggestion that South Water street be left South Water street would be a graceful act for which Chicago would be grateful.

A park, a new boulevard, a memorial might be given Mr. Wacker's name. He deserves it. But his name—in spite of a recent act of the city council—should not replace historic South Water. That is not fair to Chicago. It is not fair to Mr. Wacker.

Keep it South Water street, says Thomas A. Smyth in a recent letter to the Voice of the People. Mr. Smyth is right. The council should reconsider and reverse its action. Keep it South Water street.

SPEED OR SAFETY IN THE STREETS.

Nearly every automobile driver some time or other has said of a road incident, "Fortunately I was going slow." That is when the child or the adult or the other car was avoided. We are confirmed in the belief that something just shading under thirty miles an hour is not safe nor reasonable traffic in a city. A death clock which is going up towards 550 thus far for this year is an argument which is hard to combat.

Chief Collins is trying to slow the traffic down to twenty miles an hour. We think he is right. He is not supported by the judges in the speeders' courts and Chief Justice Olson says he hasn't got the law right. If a man is driving over twenty miles an hour in the less congested districts of the city it is prima facie evidence that he was not going at a reasonable speed. That is what the law says, but it leaves many things to be determined before it is proved that in the place in which the man speeded he was doing something unreasonable. It might be a sparsely settled street with no one in sight and a judge might say that twenty-five or twenty-six miles or even more was not inconsiderate or unlawful there.

It's a jiggered law and it permits Judge Joseph La Buy, for instance, to dismiss three-fourths or more of the cases the police bring to him. Justice Olson sustains the courts. Judge La Buy says a traffic cop told him his reasonable handling of speeders' cases made him 25,000 votes. A candid and probably truthful Municipal court judge.

Legalistically the judges are probably right, but in a matter of public policy Chief Collins is dead right and he can maintain that even under the present law. Twenty-seven miles an hour in particular conditions in some Chicago streets might be safe—until a child runs out chasing a ball.

At twenty miles the driver might have stopped his car or he might otherwise have avoided hitting the child. At twenty-seven he didn't do it and he couldn't. So there is the unreason of a child needing the undertaker.

Collins, we assume, is trying to make twenty miles an hour the accepted habit of driving in the streets. Add ten miles to that and you have a fairly good passenger train speed. This city would have a fit if 200,000 passenger trains were taking their own direction through the streets at something under thirty miles an hour and by Oct. 18 in this year had killed 541 people.

No one would say that was reasonable. No one ever did. The railroads elevated their tracks and because they were responsible for damages the millions they spent were of economic advantage. Judges who decline to help the police may get votes. The parents of a child who has been buried do not know what judge to hold responsible. The driver who has been discharged knows the judge who let him off.

The question is one of security or speed. We believe that the speed is a nervous or willful habit without any justification. Time is important, but not that important.

WHY PUNISH NONVOTERS?

Voting is a privilege. It is also a duty. But if we are going to punish by law and prosecution the neglect of every duty, we are going to make life in this country intolerable. Our tendency to discipline our neighbors for doing what we don't approve or not doing what we approve already has gone a considerable way toward making laws contemptible and their equal application impossible.

Judge Landis' indignation at the general neglect of the suffrage is to his credit, but we cannot follow him as to remedy. Compulsion for nonvoters is not a new idea and it is not, in our opinion, a good one. You might as well try to compel people to be sensible. There are theorists and reformers who are for doing that, but it does not work. The assumption of those who want to compel citizens to vote is that voting is a good thing in itself. It is not. The nation is not helped by foolish votes. If a man or woman does not know how to vote, his or her vote will be controlled by some one else or cast blindly. If a citizen is so little interested in public questions or in government that he will not take the trouble to vote, we are as well or better off without his or her vote. The idea that this country is suffering because so many of the "better" class, the "educated" class, do not vote is erroneous. If men and women who are well to do and educated, in the conventional sense of that term, have so little sense of their own interests and their own responsibility as to shirk voting, they cannot be supplied by law with that sense, and without it they would better not vote. They are no loss.

Among those who vote voluntarily there is ignorance, fear, prejudice, self interest, as well as intelligence, public spirit, and a wholesome interest in politics and government. While human life and character are what they are, the democratic will expressed through the vote will be a variegated thing of many motives good and bad. But it will not be raised or purified by law and penalties, to force people who, having the duty and privilege to take part in our system of self-government, are so languid and shortsighted and ignorant as not to vote unless compelled to by fear of punishment. Only citizens who wish to vote, only citizens who care enough about the vote to use it, are wanted at the polls. It is well that the others stay away until they wake up.

Appeals to nonvoters to vote are advisable. Efforts by education and suasion to make citizens realize their duty to vote are advisable. But the proposal to compel them by legal penalties is only another expression of our delusion that you can create moral responsibility by force of law.

MAKING THE BROWN BROTHERS DRY AND GOOD.

It took the United States some time to find out that the Filipinos were escaping Volstead, but the discovery has been made and, with considerable conflict of bureaucratic authority, it seems that a ship cannot get clean papers for a Filipino port if she's dirty with liquor.

The Filipinos have their own legislature with Gen. Wood to sit on the lid a bit so that the most spread eagle patriots cannot get rich quick by printing money or looting the bank or selling out all the natural resources. Gen. Wood is properly cursed out for that both here and there.

The Democratic party here is pledged to give the islanders their liberty pronto and the Republicans to give it to them some other time. The Filipinos say they want it with the United States writing the fire and life insurance, but keeping the marines away from the treasury door.

We say that they ought to be free for our own good, but the American retentionists think it wouldn't be good for the children to go out in the dark alone. Something from Japan might eat them up and, rather than have that happen, the retentionists would prefer to denude Kansas, Iowa, Illinois, and a few other states of all their active young men between the ages of 21 and 26.

Nevertheless the Filipinos have a good deal of liberty except when it comes to deciding whether to have tea or rum at tiffin, or rum and tea. They may be able to decide how they shall run their government, how they shall conduct their schools, raise their children, fit themselves into the world, and otherwise live their lives, but we'll decide what they drink for beverages, and if they want beer, sake, grape wine, or any fermentation of rice, fruit, vegetables, or grain we'll tell them where they head in.

It will be our way of doing things to turn them loose finally on condition that they never touch liquor, and then to guarantee them against any Japanese aggression.

Editorial of the Day

THAT WICKED REPUBLICAN TARIFF.

[Des Moines Capital.]

In the Democratic platform we read the following pronouncement on the tariff: "The Fordney-McCumber tariff act is the most unjust, unscientific and dishonest tariff measure ever enacted in our history. It is class legislation which defrauds all the people for the benefit of a few; it heavily increases the cost of living, penalizes agriculture, corrupts the government, fosters paternalism, and, in the long run, does not benefit the very interests for which it was enacted."

But where can the opponents of the Republican tariff find the dire results of this iniquitous measure? Under this "unjust and dishonest" tariff five million unemployed workers found their way back into industrial employment at good wages. Duties on imports have added more than a billion dollars to the federal treasury and at the same time exports from the United States to foreign countries have increased more than a billion and a half dollars.

DESKOLOGY.

DERMOID TUMORS.

E. M. B. writes: "We have been discussing the dermoid tumor. May we ask you for a discussion of this interesting subject?

REPLY.

The dermoid tumor is congenital. It develops from the skin covering and therefore it generally takes the form of a cyst filled with such skin material as sebaceous matter, or grease, hairs, teeth, nails, and strips of skin. This is the explanation of them.

As the body forms the skin grows around it like a wrapper. In a typical place, one skin wrapper grows from the middle of the back around the right of the body, while another grows around the left. These two meet in the middle line and grow together to make a complete wrapper. Sometimes a little tab of extra skin is sheared off just as the extra batter is sheared off an ice cream cone, a waffle, or a muffin. If this little extra tab of skin gets caught in some tissue below the surface, it is liable to develop a dermoid. Dermoids, therefore, are found around locations where the skin wrapper of the body has a seam. They are located in the chest and abdominal wall in the middle line in front, along the backbone, around the pelvis, along the sides of the neck, and around the mouth, nose, eyes, and ears.

A dermoid may not grow at all for years or it may grow very slowly. It generally causes no pain.

It is not related to cancer. As a rule the only reason for operating on a dermoid is because it is unsightly, or is inconvenient, or is in the way because the host gets afraid. So much for ordinary dermoids.

In the books on tumors the chapter devoted to this subject is generally headed "Dermoids and Teratomas." A teratoma is an exalted dermoid. It is also a congenital tumor and one due to error in development. In a teratoma a part of a developing tissue or even a separate ovum gets caught in the growing body. One of the simpler teratomas may contain bone cartilage and muscle, as well as skin and structures derived from skin. Some of the museum freaks and monstrosities are teratomas. Some of the fused twins, like the Siamese twins, are teratomas or monstrosities developing on the teratoma principle. When a teratoma is included in the body it generally grows slowly or not at all and causes no pain.

THINK TWICE ABOUT THIS.

Mrs. J. P. writes: I am seriously thinking of adopting a girl 5½ years old. She has a very bad case of eczema. Is this incurable? She also bites her fingernails and tells lies. Within the last two years since her mother's death she has been shifted from pillar to post and no one has taken care of her long enough to know the cause of all three things. Aside from these, she is the average normal child apparently. There is another girl 4, and a boy 3. He gets epileptic fits since 1½ years of age. The father is shiftless.

REPLY.

Eczema is the least of the troubles noted. It is generally cured by changing the diet or the occupation.

Think twice before adopting a child who bites the fingernails. She is probably nervous and may even be unstable. The eczema and biting nails may be akin. Both may be signs of abnormality.

The tendency to lie may be a sign of mental or moral abnormality, or of lack of training.

Do not think of adopting a child that has frequent fits that may be epileptic.

DIET FOR BABY.

Mrs. H. S. writes: What is a proper diet for a baby 6 months old? She gets mother's milk every three or four hours through the day, but does not seem satisfied. Is she too young for cereal? If not, what kind do you recommend? Can she have any soups or broths of any kind? She seems well and had two teeth when she was 5 months old and she weighs 14 pounds.

REPLY.

Feed at four hour intervals from 6 a. m. to 10 p. m. In addition to breast milk give her orange juice or the juice of canned tomatoes, thin cereal, and boiled milk. Add one part water to two parts milk.

One month later begin with thin soups.

MAY HAVE VEGETABLES.

M. M. writes:

1. Should an 8 months old baby be fed carrots or any vegetables if cooked good and mashed. I fed mine this, and he became feverish, and so I thought the feeding caused it.

2. How old must a child be before whole milk is fed?

REPLY.

1. Yes.
2. A little more than a year old.

THE NEIGHBORS' PIGEONS.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Are people allowed to keep pigeons in the city without cooping them? Some people in the neighborhood have them, but the birds use my property as a perching place. They are a perfect nuisance. E. E. F.

We know of no satisfactory legal remedy. We hear that some persons pursue with apparent satisfaction, under such provocation, the nonlegal remedy of quietly catching and eating enough of the marauding fowls to balance their damage.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

DIES INTESTATE.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—1. What procedure takes place and how soon after the death of a man, in the liquidation of his assets among his heirs, in the event there is no will?

2. In the event of a will, are the relations or heirs notified as to who is named as the beneficiary in such a will?

3. If all of the heirs cannot be located, how long must liquidation be held up in an effort to locate them? J. R. M.

1. The estate is probated, which involves allowing to creditors a year in which to file their claims, hence the administrator is not obliged to distribute until the expiration of such year.

2. No, they are merely notified as to the time and place of hearing to prove the will. They can examine the will and court files or can secure a copy from the clerk.

3. This would not necessitate any delay.

ON THE COMING ELECTION.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—The coming election has brought up several questions about appointment and election of the President.

The first question is, if a delegate is sent from a Republican state to the electoral college, can that delegate change his vote to a Democratic electoral vote, or vice versa?

3. In case of a deadlock can congress appoint the President, and, if so, could they appoint the candidate for vice presidency for President? D. P.

1. The selection of electors and specification of their obligations are left by the federal constitution to the several states, so that the obligations vary.

2. Roughly, yes. You can find the wording in the federal constitution, which is available almost anywhere. [Article 2, section 3.] TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

60 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 20, 1864.

WASHINGTON.—Sons of Maryland living in Washington paraded the streets celebrating the adoption of the new constitution for Maryland by which slavery is forever abolished. They serenaded President Lincoln, who addressed them briefly, touching on the charge of the Democrats that if he is defeated in November he will attempt to ruin the country before March 4. On this he said: "I am struggling to maintain the government, not to overthrow it. I therefore say that if I shall live I shall remain President until the 4th of March, and that whoever shall be constitutionally elected therefor in November shall be duly installed as President on the 4th of March." The statement that he would remain President until March 4 referred to rumors that if McClellan is elected he will seize the reins of government immediately after the election.

CAIRO—A serious accident occurred here. John White of Cobden, Ill., had his leg broken in two places and his foot badly mangled when he attempted to board a moving train.

ST. LOUIS.—Glasgow, Howard county, a town of 2,000, was surrounded by 5,000 rebels under Marmaduke and Clark, who shelled the city without a moment's warning to the people. Col. Chester Harding, with a small force, defended the town in a desperate five hour battle, killing between 200 and 300 of the rebels. His loss was thirty or forty. He surrendered on condition his men should be paroled. The rebels then burned the city hall and several other buildings.

ST. ALBANS, Vt. — Twenty-five armed desperadoes from Canada, supposed to be in the rebels' employ, raided the banks of this town. The National bank lost $15,000, the St. Albans, $70,000, and the Franklin County, several thousand. Several citizens who resisted were deliberately shot.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 20, 1899.

LONDON.—A dispatch from Cape Town says: "News has reached De Aar Junction that the Boers attacked Mafeking and were repulsed. The British followed them for a distance, then feigned retreat, allowing themselves to be driven in by the enemy. The Boers advanced and were drawn over lyddite mines which had been laid for the defense of the town. It is reported that 1,500 of the Boers were killed when the mines exploded."

CAPE TOWN.—The Boers have blown up the bridges at Fourteen Streams and the Modder river, north and south of Kimberley. Refugees report that the Boers are boasting they will hold fancy dress balls in Durban and Cape Town on Oct. 31. They say they will make all the Englishmen drawers of water and all the Englishwomen washerwomen.

CLEVELAND, O.—"The formation of combines is simply an evolution in business methods," Senator Mark Hanna said in a speech in which he defended President McKinley's policies and answered the charge that he is afraid to discuss trusts.

ROCK ISLAND, Ill.—Gov. Tanner surprised an audience here by belittling the Spanish-American war. He said the battles of San Juan and other places would hardly be considered skirmishes in the civil war. The only purpose they served, he said, was to make a few heroes.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 20, 1914.

LONDON.—A big battle is on along the front extending from Ostend to Lille, the Germans fighting desperately to break the extreme left wing of the allies' army and strike at Dunkirk and Calais. Their heavy artillery is bombarding the line from Nieuport to Vladsloo, east of Dixmude. The British fleet is also taking part in the battle, the ships lying close to the shore sending big shells into the German army.

NEW YORK.—Frank E. Vogel, who with Henry Siegel was soon to have gone to trial on charges of grand larceny growing out of the failure of the bank of Henry Siegel & Co., died suddenly at the Hotel Biltmore. He was vice president of the Siegel bank. An autopsy was ordered to determine whether death was due to natural causes.

CHICAGO.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt, full of vim and fight, in an address to 15,000 people at the Coliseum in behalf of Raymond Robins, Progressive candidate for United States senator, denounced Senator Sherman and Roger Sullivan, the Republican and Democratic candidates, labeling them the fruits of "Lorimerism."

CHICAGO.—The Rev. John P. Haire, said to have been one of the most widely read men in Chicago, is dead at the age of 88. Thirty-five years of his life, working five hours daily, was put in preparing a literary index containing references on 500,000 different topics.

A VILLANELLE FOR ISABELLE.

I guess I'll write a villanelle,
A graceful rhyme in measures gay,
To speak my love for Isabelle.

No Remington in prose can tell
My lady of my love today,—
I guess I'll write a villanelle.

Her laugh is as a tinkling bell,—
But words are such a feeble way
To speak my love for Isabelle.

Deep shadows of a woodland dell
Lie in her eyes,—my heart they sway.
I guess I'll write a villanelle.

My spirit soars above the gray
To speak my love for Isabelle.

Her glances all my heart compel,
And move me now once more to say
I guess I'll write a villanelle
To speak my love for Isabelle.

OH, INDIANA CLUB OF CHICAGO! what's the matter with you? Frank Dudley, the painter of the Dunes, explained the whole thing to us yesterday. We sat for hours in his little cabin under the shadow of old Mount Tom. Frank lives there summer and winter, so that he can feel the pulse of the dunes and paint their every mood. He said the Dunes could be saved if the Indiana legislature wanted to save 'em. Chicago and Illinois are helpless; they can't make laws for Indiana. But what's the matter with the Indiana Club of Chicago? Go to it, Indiana Club—you can do something with that legislature—SAVE THE DUNES!

You Will Not, Cosette. You'll Be Perfectly Miserable.

Oh Dick, I'm g-going to be a hermitess, an' live in some solitary spot on the side of a mountain . . . an' when young men c-come to see me, an' tell me they like to sit on the porch an' l-look at the stars while they tug at their pipes, I shall insist on staying indoors . . . an' if they like Mencken, an' Mark Twain, I shall vow I despise them . . . an' if they ask me to play the Polish Dance for 'em, I w-wont . . . an' if they l-l-like c-coffee at m-midnight, I shall serve t-tea at t-t-ten . . . an' then they'll hate me an' I shall hate them, an' when they get t-t-tired of my p-porch an' the st-stars an' go away, I w-wont miss 'em, and I'll be h-h-happy . . . ever af-f-fter. COSETTE.

OH, POOH! IS THAT ALL?

(From The Wanderings of the Harrisons, by Edith Ogden Harrison.)

The bandits, for all their savagery, seldom if ever harm a white woman, except to kill her. G. O. G.

We're Commencing to Feel Sorry for You, Hal.

Say, Hal Square, how do you get that way? What do you mean women have no reasoning power and no sense of justice? Well, Mr. Smarty, you had better step right along while you and your shoes are all together, or else you and this life are going to sever friendship. And I don't mean maybe. As for mental inferiority, your brilliancy proves yours without a doubt. You are one of those 1776 editions who still think girls are clinging vines, incapable of even so much as to be able to boil water without burning it. Well, wake up, Rip Van Winkle; you're due for a shock. Three guesses, girls, what is he—AN OLD BACH. Righto! DONCHA DOIT.

The Edition de Luxe Won't Rhyme with Dime.

R. H. L.: You wouldn't let F. A. M. tell 'em, but I'm not going to ask you first. Here's why you called it "The Line Book"—because Line rhymes with dime! UNSIGNED.

Snozzy Indeed.

R. H. L.: I wonder if any of these little boys who have been giving the girl of today the merry razz would stand up to his Sunday night mamma and spill his line of cocoa butter to her. For my share in this slam battle, the sweet young things, as they have so truthfully been dubbed, are quite snozzy, with, of course, the few exceptions that one may tune in on once in a while. If these hammer athletes could cast their hate-fevered shell-rims on my little snowflake they wouldn't wonder why I feel thusly toward the women folks.

THE RED FOX.

Splash, Splash, Splash, the Boys Are Marching!

R. H. L.: We knew that our boys performed miracles during the world war, but we were surprised to hear about "those brave boys who marched across the sea" in one of John W. Davis' campaign speeches—yessir, we heard it over the radio—hurrah for our side. DAM/MMB.

We Keep a Light in the Window.

R. H. L.: Will the "Edition de luxe of The Line Book" be ready so we can pass out a few at Christmas? Glad you are including at least one of Apples' contributions. Don't you miss her and don't you want her to come back? EIDPA.

THE TRIB said yesterday that John Davis and his aides were taking new courage from the number of people who are prominent enough to have their biographies in Who's Who in America who have written pledging their support for the Democratic candidate. Ah, John, it isn't the Who's Whoers that count in an election. It's the people whose names are in a much more important book than Who's Who in America. The name of the book, John, is The City Directory.

Why the Delay?

R. H. L.: Al gave me a newspaper clipping regarding the latest fall of the prince of Wales. I gave him a piece of my mind and, this morning, your sentiments, which were mine, too. He said: "Well, some people fall from buildings and trees, but only once." Shall I give him the swift poke in the nose? BUSTER BROWN.

MEMORIES.

Richard Henry: Memories are wonderful! There is the bright paper napkin covered with penciled names of the guests at that picnic held down at the old Mill Dam; a pressed rosebud worn at the Kappa Alpha dance in Chattanooga; a football schedule of the University of Virginia; his silk handkerchief; an invitation to a tea dance in Lynchburg where the darkey music moans; an ostrich feather fan, the front stick adorned with the crest of Phi Delta Theta! All of these I fondle as I sit on the floor, cleaning out the clothes closet. Would I trade the happy tranquil hours of today, with books and my prince, to go back to those thrilling exciting college days? Would I? Jamais de la vie! MARTHA LOUISE.

IT IS.

R. H. L.: So do I know why you named it "The Line Book." It's B. L. T.'s initials backward. It is, isn't it? THE WHATZIS.

LISTEN, TAGGERS! If you capture us, alive or dead, this morning before we pass the corner of Ohio and Rush—that's where we live—we'll give the children five dollars. But if you don't get us until we've traveled a whole block—that's the corner of Grand and Rush—then we only give the kids two and a half.

WHAT'S the use? Bet the tagger at Grand and Rush is a Blonde. How do you do, five dollars, how do you do! R. H. L.

HENNING STARTED SOMETHING.

It is a very mighty power
For good and evil both;
J. Gutenberg above all men towers,
For its problems he worked out.

Some folks say the press is rotten,
And upon it you cannot depend;
Yet, when we in public travel,
We notice THE TRIB in every other person's hand.

It's a brain food, not a brain storm;
If we do read much or less,
As most of us folks digest it,
So, all honor to the press!

ART FROM THE STOCKYARDS.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Isn't it about time that our people come to a realization that while art, literature, music, and kindred things that go with them are fine, not one of them could exist were it not for the "sordid" business which so many deplore?

Kathryn O'Sullivan, in THE TRIBUNE of the 14th, deplores the "silliness" of showing the stockyards to the prince of Wales, and thus branding Chicago as "the butcher market of the world."

The Chicago stockyards have been of material aid in giving Chicago its many beautiful sights. The wealth that these stockyards have brought to the city has done its full share in the upbuilding of art, music, literature, etc.

The prince of Wales and other distinguished visitors to Chicago who have viewed the stockyards are too smart and too cultured to say "Bah!" to business. R. D. HEBB.

FRIENDLY BANKERS.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—As I recall it, I read exclusively in your columns some years ago, in substance, that good natured philanthropist Charlie Dawes, knowing that his friend Billy Lorimer was starting a bank on a shoestring, graciously allowed the bank examiner to count money literally belonging to the Central Trust as an asset of the Lorimer bank.

Legal opinion might vary as to whether this was a literal, technical, or moral violation of banking laws. Charlie Dawes may have been an innocent bystander. It may be true, and probably is, that such juggling of real assets was and is a common practice among friendly bankers. But such practice makes a joke of legal banking regulations; and similar ostensible transferring of funds from one bank to another was one of the reasons for giving John R. Walsh and many another banker a long vacation.

If La Follette is a liar for stating allegations at the time widely published as facts, then at that time the World's Greatest Ballyhoo was a liar.

To assert that a man is not guilty of law violation, or is excusable, because others also are indulging in similar violations would practically annul every law that we have.

To get rid of the assumptions of powerful men and interests that laws are made to check everybody but themselves is one of the very big reasons for the being of the third party. And it's going to be a whirlwind. W. H.

THAT "DIABOLICAL DAWES PLAN."

Chicago, Oct. 15.—In your editorial Oct. 13 you quote Prof. Bonn as saying, "The Dawes plan is saving Germany, and in saving Germany is saving Europe." This worthy professor is either a credulous optimist or a fool. By signing the Dawes plan Germany has signed away her last prestige of independence and bound herself to perpetual slavery. The Dawes plan is the last link in the chain which P. Morgan et al. have forged for the enslavement of the German people.

We must not forget that the Dawes plan was hatched in Washington and originated in the fertile brain of our secretary of state, Charles Hughes, and is the most iniquitous and diabolical scheme ever invented by human ingenuity for the enslavement of sixty millions of people.

Further on you say a refusal by Germany to adopt the Dawes plan would have tossed Europe once more into want and war. Better death than slavery. There can be no question but that France has been greatly encouraged in her nefarious conduct by our Washington government. It is America's money that enables her today to keep the largest standing army in the world for the purpose of levying tribute.

WILLIAM WINCH,
402 South Wells street.

HE ASKS ABOUT DAWES.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—I have read with interest your editorial entitled "La Follette Defames Dawes," but it does not give me sufficient information to enable me to explain in what way Gen. Dawes was not responsible for the Lorimer bank trouble.

As I recall the case, the Supreme court of Illinois sets out the Lorimer-Dawes transaction in detail, and finally holds that the banking institution of which Gen. Dawes is the president is responsible to the depositors of the Lorimer bank.

It is also my understanding that the Supreme court held that Dawes made the short temporary loan to enable Lorimer to qualify under the banking laws, and as soon as the auditor had approved the banking charter, thereupon Dawes immediately had the money returned to him.

Inasmuch as you have this whole matter before you, I will appreciate it very much if you will explain to me why it is that Gen. Dawes is connected with the Lorimer bank transaction.

I desire this information to answer arguments pertaining to this matter.

W. A. WAGNER.

HIRAM, BOB, AND THE PEOPLE'S RULE.

Laramie, Wyo., Oct. 9.—Your editorial "Hiram, Bob, and the People's Rule" hit the nail on the head. I was a constant reader of La Follette's Weekly from the time it began publication until 1914 or 1915. It would be a good thing if La Follette's sour grape song printed in his weekly after the campaign of 1912 could be published in our newspapers so that people could have a chance to read it now. Have you the copies on file? If so, look them up. Your editorial should have been printed upon the front page.

THE OPERA, CHICAGO'S MOST BRILLIANT SOCIAL EXPRESSION

WEDNESDAY, November fifth, Chicago welcomes the third season of its Civic Opera with a keen appreciation of the wealth of old-world tradition, poetry and beauty it bestows. It opens with the pomp and circumstance, the delightful pageantry of La Gioconda in all the blue and gold and crimson of its Venetian setting. And as befits the formality of such an occasion, the costumes beyond the footlights will match in loveliness the delicate pastels of the "Dance of the Hours," and the magnificent furs and jeweled gowns of the first night audience, the regal splendors of the palace of the Doge.

A Gown Scintillant With Jewels

OVER the sapphire velvet of the Gown pictured is a long, slender tunic of gold lace encrusted with gold bugles, with liquid rubies, sapphires, emeralds and topazes of a richness, of a delicacy that only the artistry of Paris could contrive. The border of flying squirrel gives a charming movement.

Many imports and reproductions of imports have been assembled in the Costume Section to meet the requirements of the Opera. Among them are a white velvet with its flowers on one shoulder—the newer way of applying water lilies, morning glories and pansies of the mode—a confetti lace in fuchsia colorings, a silver Gown with deep fringes of crystal.

Sumptuous Ermine Banded With Fox

THE enveloping grace of the Fur Wraps worn with sophistication yet with a certain illusion of artlessness gives, somehow, the climactic quality of the costume that the occasion demands. And few Furs more superbly meet the splendor of opera than white ermine. In the model sketched, white fox of exquisite quality fashions collar, border and front band. The lining is a brilliant orange under plaited white georgette.

Furs of magnificent quality have been assembled here, with special emphasis on Wraps for formal social needs.

From Paris, This Wrap Of Amber Velvet

AS glowing in color as a portrait by Titian, this sumptuous Cloak of chiffon velvet is embroidered with gold and chenille, and is completed by long gold tassels. The collar of lynx cat, upstanding at the back, forms a gracious frame for the face.

Accessories to Perfect The Opera Costume

NO less important, perhaps, than the most correct details of the stage-setting itself are the subtleties of costume which lie in the Accessories. Slippers, like the gowns they accompany, shimmer in their silvery or gold brocade, sometimes piped with metaled kid or gleaming with rhinestones.

Fans paint their feathers brilliantly, with tips almost invisibly lighter. In jewelry, chokers of large pearl beads, and longer strands with back pendants are new.

CHICAGO CIVIC OPERA

By a Trustee of the Opera

THIS year the Chicago Civic Opera begins its third season, and those of us who sponsored its beginning, and have anxiously followed its growth, may look upon the achievement, I think, with justifiable and pardonable pride.

That achievement was to be two-fold—to bring the best opera to Chicago—and to bring Chicago to its opera, with the enthusiasm of Europeans in whom civic opera has been bred for generations until their possessive sense and civic pride embrace the company, and the operas themselves, produced in their particular city. Nor must it be a visiting company, here for a brief season, but a company which would belong to Chicago, returning each season, bringing new members to be welcomed, and owned—and the Chicago Opera Company would actually become the Chicago Civic Opera.

Music Aid to Health, Bundesen Bulletin Asserts

Music as an aid to mental and physical health is recommended in the current weekly bulletin of the Chicago department of health, edited by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, commissioner of health.

"Besides the fact that music creates a keener appreciation of beauty and draws emotional forces into channels of wholesome expression," says the message, "it is a means of correcting some nervous diseases and stabilizing the emotions. Music has a definite place in the treatment of the mentally ailing."

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

Through the air Saturday afternoon there came a vivid picture of a young man located on the dizzy height of a vast amphitheater, with airplanes and the blue sunlit sky above him, tasseled cornfields and vast expanses beyond him; below and in front of him a circling panoramic sea of rousing, cheering humanity, facing an arena with athletic contestants in action.

By the time Red Grange had made the goal for the fourth time, Announcer Quinn Ryan of W-G-N, by his picturesque descriptions of the Illinois-Michigan football game at Champaign, had made a name for himself as the world's greatest football announcer. It takes more than technical football announcing to enthuse this listener, and this paragraphical tablet is a memorial to Quinn Ryan's classic achievement.

Perhaps the most artistic concert ever broadcast was the Chopin recital by Moissaye Boguslawski at W-G-N yesterday afternoon. One solid hour of Chopin, fifteen compositions, think of it! Yet it was a most enjoyable event. This artist's style is such that the microphone seems never to be strained. From the poetic waltzes, the deep toned nocturnes, sustained largo movements, or massive tonal works like the Scherzo in D minor or the even more gigantic Polonaise in A flat major he was master of his instrument and its transmission. Chopin was a poet at the instrument; and such is Mr. Boguslawski's style. The pedal was used sparingly; the tone pure, and imagination was everywhere evident.

Musical Director Charles Gabriel Jr. deserves great credit for this daring undertaking. This listener hopes the auspicious beginning to this newly inaugurated classical concert by recognized artists will lead to many more recitals of like worth this season.

The Chicago Musical college artist-pupils' concert at Central theater, also broadcast by W-G-N, was another hour of classical numbers for the most part, and enjoyable for the whole part. Mamie Stillerman of Chicago again made that instrument almost sing for us. Harry Corsell, also of Chicago, revealed a dramatic tenor voice of great beauty.

Stanley Martin's organ recital during the Sunday Evening club services was unusually organesque at times. But two numbers by the choir, Handel's "Let Their Celestial Concerts All Unite," and Stevenson's "Hark! The Vesper Hymn," the latter by the choir and Mrs. Mabel Sharp-Herdien, soloist, were simply glorious in their full rich tones.

Elderly Woman Says She Was Thrown from Taxi

Mrs. Mary Whiteman, 61, 1322 West Van Buren street, was found lying in the street at South Throop and West Van Buren streets early yesterday morning, suffering with a broken ankle. She told police that she had been thrown out of a taxicab when she couldn't pay her fare. The police declare she was intoxicated.

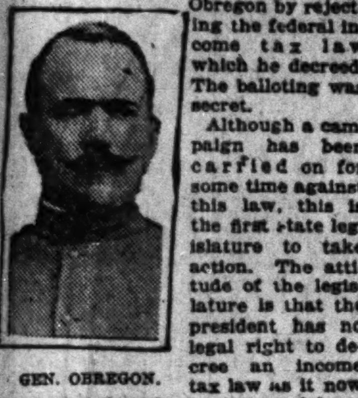
OBREGON DEFIED BY LEGISLATURE ON INCOME TAXES

Hidalgo Leaders Vote Down New Law.

BY FREDERICK NEUMEIER.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Mexico City, Oct. 19.—The Hidalgo state legislature has defied President Obregon by rejecting the federal income tax law which he decreed. The balloting was secret.



GEN. OBREGON.

Although a campaign has been carried on for some time against this law, this is the first state legislature to take action. The attitude of the legislature is that the president has no legal right to decree an income tax law as it now stands and that the tax is harmful not only to the national treasury but to the stae reasuries, and that the collection of the tax invades the free rights of a state.

Other state legislatures will be requested to take action against the law.

Obregon Expels Foreigners.

The income tax law has caused President Obregon considerable trouble, but he is holding his ground and confederated chamber of commerce and merchants in various parts of the country oppose the tax, but the president has ordered the expulsion under article 33 of the constitution of one German, two Spaniards, four French, and one Arab merchants, all of Puebla, because of their refusal to pay the tax.

President Obregon has intimated that the expulsion of other foreigners will be ordered if they oppose the income tax law and fail to live up to its provisions. The ministers and legation officials of the countries of the Puebla merchants, who were ordered expelled, are endeavoring to have the orders revoked.

French Minister Intervenes.

Jean Perier, minister from France, has stated that the action of the French merchants was one of loyalty to the chamber of commerce, which maintains that efforts are still being made to have the tax law modified and that the French merchants never considered that nonpayment of the tax would be construed in such a manner as to warrant expulsion.

NEAR EAST RELIEF WORKER TO TELL OF HER EXPERIENCES

Miss Ruth Woodsmall will tell her experience in the near east at a mass-meeting this evening at 7 o'clock at the central branch of the Y. W. C. A., 59 East Monroe street. Miss Woodsmall served in hostess work in Coblenz and Toule, with the Polish gray Samaritans in Poland, and finally in Constantinople. "The Y. W. C. A. has the only gymnasium and the only business training couse in Constantinople," says Miss Woodsmall. "Turkish women are discarding their veils, entering business, and studying law and medicine. The white curtains that used to shut out the view of the women in street cars have been abolished. Men and women enter restaurants together and sometiems go to the movies together, although this is considered very daring."

MISS RUTH WOODSMALL.

MISSING BOY FOUND.

Walter Swiercswinski, 4 years old, 2135 Charleston street, for whom police and his parents had been searching for a day, was found yesterday in the juvenile detention home, listed as "unidentified."

IN ANCIENT ROME

Apicius, having squandered four million dollars in riotous feasting, found he had only a tenth of that amount remaining.

Unwilling to starve on such a pittance, as he considered it, he poisoned himself.

He might have dined sumptuously at CHILDS the rest of his life.

LIVING COSTS IN GERMANY CLIMB TO HIGHER LEVEL

BERLIN, Oct. 19.—[By United News.]—Adding to the problems created by a threatened cabinet crisis, the upward leaping cost of living in Germany suddenly has become a serious national menace. The German people and the government as well are dismayed at the bounding figures of the national cost of living index which appear each week.

Promises that the political tangles in the reichstag would be unraveled somehow before that body convenes Wednesday are slight balm for the wounds that prices gouge in the pocketbooks.

Almost every commodity of daily necessity in Germany is above the level of world prices generally. The national index figures now regularly show a weekly increase of from one to two per cent in the cost of living.

Wages Are Inadequate.

Wages are far from adequate to meet these new market conditions and workmen are demanding readjustments either of prices or wages.

Negotiations between railway workers and the regime which controls the German lines under the terms of the Dawes plan are expected to begin this week.

Labor is sharply alert to learn the attitude of the foreigners who now control the railway industry toward the imminent demand for a living wage. The workers know that the Dawes plan clearly states that German labor shall not be compelled to lower its standard of living in order to meet the reparations obligations. Despite this guarantee each week finds the standard a little lower, as prices mount and wages remain stationary.

$1.50 a Day High Pay.

German workmen always have lived amid less comfort than most of their world competitors.

Now in some branches of industry wages of from $1 to $1.50 a day are considered high pay and the margin between what the worker can earn and what he requires to keep himself and his family alive has practically disappeared in some instances.

Burns Prove Fatal to Blind Wife of Invalid

Mrs. Henry J. Dericken, 1620 Mabel avenue, Evanston, died yesterday from burns received Saturday evening while cooking dinner for her invalid husband. Mrs. Dericken was blind. When her clothing caught fire she rushed to her husband, who was in their little cigar store below their home. A customer, C. C. McDougall, 1621 Asbury avenue, extinguished the flames while the helpless husband watched.

Turks Arrest 1,000 Greeks for Expulsion Under Pact

In the distinguished new Statler Hotel at Buffalo, 1100 Purple Label mattresses are in use in the guest rooms.

Why? Because tests made in earlier Statlers proved to the Statler management that they could save money by giving their guests the most luxurious mattress built in America.

In the Congress Hotel and Chicago Athletic Association, this same wonder mattress has also served 18 years. And almost as long in a score of other leading hotels and exclusive clubs.

Every Purple Label is actually three mattresses in one. Two deep cushions of high-grade curled hair—hand-laid and hand-tufted to a non-stretching canvas base—form the top and bottom. Between them, 810 sensitive, small coil springs are built into a third mattress. In separate fabric pockets, each spring carries its own load, yielding yet firmly supporting weary bodies.

Any merchant below will show you this wonderful mattress. Long life makes its luxury a lasting economy.

SYDNEY Australia, Oct. 19.—The radical policies proposed for remedying society's ills in America cause no surprise in Australia. The hopeful enthusiasm of American idealists supporting Robert La Follette arouse only smiles in certain Australian quarters—smiles that translate themselves in the expression, "O, yes, we have tried that."

American theatrical managers always try out their experimental productions "in the sticks" before risking losses and failures in front of the general public, and American discontent may in like manner derive the benefit of experimentation in political cure alls as they have been tried out in Australia.

After almost twenty years of intermittent socialist governments under the name of labor, Australia finds itself today faced with almost the identical industrial and human problems that confronted it before the radicals introduced and advanced theories calculated to change the continent into an earthly heaven.

Fail to Wipe Out Poverty.

Australia has "tried it all." It has minimum wage laws, workers' courts and courts of compulsory arbitration, municipal and state and commonwealth ownership and operation of public utilities, and its statute books are crowded with industrial and social legislation, and politically speaking, labor is the biggest single party. One state, Queensland, has even gone so far as to abolish the upper house of its legislature, but—

Australia has poverty, bankruptcy, destitutions, prostitution, vice, crime, child labor, woman labor, bread lines, soup kitchens, unemployment strikes, slums, graft, corruption, gambling, drunkenness, beggars, and tramps. In some of the evils it is worse off than America, but at the same time it must not be forgotten that Australia has great wealth, prosperity, high wages, decent working hours, good homes, and hundreds of thousands of savings bank depositors.

Tells of Soup Kitchen.

Two articles on the front page of a Sydney morning newspaper today might have a familiar ring to Americans who have been advised that such a condition would be wiped out under a socialistic government. The first article is headed, "Pity the hungry. Sorrows in the Sydney soup kitchen. Consider the unfortunate." The other headlines were: "Scenes that slummers saw in darker Sydney. The squalor and wretchedness of Sydney's slums brought home forcibly, etc."

The soup kitchen at Sydney's night refuge, 513 Kent street, was the setting for the hunger article, which carried the following description:

"They were a pitifully clothed crowd, these ranks of the hungry army—old faded coats, most of them collarless, some lame, some cripples, some without shirts—the city flotsam and jetsam. Their battered boots, down at the heel, told their own story."

Women there were also in the army of homeless. The soup kitchen is not aided by a government subsidy, but is supported by private donations.

And This of Sydney's Slums.

And the other article, dealing with the homes of the poor, read:

"Row upon row of congested, unhygienic, tumbledown homes, built along narrow, dusty lanes, in many of which two vehicles could not pass. Dirty back yards, with remnants of clothing dangling from short lines, rubbish heaps undisturbed for months, perhaps years, outbuildings threatening to crumble to nothing—these are the few aspects of Sydney's slums, which must be seen to be appreciated.

The picture section of the same newspaper publishes photographic glimpses of "darker Sydney, revealing children in beds made from packing boxes," and "back yard flats," comprising open air pantry, laundry and kitchen in scenes of filth and poverty.

5 Families in 3 Rooms.

Cases of five families living in three rooms are reported officially by the health inspectors. "Cave men" of Sydney is a phrase describing tramps who inhabit recesses in the rocky walls of Sydney harbor in one of the most beautiful city parks in the world. Walking through this park in an afternoon, one may find the ground covered with rumpled newspapers and cast off rags left there by the alfresco lodgers of the previous night.

Women, many of them appearing to be girls around the age of 20, offer themselves for sale on the streets of Sydney at night, the principal rendesvous being under the street lamps of the downtown police station.

Robbery by assault is prevalent to such an extent that several days ago a city alderman announced in the city council that he was carrying a gun and promised to shoot the first man that stopped him on the street at night.

Rush to Cities Is On.

Australia is suffering a big rush to the cities on account of the increasing number of failures of small farmers on land. Unemployment is ever present, due principally to the large number of strikes, sympathetic and otherwise. Drunkenness which one encounters on the street is attributed in New South Wales to license regulations which empty the bars and close them at 6 o'clock at night, with the result that the patrons load up before the closing hour and then drink from bottles in the alleyways or parks.

At present there is a big demand for an investigation of graft charges in the cities and condemnation of private property. Collusion beetween firms bidding to sell machinery and equipment to the government has been exposed, revealing losses of hundreds of thousands of dollars to taxpayers.

WUXTRY! U. S. SUB CHASERS TO MEET TORPEDO PLANES

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—Mimic naval warfare will be seen during the aerial maneuvers to be held over Chesapeake bay, near Baltimore, Oct. 25.

An attack on a submarine chaser by six navy torpedo launching seaplanes is to be one of the feature events. The planes will launch dummy torpedoes. The chaser will be defended by other planes.

The navy's fast racing seaplane which won the Schneider cup from British and French competitors a year ago at Cowes, England, and which were to have competed in the cancelled international air races of this year will attempt to better the world's record for 100, 200, and 500 kilometers. Two planes of the CR-3 type will race over a three kilometer course in an effort to boost the 174 mile an hour record for the highest possible speed over a short distance.

SPOTS STOLEN SUIT.

Ernie Dittsworth, 18, 116 West Ontario street, recognized a suit stolen from him six weeks ago, which Alvin Lindquist, 22, 64 West Erie street, was wearing yesterday. Lindquist said he had bought it in a second hand store.

The OPERA
Frocks and Wraps in Formal Fashions
AS the theme of the opera is foretold in the strains of the overture, so these new fashions are the very essence of the mode as it concerns the formal season. Brilliant—daring as a modern score they are, or with the gracious charm that lingers in the cadences of a well-known measure.
OVERTONES of gorgeous metal tissues, traceries of gold and silver-colored lace, shimmering velvets, soft as chiffon. And on these scrolls of jewel-like beading, embroideries intricate and colorful, or the subtle shading of a delicately tinted flower weave variations on fashion's theme.
Frocks of Metal Lace, Starry with Beads Complete the Ensemble with Graceful Velvet Capes
The deep decolletage is outlined in garnet, emerald and topaz colored beads. These, too, pick out the pattern of the lace on cape and frock, so is a charming harmony maintained. In the cape, softest velvet is foundation for the metal lace. At right center. $550.
Flashes of Metal Cloth Softened by Fur and Velvet Enrich the New Wraps for Evening Occasions
Here are coats of coral-colored velvet, whose wide, graceful sleeves of silvered cloth are banded in velvet, with a deep collar of black fox in contrast. For misses. Not in the sketch. Priced at $275.
There are other lovely evening wraps here, the beauty of whose luxurious fabrics is enhanced by colors that reflect the tones of frocks the capes accompany.
Capes of jade green velvet are banded with soft gray fur. For misses. At left center. $250. A panel caught in a new way falls in a graceful ripple at the back of a cape of crimson velvet. At center. $185.
Furs are used in original and distinctive ways—sometimes two contrasting furs on one garment. These wraps are priced according to style, $75 to $550.

KEEP OUR NAVY FOR PEACE AND WAR--COOLIDGE

O. K.'s "Navy Day" Program.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—President Coolidge, in a letter made public today to Commander Marion Eppley, national chairman of the Navy League of the United States, congratulated the organization on its plan to observe again this year, Oct. 27, the birthday of President Roosevelt, as Navy day.

"It is particularly fitting to observe Navy day," Mr. Coolidge wrote, "on the anniversary of the great President, who was so long devoted to the interests of the naval establishment, and I am, therefore, gratified to know that the same day in this year is to be observed once more as Navy day."

Mr. Coolidge said that under the terms of the Washington arms conference treaty "we are assured of a naval rank second to none" without engaging in a competition of maritime construction, and it "is the earnest hope of all who desire the abolition of war" that this step "will prove only the beginning of an international program involving the continuing reduction of armament by land, by sea and in the air."

Tribute to Roosevelt.

The text of the President's letter follows:

For several years past Oct. 27 has been observed as Navy day. The date was selected, as I understand, because it is also the anniversary of the birth of President Theodore Roosevelt. It is particularly fitting to observe Navy day on the anniversary of the great President, who was so long devoted to the interests of the naval establishment.

"Our American navy has always been much more than an arm of wartime defense. Its contributions to the arts of peace have been manifold and of the utmost importance.

Self Paying Proposition.

"The statement has been made that all the money that has ever been spent on the navy has been returned to the community several times over in direct stimulus given to industrial development. In many departments of science and investigation, the navy has taken a leading and highly important part. It has made possible much of the accomplishment in charting the seas and making them safe for commerce. It has assisted in those studies of weather and climate, of air and sea currents, which have produced results of the utmost practical value."

its constitutional duty. Although the senate has balloted thirty-seven times the attendance never has exceeded eighty-nine senators, and neither Bryan nor Dawes has had more than forty-six votes, three less than the required forty-nine. The absentees on various ballots number nineteen Democrats and seventeen Republicans. Virtually the entire La Follette group has voted steadily for Bryan. The absentee Democrats are being charged with blocking the choice of Bryan while endeavoring to make a deal with the Republicans in the house to elect Davis and Dawes.

Charges of Bribery Made.

The deadlock in the house has been attended by much turbulence and a deluge of charges of bribery and corruption. If, however, any bribes have been given and taken for votes the attempt to buy the presidency has not succeeded. The house has balloted 107 times. With the votes of twenty-five states required to elect, the tally generally has been: Coolidge, 22, Davis, 20; La Follette, 1; five states equally divided and unable to vote. Coolidge has had the support of twenty-two Republican and Davis of the twenty Democratic states, while Wisconsin has voted for La Follette.

On several ballots Coolidge went as high as twenty-four votes, owing to the absence of Democratic members from some of the five equally divided and other close delegations, such as that of New York, which is Democratic by a majority of one.

Davis' High Mark.

On one ballot Davis had twenty-four votes, owing to the absence of Republicans in four of the five equally divided delegations, Maryland, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, and New Jersey.

On these occasions rumors were rife of the money and jobs offered representatives in other closely divided states to absent themselves and make it possible for the leading candidate of the moment to achieve the twenty-five votes required to elect. Members from the tied states have been closely watched for weeks and some have been suspected of trafficking with the opposing party to throw the election. Some, 'tis said, are being shadowed by detectives hired by their own party. Such an air of suspicion prevails that doctors' certificates sent to the house by members to explain their absences no longer command credence but provoke laughter when read by the clerk.

BODY OF MISSING MILWAUKEE GIRL FOUND IN FIELD

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 19.—Covered with weeds and leaves, the body of Julia Twardowski, 21, who has been missing from her home here since Sept. 24, was found in a field near the Racine-Milwaukee county line today by hunters.

After examining the body and clothing, Sheriff George Wherry of Racine county expressed the belief that the girl was murdered after being assaulted. The body was only fifteen feet from the county line road.

Miss Twardowski had been reported as missing from home since Sept. 24. Detective Sergeant Louis Dieden called her brother to the central police station and he identified the body.

Racine authorities are working on the theory that the girl had been taken for an automobile ride, and was killed by her male companion or companions.

And this is WHY

MORE THAN 2,200,000 people buy The American Magazine. Five years ago, there were 1,200,000 buyers; ten years ago, only 400,000.

What has given this magazine such a multiplying host of readers? How does it hold and satisfy this vast army of people everywhere?

You will find the answer in the November issue—just as you found it in the October issue a month ago, and will find it in the December issue still to come.

Through these pages there has come into our hurried American life a new voice of heartening faith. And to this new spirit of faith our fellow Americans have opened wide their arms.

Faith in people—faith in the motives and aspirations of the human heart—faith in the essential importance of life and living—these are the foundations upon which The American Magazine began to build ten years ago. And its readers have given it faith in return. From all over the country come letters that show how deeply people believe in The American Magazine.

From rich and poor these letters come; from company presidents and their assistants and the clerks who keep their files; from doctors, lawyers, merchants, housewives, farmers; from old and young, people who have everything and people who have little; men, women, and children—everybody!

A handful of letters from the daily mail received by the Editor of The American Magazine are on this page. Read them. They are thrilling.

What can limit either the numbers or the loyalty of people to whom The American Magazine means so much, and who regard it as a part and a partner in the endless adventure of Life?

Your magazine to me is the visit of an educated friend telling life's experience in a modest, understanding way. I become so interested that I sometimes feel his presence and hear his voice.

Mrs. E. T. C., Ontario

It contains much splendid material which we can use here in our work of instilling character and ambition into 700 boys.

Executive officer of a

N. M. M., Chicago

I am the mother of six small children. The American has been the only magazine I have read for several years.

C. H. P., California

We all like to look into the hearts of our men and women who have met life and conquered it. I like the American so well that I have given away five subscriptions in the last three months. It has given me new friends, a broader vision, and made me a better, happier mother.

Mrs. C. B. S., Texas

It keeps me believing in folks.

M. D., Texas

It helped to cure me of snobbery . . . It developed my curiosity and sympathy . . . After a few months of reading The American Magazine I found that even the man who collects my garbage had something worth while to tell me . . . In a period when I suddenly found myself without friends or money, it helped me to get a right perspective on myself.

H. H. R., California

I like The American Magazine because it has placed the seal of dignity upon all productive work.

R. R. W., Ohio

Having grown tired of asking friends to bring The American Magazine when they motor out from town, I am sending you herewith a postal money order for a year's subscription. We have reached the point where The American Magazine has become a necessity; we simply can't get along without it.

M. C., New York

If you keep on improving your magazine, I think my husband will have good cause to sue you for alienating my affections . . . I do not suppose a mere editor can possibly know what a magazine like yours means to a country woman. "American Day" in my home is a day of idleness. On that day I forget there is such a thing as housework, I forget all about Johnny's sore toe or Jennie's torn dress. I just abandon myself and literally devour the magazine. But after the orgy is over, I get up refreshed and rested and am ready to tackle the next month's problems with new vigor and courage.

Mrs. R. E. B., Connecticut

It has the finest collection of articles I have ever seen between two covers.

Mrs. S. R. S., Los Angeles

If there is anything that will keep me beside my wife in the evenings instead of at the Elks Club, it is the new number of the American.

W. M. C., California

A good book is a friend, but a good magazine is an ideal companion. Since childhood The American Magazine has been my companion, counselor and friend. To me it is not a magazine, but a living, breathing personality.

J. E. B., Alabama

I had always been strong and in the best of health. Then like a bolt out of the blue I was paralyzed in both limbs. . . . I have been in a wheel-chair since. But when everything in the world looks blue, to read an article like "Why I did not die" in the current American gives a fellow the feeling that life could be a great deal worse and perhaps all will be well some day.

P. E. T., Michigan

It really knows human nature.

J. M., Trinidad,
British West Indies

When things look dark and everything seems to go wrong, the surest way for me to see things from another angle is to read The American Magazine.

A Reader

The best thing about the American is its Humanness. I never consider that I'm through with an issue till I have read it from cover to cover.

Mrs. H. L. M.

It is a bewildering field of fragrance and delight.

C. I. Z., Kansas

I like The American Magazine because of the valuable information on all the topics of the day, for the clean stories that delight us all, and for its colorful, dependable advertisements.

R. G., Massachusetts

Mrs. G. C. H.
Oklahoma

J. A. J., Indiana

Through its pages there is bred in my heart a love and tolerance of things alive.

E. F. K., Philadelphia

When I read The American Magazine, I feel I am reading the pure, simple truth and not some editor's personal opinion. It carries true accounts of human beings, written by human beings, for human beings.

S. T. H., Ohio

It helps me to understand my boys.

A Mother

The knowledge I have gained from the American has made me grow in wisdom. . . . We know the reliability of the American and do not hesitate to answer any advertisement published therein.

Mrs. W. C. A., Missouri

It's all very well to extol the sacred dead. I like to read about live people!

IBANEZ'S WAR ON KING DERIDED BY SPANISH LEADER

Author Seeking Publicity, Acting Premier Says.

Here is the reply of the Spanish military directorate to Vicent Blasco Ibanez, greatest of Spanish writers, who charged recently that King Alfonso and the leaders of the military clique had wrecked the country. Acting Premier Magaz, who is ruling Spain during the absence of Gen. Primo de Rivera in Morocco, has given an interview in which he denies Ibanez's allegations.

[Copyright, 1924, by United News.]

MADRID, Spain, Oct. 19.—"Vicent Blasco Ibanez is a publicity seeker who takes good care to remain out of reach of the Spanish law while he preaches the overthrow of the government and blackens the reputation of the king," Acting Premier Magaz said today.

"The allegations of Ibanez are so illogical, so far out of proportion, so far from the truth that they hardly deserve the honor of a reply.

"It seems to be a sort of a world fashion that some literary thinkers follow to appear publicly almost as revolutionaries. They do so to advertise themselves so that they will be noticed and identified among the mass of mankind.

Calls It a "New Sport."

"These publicity seekers practice the new sport of mixing the most sensational accusations with the most violent styles of literary expression. They interpret freedom of thought to mean arrogance without reason to believe or evidence to prove that the men and institutions they affect to scorn deserve their condemnation.

"In the case of Ibanez, and the same is true of many of these men, the critic has taken care to act at such a distance from his country that the law of the land he libels cannot reach him.

"Ibanez having been away from Spain for many years, knows what is going on there only through the reports of his friends, who are poets of hyperbolic minds.

Declares Spain Is Happy.

"What really took place in Spain and the circumstances under which it occurred would have given a totally different impression to his observing mind. If Ibanez could personally observe the present quiet in Spain, the infrequency of political arrests, the absence of party strife, he would have proof that the Spanish people are not in need of improvised delivery.

"Unfortunately, the attacks against the king were made from France, where he merited the unmistakable affection and consideration of the people, as well as of the government. A French newspaper, anxious to furnish sensational information to its readers, accepted and printed Ibanez's attacks.

"Ibanez should remember that most of his success is due to his literary talent. His writings gained him the respect of many people, but surely his political pieces won't take him to fame's altar."

1,700 N. Y. Bank Employes Form 'White Collar' Union

New York, Oct. 19.—Ernest Bohm, secretary of the Bookkeepers, Stenographers and Accountants' union, announced last night that the Bankers' Trust company and the New York Trust company, employing about 1,700 persons, had granted their employes permission to join the union. Bank officers, however, would not confirm the announcement.

G. O. P. POLICY IS CRITICISED BY 15 LEGION LEADERS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—The Democratic national committee issued a statement today signed by fifteen leaders or former leaders of veterans' organizations criticizing the Republican administration for the treatment given to former service men and urging support for John W. Davis for President.

"Only a definite, courageous and upright foreign policy," the statement said, "can secured and maintain the honorable world peace which our arms made possible."

The statement declared the Republican party had "betrayed" its trust to the veterans, denounced the administration of former Director Charles R. Forbes, asserted Director Hines had kept "incompetent department chiefs in power," and that "these conditions in the bureau dealing with the very lives of disabled soldiers are intolerable and unforgiveable."

Among the signers were Alvin Owsley, former national commander of the American Legion; R. S. Jones, former editor of The Stars and Stripes, and Brig. Gen. C. H. Cole, 52d infantry.

The Truth
About
Permanent Waving
It Is Not Harmful! It Is Not Expensive!
It Is Lasting!

The Lanoil Process Uses Less Heat

By this process one can have the newly grown roots of the hair waved even if they are only one inch long. The wave may be large and soft or firm and fluffy or made to curl in little puff or ring curls, or it may be dressed in crown curls or in any artistic manner of dressing to suit the taste of our client.

We also curl children's hair to hang in lovely curls which may be kept in order by combing around the finger. This is a delight to the little school girl and a joy to the mother.

Permanent Waving No Longer Expensive—the Most Experienced Wavers Charge Only $25.00

Due to the great strides that have been made in perfecting the process it has been possible to place the permanent wave within the reach of every woman who desires it. There is no discomfort, no pulling or breaking of the hair, and the result is a beautiful and lasting wave done by the best operators in America at the low price of $25.

EXPERIENCE has demonstrated that a permanent wave, done by a BURNHAM EXPERT OPERATOR, IS ABSOLUTELY HARMLESS—and that ordinarily a wave will last from four to six months, depending on texture.

* * * * * *

That both of these claims are well founded is evidenced by the fact that many of our customers have had 28 waves—one every six months for fourteen years.

Dramatizing the Dual Influence a Great Newspaper Has in One of America's Greatest Markets

Scene I

The Warrens' Home (Any St. Louis Home)
Time: Morning (Any Morning)

It's the breakfast hour at the Warrens' . . . The customary breakfast. . . . fruit—cereal—toast—coffee—and the morning newspaper, always eagerly read by both Mr. and Mrs. Warren.

But here is the advertisement of a large manufacturer of furniture, with the names of local dealers, featuring an attractive dining-room suite . . . just what the Warrens need . . . and have planned to buy.

Interest in news—events—fiction—now becomes secondary to a want. Presidents and the kings of sport must wait.

The message of an advertiser—the power of the printed word that moves men's minds, and merchandise—has again set the stage for a sale.

Scene II

The Salesroom of a St. Louis Store
Time: 4 hours Later

Noon—and Mr. and Mrs. Warren are entering the salesroom of one of St. Louis' leading retailers of furniture.

Both are there, for in the purchase of furniture, as in the purchase of many other lines of merchandise, BOTH must be sold.

Salesman: "May I show you some furniture?"

Mrs. Warren: "The walnut dining-room suite advertised by . . . . . in this morning's Globe-Democrat."

Advertising—placed in the Globe-Democrat, the daily newspaper that reaches more men and more women in the St. Louis market—first kindled the interest of the Warrens, then transformed the desire to possess into the act of buying.

—and the Sale is Made

Countless times each day the same scene is enacted in stores throughout the St. Louis trade territory—merchandise bought by women—by men—and jointly by both—as a direct result of Globe-Democrat advertising.

Your advertising in this dominant medium will reach and influence the dual purchasing power of the St. Louis market. Within this area live a million families with a tremendous purchasing power. Most of them of average means.

The total value of their annual purchases—purchases of furniture, food, clothing, everything that goes to supply their wants and needs—is second only to the total value of annual purchases of the cities of New York and Chicago.

And the Globe-Democrat—St. Louis' Largest Daily—is read by more of these families than is any other St. Louis newspaper. It reaches more men and more women.

When Both Must Be Sold Advertisers Use the Globe-Democrat

Judge for yourself—from the lineage figures of advertising placed in the Globe-Democrat by St. Louis furniture stores.

> During the first six months of 1924, the four larger stores whose trade is among families of average and better-than-average purchasing power, used more than 75% more advertising in the Globe-Democrat than in the first evening paper.

During this period these four stores used 39,006 lines more advertising in the Globe-Democrat than in all other St. Louis newspapers combined.

During the six months ending October 1st, 1924, one of these advertisers used eighteen times as much space in the Globe-Democrat as in the first evening paper. The Globe-Democrat leads in the St. Louis market.

If your product is purchased by women or by men—or jointly by both—consider the unusual sales opportunities of this great accessible market, popularly known as the 49th State. Population—more than 4,500,000; concentrated within a circle—radius 150 miles—surrounding St. Louis, its capital.

Important facts and figures about the 49th State are available to advertisers seeking a new outlet for their products and to those interested in developing the sales of established lines. The Service and Promotion Department and the Research Division of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat will furnish a complete analysis of the 49th State as a market for the particular merchandise which you make or sell.

STAY IN CHURCH, FOSDICK TELLS CONGREGATION

Farewell Sermon Quotes Paul's Advice.

New York, Oct. 19.—A congregation that packed the First Presbyterian church in Fifth avenue today heard the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, a Baptist minister, preach what may have been his last sermon from that pulpit. Before the sermon it was announced that a meeting of the church congregation would be held on Wednesday night to act upon the resignation which Dr. Fosdick presented to the New York presbytery two weeks ago.

DR. HARRY EMERSON FOSDICK.

Dr. Fosdick in his sermon appealed to the members of the congregation to remain in the church regardless of what disposition might ultimately be made of his case, which has been a storm center since 1922.

Un-Christian Sectarian Lines.

"Just now, in this church situation as a while, how naturally indignant you are at the blindness of the ecclesiastical establishment," said the minister. "Many of you think that sectarian lines are not simply un-Christian but anti-Christian, and one of the chief obstacles to the progress of Christianity. Oftentimes you will find a spirit of satan in the church and the spirit of Jesus outside.

"What a relief it would be to some of you to tell the church what you think of her. And perhaps some of you are thinking of leaving her.

"But I can hear Paul say just as he wrote to Titus, 'You are right about the churches; they may be even worse than you describe, but let thou remain in the church.' That is the right spirit."

Defended by Dr. Guthrie.

In a sermon at the church of St. Mark's-in-the-Bouwerie, Dr. William Norman Guthrie, the rector, defended Dr. Fosdick. His sermon marked the 130th anniversary of the church of which he is the rector. Dr. Fosdick, he said, is having the same experience that he had with "the standpatters of the Episcopal church."

$10,000 RECEIVED FOR BETHEL A. M. E. REBUILDING FUND

Approximately $10,000 was received yesterday in cash and pledges for the rebuilding of the Greater Bethel A. M. E. church, which was destroyed by fire Friday evening. Most of the pledges were received at the morning service yesterday, at Forty-first and Calumet avenue, where temporary quarters have been established. A congregation of 1,500 was present.

A list of the contributors, which was headed by Mayor Dever, has been received, but is being held for verification, and will be published tomorrow.

Bishop A. L. Gaines came from a meeting of bishops in South Carolina to tell the congregation the bishops would do all they could to assist in building "a greater Bethel for the Lord." Letters of sympathy were received from the Rev. Charles B. Swartz (white), and from many colored churches.

HOW DO YOU USE LEISURE? WOMAN EARNS 12 LIVINGS

New York, Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Judicious use of her leisure was the secret of her success, according to Mrs. Fannie Menschel, who has sold more than $5,000,000 worth of real estate on the east side in the time she found to spare from duties as janitress, rent collector, nurse to children of the neighbors, mother of five children, stepmother of six and mainstay of an invalid husband.

Mrs. Menschel, who is 50, came from Russia thirty-four years ago, and married Menschel. He already had six children, but did not tell her about them until after the ceremony, she said.

Her own family grew so fast that she could not support it even with her multitude of occupations, so she began to dabble in real estate twenty-five years ago. Raising a stout right forearm—her weight is a trifle over 200 pounds—she began to gesticulate and shifted from broken English to Yiddish, which was translated as follows:

"She says she was terribly stung in her earliest transactions. Twenty-five years ago she sold a property for $400,000 and only got $600 for a commission. She was cheated a lot of times before she learned what she ought to get."

8000 Steps a Day

SCIENCE estimates that on an average 8,000 steps a day are taken by every individual. Do you suffer from sore, aching, burning feet? The new Post System is giving permanent relief to 97 out of every 100 patients.

In Comfort or in Pain!

Does Every Step Cause You Pain?

The foot is made for work and service, and will stand much abuse. It is, however, made up of many small parts, each of which supports the others. Through sharp strains or twists or illy fitting shoes these bones are sometimes misplaced—the whole arch collapses, the foot spreads, its parts press on delicate nerves, and it goes from bad to worse. It cannot heal itself unless given the opportunity. THE BONES MUST BE PUT IN PLACE.

Our Method

We know the exact location of each bone and ligament. We will replace them with our hands, and then Nature will keep them in place. BRACES AND SUPPORTS ARE DISCARDED because Nature restores the foot to normal, and normally no braces are needed. You cannot determine this condition with your eye. If your feet are sore and tire easily, then you need attention.

Foot Examination FREE

We charge you nothing for an examination. After we look at your feet we will give you a close estimate of the cost of giving you PERMANENT RELIEF. This is not an experiment with us. Your foot troubles are over forever if you 186,000 Miles a Second!

THIS is the speed of the spoken word over a telephone line. Between two ticks of your watch your voice could be hurled nearly twice around the earth.

Bell Telephone engineers have developed methods of using the electric current in the small quantities needed to carry the voice impulses over immense distances. These methods are at the service of the American public who use the long distance lines, probably with little thought of the patient work of inventors and researches of scientists behind their perfect performance.

EVERY telephone added to our system during the past eight years has required an investment much higher than the amount represented by our investment for each telephone then in service. This condition will apply to each telephone added for many years in the future if present price levels hold.

Doing Our Best

GREAT strides are being made by the Surface Lines for the improvement of traffic conditions.

During the past eighteen months service on the system has been increased 8 per cent. A total of $3,000,000 is being spent this year for extensions and new equipment. Rerouting last month, at a cost of $100,000, eliminated 11,000 street car turns a day in the loop.

It is realized, however, that these achievements, important as they are, do not solve the transportation problem.

This has been pointed out by the Surface Lines for many years and to the present movement for immediate construction they pledge their support—with the understanding, of course, that the ultimate plan will provide adequate relief for street car riders, who constitute 80 per cent of all riders and whose contributions to the traction fund make construction now possible.

We'll do our best always—but subways would make our best better.

> "Some notable changes in the map this month very generally follow the lines of crop developments, especially in the grains, and the better buying induced by better yields and better prices. The close-to-record wheat crop in Kansas plus active buying, much of it for export, seems to entitle that state to a white shading"—FRANK GREENE, Managing Editor, "Bradstreet's" in the "Nation's Business."

'KANSAS

Look at the map of business conditions!

Kansas stands forth as the one central bright spot of the United States. Good crops have brought good times.

A wheat crop of 154 million bushels has been harvested and is being turned into cash. A corn crop of stupendous size---148 million bushels---will add to the flow of gold. All over the state grain crops are above par in volume and quality. And prices are the highest in years.

Today the financial institutions of the Sunflower State are in better condition than any time since 1920. There has been a marked reduction in loans and rediscounts and an increase in deposits and legal reserve. Total deposits in the state banks at the close of business August 21, amounted to $248,555,418. Deposits in National Banks on the same date were over $162,000,000, bringing the state total to more than $410,000,000---and the crop money has just started. In words of the West, Kansas is "sitting pretty" from every angle.

Here is a market worthwhile --- an eager-to-buy market of broad extent---a prosperous market. It offers ready sales for household goods, manufacturing equipment, farm implements, automobile, radio, fencing, paint, lumber, silks, dry goods, toilet goods, shoes and clothing---everything that the 300,000 progressive, intelligent, prosperous families of Kansas have use for. And now is the time of all to get your share of sales!

HOW TO REACH THIS MARKET---In Kansas it is the home city daily that is read from "cover to cover" by practically every family, rural and urban. For this reason the 24 leading daily newspapers of Kansas, comprising the Kansas Daily Newspaper Advertising Association, provide a thorough and economical means of covering and selling this market of immeasurable opportunities. Each one of these 24 dailies is ready to cooperate with you in making your advertising and merchandising campaign a real success. Present your problem and let us help you put it over big!

Red Riding Hood

ELIZABETH JORDAN

SYNOPSIS.

Mrs. Morgan Schuyler, one of New York's leading philanthropic and social lights, advertises for a young woman to work in her apartment mornings. The advertisement is answered by a girl evidently of birth and breeding. In spite of the fact that she admits a desire to hide her identity, Mrs. Schuyler accepts her on trust and tags her with the name of Hope Emerson.

Mrs. Schuyler's family consists of her mother, Mrs. Van Dorn; a young brother, Jim Van Dorn; and an older brother, Bertie, who is away.

The second morning of her employment Hope faints after receiving a mysterious telephone call. Mrs. Schuyler summons Dr. Horace Osborne. Hope tells the doctor that she is employed during the afternoon hours on East Seventieth street. The doctor offers to drive her there. By a strange coincidence the doctor has an appointment at the house where Hope is employed. He has been called in consultation with two other doctors. The patient is a boy of 5 years, about whom the entire household mysteriously revolves; the closest guardian is an uncle named Scarwenka. All of the members of this household are foreigners except Hope, who is known here as Sonia. A day or two later a mysterious visitor, Colonel Van Saanen, a man of obvious importance, calls at the Seventieth street house. Hope distrusts him and she learns that Scarwenka does also. Van Saanen tells Scarwenka that he is going to take the boy away that night.

INSTALLMENT XXXI.

HOPE'S QUEST FOR HELP.

Against the power that controlled this house Scarwenka was staking his present situation, possibly his personal safety; and he seemed as much in the dark as Hope was concerning the strength of the forces he was fighting. She only knew gratefully that he was arraigned with her on the side of helpless childhood. Yet what could they do if she failed to find the man who alone could aid her, either by taking their stand with her or by explaining away her fears? On a sudden impulse she took down the telephone book and made a note of several addresses.

A glance at her watch told her it was almost seven o'clock, and she hastened into the closet, to come out wearing her hat and coat and drawing on her gloves. By now the earlier snowfall had developed into a definite storm. It was growing colder and an icy sleet was driven against the window panes by a rising wind. Howls of rebellion echoing from the upper floor testified that the Tartar had reached his abhorred haven of bed. He was shrieking to his Sonia to come and get him, and though there was nothing new in this appeal it held tonight a special poignance.

There was no one in sight.

Scarwenka accompanied Hope to the front entrance of the house, and, allowing her to open the heavy door herself, as usual, shut it after her with a bang. When she tried to raise the light umbrella she held the wind swept under it and only a quick movement prevented the silk cover from turning inside out. She closed the umbrella and with some difficulty descended the steps to the street. They were covered with a coating of sleet and she was wearing no rubbers. The blizzard upon the city was growing worse so rapidly that one could almost see a change from moment to moment. She was rather glad of that, as it might discourage anyone who was trying to follow her. However, no one seemed to be doing anything of the sort. In fact, there was no one in sight.

At the corner she was fortunate enough to meet and stop a passing trolley car. When she reached the platform and the car resumed its downtown course she again looked backward and around her. The streets were still deserted, and the car itself was almost empty. Off in a corner a poorly dressed girl sat absorbed in thoughts that were obviously depressing, for her features were drawn into anxious puckers, and near Hope a middle aged man of the "solid citizen" type absorbedly read the financial page of an evening newspaper. The hour was one when uptown cars were still fairly well filled, but those going in the opposite direction took on few passengers. When Hope got out, a mile further on, her two companions were unconscious of her departure.

She had a crosstown walk of four long blocks to reach the address she sought, and by the time she got there she was out of breath and wearied by the struggle against the wind. The appearance of the building, when at last she reached it, failed to give her a mental uplift. It was plainly a second class apartment house, not overclean, lacking an elevator, and with a row of little slits in its vestibule which thrust toward the observer a collection of dark complexioned cards bearing various names. The name Hope looked for was not among them. She rang a bell labeled "Janitor," and after a long interval a resentful man in a dark checked gingham jumper rose from the lower regions with something of the pictorial effect of a demon in a pantomime.

"I'd like to see Monsieur Vasali, please," Hope suggested, with more confidence than she felt. "Which is his apartment?"

The grimy finger of the apparition—interrupted at his evening meal it now developed, and thus temporarily incapacitated for speech—pointed at the slots.

"He's not there," Hope admitted.

"Then he ain't here." The demon, having by this time swallowed the nourishment he had brought up with him, now spoke with majestic rebuke. "Can't you see fer yerself? If he ain't there he ain't here. What's the use callin' me away from me supper t' tell ye that?"

"I'm sorry." Hope smiled at him and the demon's face lost its look of acute injury. The demon was human, though he didn't look it. "But I know he was here very recently," she added.

"Sure he was." Having expanded under the influence of the smile, the demon now tossed her a crumb of information as he prepared for his return to the lower regions. "He left three weeks ago, with a trunk as big as the room I took it out of. An' did he give me a quarter fer breakin' me back carryin' it downstairs?" the sufferer bitterly inquired. "He did!"

"He meant to be generous. Twenty-five cents seems more to foreigners than it does to us," Hope explained. "Have you any idea where he moved to?" she asked, taking out her purse.

"I'm thinkin' he moved on board a ship—if he got that trunk t' the dock without bustin' the taxicab," he darkly added.

"O, what dock was it?"

"How'd I know, Miss?" The demon regarded her with the look of one whose supply of patience is ebbing. Feminine society was pleasant, but his supper was getting cold. Hope cheered him slightly by giving him a quarter, all she could afford to pay for such depressing information, and asked if there was in the building a telephone she could use. There was, and in that very hall—one of the nickel-in-the-slot variety. It stood remotely in the darkest corner, and thus assured an element of privacy. She hurried toward it while the demon, with a benedictory wave of a huge fist, returned to his cooling supper.

She telephoned to the house of Doctor Phelps, and was not surprised to learn that he was out of town. Phelps would be out of town tonight, for it was a night when everything was going wrong. He had mentioned several days ago that a certain case in Westchester was much on his mind and would continue to be for a week, and he had appeared greatly relieved by the Tartar's prompt recovery from his cold. However, she was not as staggered over the blow as she might have been. She liked Doctor Phelps, but even his most enthusiastic admirers would hardly claim for the depressed physician those qualities most useful in an emergency such as this. What was needed was someone young, pugnacious, resourceful, and willing to "take a chance," someone who would act while Doctor Phelps was still laboriously thinking. She had in mind exactly such a person, and she put her additional 5 cents into the slot and mentioned Osborne's number to the operator with a contented smile. She knew enough of medical etiquette to turn first to the physician in charge of the child. That having been done, she was free to turn elsewhere at once, instead of consulting Phelps before doing so.

A second glance at her watch showed her it was not yet half after seven. There was a chance that Doctor Osborne might be in his own home at that hour, either in his office—the address was the same—or dressing for dinner. If he were not, she would try Hatch, and, failing him, Jim Van Dorn, at home or at the club he had mentioned as the one where Sally's "gang" had reached him. If she couldn't get either of these men—but she dared not let that thought go further. She must get one of them. Van Dorn, she knew, would help her in any way he could; but, after all, what could he do? He himself had been forced to bring Sally to her. The thought of Sally reminded her that here, possibly, was a third string to her bow. She was sure Sally would be as willing to help as Jim—and equally as incompetent. On the other hand, Osborne, who could help if he would, probably would refuse to be drawn into what he might reasonably consider an unalluring mess. However, he could at least advise her, and he must be made to do it.

If You Have Tears Prepare to Shed Them

Mr. Ray Surely Works on Lachrymose Glands.

"DYNAMITE SMITH."
Produced by Pathe.
Directed by Ralph Ince.
Presented at the Castle theater.

THE CAST.

Gladstone Smith	Charles Ray
Violet O'Rourke	Bessie Love
Slugger O'Rourke	Wallace Beery
Kitty Gray	Jacqueline Logan
Aunt Mehitable	Lydia Knott

By Roberta Nangle.

Drab and tragic as a "Limehouse Nights" story is this latest offering of Charles Ray's. It has almost too much horror for one picture, and to watch the star squirm through various heights of mental and physical torture is awfully tough on the poor movie fan's heartstrings.

The secret of Charlie Ray's art lies in his ability to tinge his bashful-boy comedy with a pathos that no audience can resist. That's why we suffer with him and for him when he plays such a grief-stricken role as in "Dynamite Smith."

He is thoroughly consistent and realistic as a timid, retiring bookworm engaged in one of the more passive occupations of a newspaper office and dubbed "Dynamite" by a sarcastic copy boy. One night the entire reportorial staff was sent to cover a big fire (that was back in 1890 when a paper was only a paper—not a speed king) and the city editor was forced to send our hero to cover a murder in one notorious Black Diamond cafe.

He got the story but he also got his nose twisted and his eye blacked by Slugger O'Rourke, proprietor of the cafe. Then the heart rending agony begins, for the Slugger never weakens in his passion for revenge and he follows Dynamite all the way to Alaska to inflict some Inquisition tortures on him.

Wallace Beery is the villain and never has he been more Satanic. It's easy to understand how the fear of him drives "Dynamite" almost to insanity.

Direction, photography, acting—everything about the picture is excellent. Charlie Ray's artistry is unquestionable, and if shedding tears adds to your enjoyment of a movie you'll love this one. Only, next time I hope we'll find the star in something not so depressing.

CLOSEUPS

Miss Anne Morgan, whose activity in philanthropic projects has brought her no little fame, has enlisted in the cause of better pictures, through the medium of the Film Mutual Benefit bureau. Instead of acting as a censor, pointing out objectionable features of screen offerings, this organization is on the lookout for pictures of special merit—which sounds reasonable to us,

BEG YOUR PARDON!

Clem L. Shaver, chairman of the Democratic national committee, sends this message to THE TRIBUNE:

"The statement attributed to an anonymous informant by Arthur Sears Henning in today's CHICAGO TRIBUNE that I have given up hopes of the election of Mr. Davis is ridiculously untrue. I was never more confident that Mr. Davis will receive a majority in the electoral college than I am today."

It last Saturday's paper it was stated that Paramount was responsible for Elinor Glyn's picture, "His Hour." The picture was made by Metro-Goldwyn.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "The Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Anna M. Lane, 825 North Ridgeland avenue, Oak Park, Ill., was awarded $5.

The Question.

Do you believe Dr. Hall-Quest should have been required to resign his position with the University of Pittsburgh because of his domestic affairs?

Where Asked.

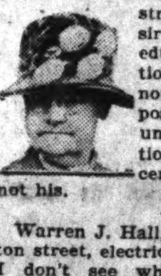
The Answers.

William L. Cullen, 712 Federal street, mail order business—No. I think enough hardship was inflicted upon him by the loss of his wife, without having to lose his position. It looks as though he has been victimized by the narrow minded trustees of the university.



Mrs. B. F. Bushee, 149 East Ontario street, housewife—No, sir, I do not. He is an educator, and the actions of his wife had nothing to do with his position or work at the university. It is her action that should receive censure or punishment, not his.

Warren J. Hall, 212 West Washington street, electrician—I don't see why he should lose his position with the school on that account. Why should he? I imagine the students would have been all the stronger for him, since he had to go through all that humiliation.

Elizabeth Anderson, 603 North St. Claire street, stenographer—No, sir. That woman ought to have had more respect for her husband and kept that affair quiet, instead of giving out love letters to the world and all that sort of thing. And it would have looked better if the university had kept the professor.

Henry Koibe, 167 East Ohio street, commercial artist—From this distance it doesn't look as though that affair of hers should affect the school, since the professor had practically nothing to do with it—nothing except suffer loss of wife, position, and consequent humiliation.

Child Voices Plea in Verse for City to Support Tag Day

Dear Lord, send pleasant weather
On Monday, our tag day,
To help your little children
On their long, weary way.
For we are poor, poor kiddies,
And You help us to live,
So, dear Lord, ask each citizen
To give, and give, and give.
—Jeanne.

Jeanne, one of the kiddies who will share in the proceeds today, when members of the Chicago Children's Benefit league have their seventeenth annual tag day, signed only one name when she mailed her pathetic little poem to the headquarters of the league. They know nothing more about her.

Six thousand taggers will offer for sale the star shaped tags in all districts of the city for the benefit of fifty children's charities. Among the six thousand will be Miss Helen Menken, who has asked the league members to allow her to tag, as she wants to "raise the children to the seventh heaven, too."

Anton J. Cermak, president of the board of commissioners of Cook county, yesterday added his indorsement to the drive, particularly as the county has no power or means to provide for the children, and the institutions caring for them depend upon the liberality of Chicago people.

Mrs. William C. Robinson, 5116 Woodlawn avenue, is president of the league.

A goal of $150,000 is the total league members are hoping to obtain through the day's efforts.

THEATERS

Roland Young returned late from yesterday's golf—so late that part of the audience assembled for "Beggar on Horseback" didn't wait for him; and either redeemed the coupons or took rain-checks. . . . Those who waited saw what remains a bully fantasy, even when the curtain goes up at 9:20.

George M. Cohan, once a well-known actor and playwright and now of the staff of THE TRIBUNE, comes to town tomorrow. . . . Part of his time in Chicago will be devoted to reconstructional architecture: he remains the lessee of Cohan's Grand; and the refashioning of that beloved theater, the last of its era, is among his obligations.

Sir Hugh Ward, another ex-actor, is in Chicago, looking at such plays and actors as he has not encountered elsewhere. . . . His obligations are in Australia, whither he first went to sing and dance and cut up in Hoyt's pieces. He is now the head of the enterprises carried on in the name of J. C. Williamson (Limited);—and there are veterans among the playgoers of Chicago who tell of a day when Mr. Williamson, too, was an actor in this country, and a star in the piece called "Struck Oil."

Arthur Ryan, who has served Mrs. Fiske and other celebrities of the theater as herald and courier, is now the bell-ringer for the Chicago Opera, and is ready to meet all incoming trains carrying singers with contracts to do their chores in Congress Street.

Norman Trevor and Miss Katherine Grey, who were in the New York run, are at the head of the Chicago-bound cast of "The Goose Hangs High."

Harry Green, a Pollak wag out of the two-a-day, decided after a five-nights run that he had spent enough of his Orpheum-Keith savings in being a New-York star, and after 11:00 p. m. Saturday threw his play, "Clubs Are Trumps," into the alley. So! . . . His getting-out leaves a theater for an imported piece, "Comédienne," in which Miss Charlotte Walker and Cyril Keightley will make a try there tomorrow night.

Miss Odette Laudner has been imported to sing in Reynaldo Hahn's operetta called "Ciboulette," to be put on by Hassard Short. . . . Leo Ditrichstein was named last Summer as the principal man in the piece; but it is now said that he will act in a comedy he picked up while abroad.

Reginald Owen and Basil Rathbone, two of the good cast in "The Swan," think that it would be nice of them to give some readings from Shakspere odd afternoons while in town and turn the receipts over to charity. . . . Both actors know a lot about Shakspere: I've seen them in his plays in London, and know that they know. And, knowing that, I think it would be nice of them to chip in with Miss Helen Menken and help her get up the performance of "The Taming of the Shrew" she says she is eager to give: this, too, for charity. . . . I blithely add that any organization of well-doers with a desire for (say) three thousand dollars may get it by the simple process of selling the tickets for such a performance.

"The Street-Singer," an operetta now popular in London, is to be done in this country by the Messrs. Shubert. . . . The music of the piece is by H. Fraser-Simson, and the "book" by Frederick Lonsdale, who is collecting royalties in this country on "The Fake," "Spring Cleaning," and "Aren't We All?"

Light Music at Its Best Given by Whiteman

His Orchestra Even Better than Expected.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Paul Whiteman and his orchestra finally reached the Studebaker yesterday afternoon, and went ahead of what had been expected, even in the light of comment from Manhattan where they usually do not become enthusiastic. Here was light music at its best, light footed, light handed, light hearted, giving an exhilarating tug to the nerves of the toes and the nerves of the ears—altogether a fascinating observance.

They say that too much music of that sort becomes boring. Perhaps it does. Too much of anything, too much Beethoven, for instance, might become boring. Certainly the point of boredom was a long way from being reached yesterday by Mr. Whiteman and his men. They are deft musicians and expert showmen.

Rhythm is a high art with them, and there are more kinds of color in their music than one would suppose possible in an orchestra of twenty-five. And the swift, effortless dexterity of their effects is past belief.

They are coming back, though not till April, and one of their hearers has already registered a determination to be present. He will be particularly firm in the intention if they play "What'll I Do?" again, or if Michael Pingatore does his incredible banjo act in "Linger Awhile." Also, the "Rhapsody in Blue" is something to hear, though it has not quite the fascinating thrill of some of the other pieces, Victor Herbert's "Spanish Serenade" or the "Russian Rose." These were high spots, and I looked in vain for any trace of the famous vulgarity of jazz.

When Tito Schipa sings he can sing almost anything and be a pleasure. The better music he sings, the more of a pleasure he is. He was at the Auditorium last night in a recital, and it was practically a continuous pleasure. Schumann's "Widmung" was a little strange at first under the name of "Dedica" and with Italian words, but Mr. Schipa's golden, caressing voice glorified it. So it did with Handel's "Where'er You Walk," and the several Massenet arias. A slightly swifter and lighter touch on Debussy's "Mandoline" might be advisable, but this was the only flaw in an otherwise lovely program.

Geraldine Farrar and her company visited the Auditorium in the afternoon in a new version of "Carmen," the revision consisting of such things as an absent chorus, a change of order in incidents, various persons singing music that did not always belong to them—Mercedes doing the card scene, for one instance—and some brilliant and nonrealistic scenery and costumes. The general effect was a bit "arty," and one began to realize all over again that "Carmen" in its original form is pretty good opera.

Among other music incidents of the day, Isador Berger gave the first of a series of violin recitals at Kimball hall. He was heard in Henry Schoenfeld's Sonata for violin and piano, played with Alexander Aster. It is founded upon Indian themes pleasantly if conventionally treated, and was well played by both artists.

Oliver Smith, tenor, gave a recital at the Playhouse, displaying a good voice with an urge to it that made good hearing of a group of lieder by Schumann, Schubert, Strauss, and Reger. He is worth hearing again when competition is not so keen.

Winnetka Observes 50th Anniversary of Church

The observance of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Congregational church at Winnetka was begun yesterday with the placing of memorial wreaths on the sites formerly occupied by the church. Tomorrow evening there will be dinner and on Thursday and Friday evening pageants.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Half-Frying.

Although many do not perhaps readily accept dietetic truths, a spreading abroad of these truths does seem to bring about a common sense reasoning about foods that is advantageous. The fact that it is possible to eat so as to maintain health over long periods of time is slowly making its way as a common sense fact into many a home. Milk and vegetables are now recognized as protective foods, although, to be sure, the latter often need protection from the cook or they lose that character.

Let us take onions and consider how to protect them. They contain sugar, and sugar dissolves in water. They contain salts, precious stuffs from a health standpoint, and these, too, are soluable in water. They contain roughage, which may be mild and suave if rightly cooked, but which may be dried up so that it is like the outside skin of the onion as far as its digestibility is concerned.

Without dwelling on all the ways in which the sugar and salts may be wasted, and the fiber dried up, here is a way to prevent both: For an ordinary pan of fried onions take from three to four tablespoons of cold water and the fat to be used for seasoning and frying the onions. If it is suet, try that out and add the water, then the onions. Boil up quickly, lower the fire to the lowest point, cover pan, and cook until onions are tender. Then take off cover, cook out water quickly, brown lightly if desired or add a brown gravy, or stir them around in pan gravy, which performance need not but may make them rather unattractive.

Guitar to Give.

"I have a guitar of exquisite tone that I am willing to send to any one who desires one and is able to pay the express charges from my home in Michigan. V. B. F."

Husband Can't Work.

"I am coming to you with a plea for a family of four in great need of a kerosene oil stove. They have nothing to cook on at present but a heater. They are in need of food and clothing for the children, 7 and 12 years of age. The father is unable to work, being subject to frequent epileptic fits, and their small family resources have dwindled to nothing. MRS. R. S."

A gift of an oil stove would do much to relieve the distress of this unfortunate family, and a few warm clothes for the children would certainly relieve the mother's anxiety.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

MARAGRET: THE CORRECT WAY to walk is to point your toes almost straight ahead. If you watch people coming toward you on the street, you will note how this correct placing of the feet will react in an esthetic way as well as for health. People who toe out or walk with the feet turned out widely, exaggerate the size of the foot. This can be observed either traveling toward or behind pedestrians. I would advise you to send along a stamped, addressed envelop for a set of exercises which will be beneficial for you.

MISS SUE: IT IS NOT GOOD TO eat before retiring, at least not as a rule, as the best sleep is with an empty stomach. Water or fruit may be taken without any ill effect. If you have eaten heartily before going to bed, you will require several hours additional sleep.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Jack and I were making our first trip across the Atlantic to meet our mother in London. The weather had been beautiful and calm for the first two days, but on the third morning, the ship rolled and pitched heavily.

Jack awoke me from an uneasy slumber.

"Daddy, what is the matter with the boat today? Are we on a detour?" he asked. R. L. G.

"What do you think of your new baby brother, Alice?" asked auntie.

"I don't think of him. He isn't big enough to think about yet," replied Alice. H. McA.

When the job was nearly completed she exclaimed, "Mama, you dot nearly all the leaves off that rooster." L. N.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The ambassador of Great Britain and Lady Isabelle Howard were hosts last evening at their first entertainment since coming to this capital, giving a dinner at the embassy in compliment to Geoffrey Dawson, editor of the London Times, and Mrs. Dawson.

A picnic luncheon followed the tennis matches today between the diplomats who participated in the tournament on the courts of Mrs. John B. Henderson and a group of officials of the state department. The matches were played on the courts at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lammot Belin, in Georgetown.

The assistant secretary of the treasury and Mrs. Charles Dewey will come to Washington tomorrow or Tuesday from New York, where the latter arrived yesterday from a short stay in Europe. Mrs. Dewey went abroad with her daughter, Miss Suzette Dewey, who entered school.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert B. Dewey, parents of the assistant secretary, are in Washington and will be guests of their son and daughter-in-law at Greyholm.

Frederic C. Bartletts Soon Will Depart to Pass Winter on Nile

BY PANDORA.

The plans made by the Frederic Clay Bartletts for this winter sound as enticing as a fairy tale. With Mrs. Bartlett's father, Hugh T. Birch, they are going to spend our chill and blizzardy months basking in the sunshine of Egypt on the Nile, in a houseboat which they have acquired for the season.

Chicago bids adieu to this son and daughter with sorrow, for they are valuable and gracious members of any community in which they dwell. Mrs. Bartlett is deeply interested in music and is herself a composer, while her husband is an artist of no small ability. The adieu, it is to be feared, is permanent, as they have disposed of their property in this part of the world, and we shall probably have but short glimpses of them in the future.

Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett were here for a few days last week, and went on Saturday to Beverly Farms, Mass., where they are to spend a week or two with the Albert J. Beveridges. After that they go to New York, whence they sail for Egypt. And Egypt holds such a lure for them that they do not expect to open their house at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., until late in what is known hereabouts as the southern season.

We have word that Mrs. John Christie Caldwell of Troy, N. Y., and the Cyrus Hills of 28 Scott street are starting today or tomorrow from Troy and motoring to Chicago. The Hills have been in New York on an extended trip, while Mrs. Caldwell is coming here for a visit with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. P. J. H. Farrell of 1223 North State parkway.

Day's News in Society

The Woman's Exchange of Chicago announces its fall sale to take place on Nov. 6 at the Drake hotel. French novelties, early American house furnishings, which are enjoying such popularity now, dresses for young girls, and some French chiffon gowns are to be among the articles offered at this annual event, which is always supported and attended by Chicago's society women. Mrs. Ethel Richardson Dunham is president of the exchange, Mrs. James Ward Thorne, first vice president; Mrs. John Coleman, second vice president; Mrs. E. I. Pierce, third vice president; Mrs. Earle H. Reynolds, recording secretary; Miss Helen Gurley, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Edward I. Cudahy, treasurer, and Mrs. John W. Gary, chairman of the finance committee.

The Bill Board ball committee will meet at 10:30 o'clock this morning at Field's, according to announcement by the chairman, Mrs. Edward R. Fifield, and co-chairman, Princess Michel Cantacuzene.

The debutante members of the Junior Friends of Art will be guests of the organization at the opening performance tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Blackstone. The program will include a talk on "Art in China" by Mrs. Carter H. Harrison, and music by McNair Ilgenfritz, violinist; Miss Amy Neill, violinist, accompanied by Isaac Van Grove; the Duncan sisters, and Themy Georgi, grand opera tenor. Miss Eva Le Gallienne will also be a guest for the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Allen Haines of the Ambassador hotel are remaining in the east, where they have a summer place at Marion, on Cape Cod, Mass., until Nov. 15.

The Bernard A. Eckharts of 1530 Lake Shore drive have abandoned their estate in Lake Forest for the winter season.

Formal Evenings Favor the Sheath

by Corinne Lowe

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—She and sheath seem fairly well identified this season, and if we just had time we could develop a tongue twister along these lines. Something like, "She sees sheaths shimmer seeded and silvered stunningly." As, however, we have no time for such frivolous pastimes, we shall pass to the serious aspects of the formal evening gown.

Since the ball given to the Prince of Wales, we have been left in no gnawing anxiety concerning the trend of evening gowns. The sheath is one of the outstanding modes, and it is left to your own personal discretion of what you make it or how you trim it. Nevertheless, it must be stated that white velvet is the most fashionable thing you can do about your formal evenings. Indeed, velvet in other tones—such as red, green, mauve, or flesh—maintains all its former prestige.

However, the sheath may be carried out in the metallic tissues, in satin and in crêpe. Unless it be of the first of these fabrics, it is likely to be sparkle with pearl and crystal embroideries—sometimes, too, with semiprecious stones. For, of course, the line of the sheath is so severe that some compensatory measure must be enacted regarding it. Much trimming happens to be the measure, and even the metallic tissues are sometimes heightened in effect by pearls and colored stones.

Although the white evening gown is in the ascendant, the tints I have already mentioned are seen by the light of every fashionable chandelier. Consequently, you may make the sheath sketched either of white or in color. The same latitude is offered in material, for velvet, crêpe, or satin are all adapted to its vital requirements. In any case, the lavish embroidery of pearls and silver is retained. And, of course, you will not overlook either the original decollétage or the long, self-colored chiffon scarf hanging from the left shoulder.

The wedding took place at the South Shore Country club. Miss Jerrems was attended by her sister, Mrs. Frank C. Wolff, as matron of honor, Miss Virginia Hibben as maid of honor, and Miss Pauline Stern of Rochester, N. Y., Miss Janet Child, and Mrs. James Reber as bridesmaids. After a motor trip of several weeks, Mr. and Mrs. Sears will be at home in Evanston.

ANSWER TO WHAT'S WRONG HERE

A man always gives a woman preference in a dining car. If he is seated at a table for two when she comes in, he should offer her the seat riding forward.

Children Greatest Contributing Cause of Happy Marriage

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Getting on a suburban train recently I found it necessary to assist a young mother who was struggling to board a train. She had a baby in her arms and three small children clinging to her skirts. She was having her troubles managing her little brood, and thanked me with genuine profuseness.

"It is hard traveling with such small children," she said apologetically. "I shouldn't have tried it, but I didn't have any one to leave them with."

"It is idiotic having so many children," she said, almost angrily. "What's her idea, anyway? They are probably as poor as church mice."

As it happens, I know the young mother slightly. She is far from being like the proverbial church mouse, in the first place. Her husband is a struggling young lawyer. They are having a time making ends meet, but they are doing it. And, besides that, I know the young mother to be particularly rich in domestic happiness. Of course, it is a task when it comes to taking them all downtown, but she doesn't do it often, and when she does she makes the best of it.

I also know my companion. She was still frowning from the encounter and continuing to rave about any woman who would have such a large family. "And so close together, too. I'd like to give her a piece of my mind."

Watching her, I couldn't help reflecting that the woman in the seat ahead could give my companion a number of pointers on the fundamentals of happiness and contentment.

My companion has been married even longer than the woman in the seat ahead, but there are no children. And furthermore, she doesn't intend to have any, she announces quite frankly. When marrying she was determined to have everything she wanted and nothing she didn't want. She had a home which she leaves to an efficient servant to manage and a husband she lets go his way, as she believes in going her way.

Knowing the inside facts, I know she is failing at both jobs, that of keeping her home and her husband. And already she is realizing she is not finding happiness, though she refuses to admit that she is in any way to blame. It is other people who are always at fault—relatives who interfere, girls who are too ready to run around with her husband, a man difficult to manage and satisfy.

Refusing to have children is stupid and dangerous—leaving out all moral issues. If they are not the only excuse for marriage they are one of the greatest reasons for it. And they are also one of the greatest contributing causes for its successful and happy termination.

A girl who is in love with her husband and sincerely wishes to hold his love and affection cannot do a wiser thing than to bear him children. It is one of her strongest anchors.

There are many examples of men and women who have lived happily together where there have been no children. But in almost every case it is where childrn have not been physically possible, and the man and the woman have been drawn close through mutual sorrow at their deprivation.

But this is far from being the case wmen the man or the woman or both have refused children of their own will. In many instances health is impaired, and often one or the other comes in time to feel cheated and bitter.

The little mother in the seat ahead with the four small chilren may have chosen the harder way for the time being, but it is the happier way and the wiser way and the easier way through the years ahead.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Told Him No.

"Dear Miss Blake: I met a man last March and at the time he had a girl and I liked the girl. She was a dear friend of mine. He gave her up and wanted to go with me. I really loved him, but I told him no. But now I am lonesome and I love him and would like to go with him. But he never comes to see me. As I love him, what can I do to make him love me?

"LONESOME."

Lonesome, it is quite right to be loyal to your friend, as you were—but now that the break has occurred I see no reason why you should not cultivate his friendship if you would care to, dear. Having refused his invitations, he feels that you do not care for him, so it is up to you to show that you do, and to accomplish this I would suggest your inviting him to your home to a little party, or to spend the evening with you.

CHARLES J. DRIEVER.
[Hussagh Photo.]

The convention, it is said, will be the largest gathering of Lutherans in the history of America.

Charles J. Driever of Chicago is the national president of the Lutheran brotherhood. He will be master of ceremonies at the banquet this evening at the headquarters hotel.

Dr. John A. W. Haas, president of Muhlenburg college, Allentown, Pa., was the speaker last evening at the Sunday Evening club at Orchestra hall. Among other ministers who spoke in the various churches were Dr. W. S. Dysinger, Dr. J. F. Kellman, Prof. C. G. Shatzer, Dr. L. S. Keyser, and Dr. H. D. Hoover.

Choirs Sing Old Song in Honor of Composer, 92

Choirs in all the Maywood churches sang yesterday morning a song once immensely popular, entitled "Master, the Tempest Is Raging." It was done in honor of the composer of the song, Miss Mary A. Baker, 92 years of age, who is living in the Baptist Old Ladies' home of the suburb. The Maywood Woman's club first learned of the matter and requested the honor be paid Miss Baker.

MEN'S FASHIONS

BY A. T. GALLICO.

Wide Suit—Wide Hat.

NEW YORK.—[Special correspondence.]—Although the wide brimmed felt hat is still the most popular number on the market this fall, manufacturers are also putting out the narrow brimmed felts again for those who prefer them.

These narrow brims are quite as stylish and correct as the wider ones, with this one reservation: They should not be worn with the widely cut, easy going English suits with the large full trousers, which will be as popular as ever this year with the well dressed man. Only wide brimmed hats should be worn with clothes of the cut described.

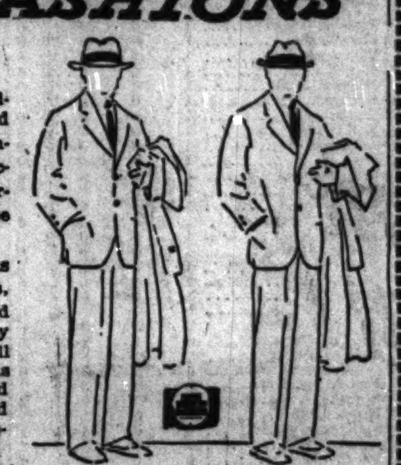
The reason for this, of course, is obvious. It is one of proportion. A man of good size who wore a full English suit would look quite ridiculous if he topped it off with a dinky little hat with a close lying curled up brim.



Fashionotes.

The reverse generally holds good in these articles of ours. A man would not look well in a wide brimmed hat, if he were small, and wore narrow tight fitting clothing.

Paging the Silver.

One noon my girl friend and I stepped into a restaurant. The waiters called out orders to the cook. Now and then some one yelled "Silver up." It occurred to us that this must be some new dish and we decided to try it.

When the waiter came around we ordered two silver ups. He seemed greatly amused and began to laugh heartily, informing us that this was calling up the silverware from down below, where it was being washed. Words could not express our embarrassment when we saw patrons all around us giggling. W. P. M.

His Patience Gone.

When half the show was over the man in front of me turned around and said, "Little girl, I enjoyed your reading, but please let me sit here in peace."

I had been reading aloud and had been kicking the man in front of me. I ran out.

When I got outside I remembered I had left my coat in the theater. I went back for it. Everybody was still laughing. M. E. R.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

New York, Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Before going into detail regarding the results of last Saturday's football games, which went a long way toward determining the probable sectional champions for 1924, a word should be said regarding the exceptional play of Harold (Red) Grange, the Illinois half back, in the Michigan game.

ADAM WALSH.
[National Photo.]

It is no easy matter to run kickoffs back for touchdowns against any Michigan team. Back in the early 1900s, when Yost had his point a minute teams, he made the statement that he would pull his team off the field and put in substitutes if any one were to run through his eleven from the kickoff for a touchdown.

Illinois Should Win.

Following this expected but not so lopsided victory over the Yost team, Illinois should win the undisputed western conference championship. It is true the Orange and Blue must reckon with Iowa, Minnesota, Chicago, and Ohio State, but that any of these teams will be able to stop Grange is doubtful.

Michigan's showing was a disappointment. It was thought Yost and his assistants had enough material at Ann Arbor to mold a team around Capt. Steger and Rockwell that would make a more impressive fight against Illinois. A brace must be taken at Ann Arbor to avoid a discouraging season.

Football in the middle west was given another boost by the victories of Notre Dame and Nebraska over the Army and Colgate respectively. These triumphs and the victories of Chicago and Marquette over Brown and the Navy a week ago is a bit convincing when the caliber of football as played in the two sections is considered.

Notre Dame Trims Army.

Notre Dame displayed a great running attack by winning over the Army 13 to 7. Prominent football men of the section asserted it was one of the most driving and aggressive attacks seen along the Atlantic seaboard in years.

Notre Dame's victory was costly, however. Capt. Walsh, who started in the game with a broken bone in one hand, had a small bone in the other hand broken. He will be unable to play for three weeks, which means his services will be lost for the Princeton game on Saturday and the one with Georgia Tech on the following Saturday.

Nebraska's 33 to 7 victory over Colgate was impressive. The Cornhuskers showed the proper spirit by recovering from defeats by Illinois and Oklahoma to win one of the most important games on its schedule.

Badgers in Tie.

Aside from the Illinois-Michigan clash in the western conference, the struggle between Wisconsin and Minnesota, which resulted in a 7-7 tie, and the defeat of Northwestern by Purdue, 7 to 3, had a direct bearing on the championship situation.

Chicago showed continued improvement by winning over Indiana, 23 to 0. The Hoosiers played good football at all times but were a trifle inferior in general play to the Maroons, who will start a busy week of preparation tomorrow for the Ohio State game at Columbus on Saturday. Ohio State won from Ohio Wesleyan, 10 to 0, and Iowa defeated Lawrence, 13 to 5, in the other games played by western conference teams.

Missouri Leads in Valley.

By defeating Aames, 7 to 0, Missouri can now lay claim to the Missouri Valley title for a time at least. The Tigers, who defeated Chicago earlier in the season, 3 to 0, are showing this victory was no flash in the pan. In the other important game in the Valley association, Kansas Aggies won over Kansas, 6 to 0.

In the east, the 14 to 14 game between Yale and Dartmouth was about the most interesting outside the Army-Notre Dame affair. Both will be hard to beat during the remainder of the season. Princeton recovered from a tie score with Lehigh a week ago sufficiently to win over the Navy, 17 to 14, while Harvard nosed out Holy Cross, 12 to 6. Pennsylvania took a notable game from Columbia, 10 to 7, while Cornell suffered its second defeat of the year, this time by Rutgers, 10 to 0.

As the situation now stands Illinois appears to be the strongest in the western conference, Dartmouth and Yale in the east and Missouri in the Missouri Valley conference.

A NOTE ON COOKING GAME BIRDS.

Have you ever tried the vinegar and butter dressing for cooking game birds? Paul Davis says it is the best ever and not only tasty for rabbits and squirrels but mighty fine for ducks. Paul first takes a half of a pound of butter, melts it over a fire, and adds a cup of cider vinegar. Into this he puts a dash of paprika, garlic salt, some chopped onions, and seasoning to suit the taste. Flour enough to make a thick batter is then added to the above. Spread this batter over the bird, stick a few stalks of celery and a few bay leaves inside of it, and then shove the bird into a hot oven until it browns. Then turn down the fire and cook the duck over a slow fire until done.

The best kind of a cooking utensil is one that has a top, of course, like a regular baking pan. When the duck is tender you can take off the top of the pan and brown the bird before serving. Paul says that a rabbit, duck or other piece of game cooked in this manner does not have that strong flavor which many people dislike.

MUSTANGS, 3; PREMIERS, 0.

Mustang A. C. defeated the powerful Premier A. C. grid machine, 3 to 0, yesterday in a bitterly fought battle at the winners' grounds. It was the third win of the season for the victors in the Central States league.

A Quarter for Twenty

Sternaman's Toe Gives Bears 6 to 0 Win Over Cardinals

Lacking sufficient punch to chalk up a touchdown, but getting close enough to score two drop kicks, the Chicago Bears knocked the Cardinals flat yesterday, dropped them from the National Pro league lead, and won the "city series," 6 to 0, at Cubs park. Little Joe Sternaman made the victory possible, booting the field goals in the first and fourth quarters.

A large number of the 20,000 fans who were pulling for the south side eleven to do the same thing the Sox did to the Cubs weht home disappointed, for their hopefuls failed to threaten the north siders' goal line at any time. It was not until late in the second period that the Cards were able to penetrate the Bears' forward wall for a first down.

Driscoll Misses Kick.

With the Bears leading, 3 to 0, Driscoll had a chance to knot the score late in the third quarter, but his attempted drop kick from the 25 yard line was blocked and Blacklock recovered the oval for the Bears. The Cardinals' opportunity to score followed Driscoll's punt, which was stopped on the Bears' one foot line. Hanny punted thirty yards, but on three plays the Cards were unable to break through for any yardage. On the fourth down Driscoll's drop kick was blocked.

After a series of punt exchanges in the first quarter Joe and Ed Sternaman dashed around the Cardinal flanks for long gains until the ball was planted on the losers' 12 yard mark. Straight line plays put the oval on the 7 yard mark, where the Cards' defense stiffened. Little Joe then sent the ball over for the first score of the game.

Sternaman Scores on Boot.

Following an exchange of punts and Joe Sternaman's return of one of these kicks to the Cardinals' 21 yard line, the Bears were again in position to increase their lead. On three plays Joe and Walquist made first down, carrying the ball to the 6 yard mark. Again the Cards hurled back three assaults, but Joe stepped back to the 18 yard mark and scored his second drop kick.

In the waning moments Driscoll opened up, hurling a number of passes, few gaining yardage of much account. Then Paddy booted to Joe Sternaman, who sidestepped his way through tackler after tackler, returning the ball forty yards to the Cards' 40 yard mark. As the final whistle blew Joe circled right end for a dash of twenty yards that had the earmarks of a touchdown.

Other Tries Fail.

Other tries for field goals were also made, but the kicks attempted fell short. Dutch Sternaman attempted a fifty yard place kick in the second period, but the ball fell short by a scant margin. At the beginning of the third quarter Driscoll also failed in trying for a forty yard drop kick. The ball carried far enough, but went wide of the posts.

ORMSBY WINS 100 MI. AUTO EVENT AT ROBY

Indianapolis drivers copped first, second and third in the 100 mile national dirt track championship auto races at Roby yesterday in a contest replete with thrills and spills. A record crowd of 15,000 attended.

Ralph Ormsby tore off the 100 miles in the remarkable time of 1:28:08 1-5, crossing the finishing line first more than a minute ahead of Clarence Kingsley, who was second, and three minutes before Wilbur Shaw, third. Shaw nosed out Leslie Allen, the first Chicagoan to complete the century, by a bare two seconds. The three leaders drove Fronty-Fords. Allen piloted a Frontenac.

Cliff Woolbury, Chicago's favorite for the title, was again the victim of a jinx which has followed him all summer. On the fifty-second lap his right rear wheel caved in and he was forced out, narrowly missing an upset into an embankment. George Beck and Pop Clancy were other local favorites who met with misfortune. Beck hit a bump on the back stretch, skidded and turned over into the grass, spraining his leg. Clancy turned over at the ninetieth mile, emerging with nothing more serious than a badly cut nose. Summary:

100 MILE NATIONAL DIRT TRACK CHAMPIONSHIP — Won by Ralph Ormsby, Fronty-Ford; Clarence Kingsley, Fronty-Ford, second; Wilbur Shaw, Fronty-Ford, third; Leslie Allen, Frontenac, fourth; Ralph Eckstrom, Fronty-Ford, fifth. Time, 1:28:08 1-5 [established track record].

5 MILE CONSOLATION—Won by Charles Baumann, Fronty-Ford; Glen Fites, Fronty-Ford, second; Joe Larson, Fronty-Ford, third. Time, 4:27 2-5.

RED GRANGE, OFF GRID, IS A BIG BASHFUL BOY

Loves Football but Hates to Talk About It.

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

GEORGE DAWSON.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 19.—The feeling that comes over one on being assigned to interview Mr. Harold ("Red") Grange, star of the Illinois football team, must be similar to what one would feel if told to go and have a talk with Cal Coolidge or the Prince of Wales. Anyway, it was with tense nerves that the writer approached the Zeta Psi fraternity house, where the famous grid star resides.

It would not have been surprising to have been repulsed by blue coated officers and secret service men who would demand credentials and everything before allowing one to enter, because this young man, Grange, has become so famous through his football prowess that he has crowded the President and the prince for space on the first pages of the newspapers.

Just a Big Kid.

But after talking to this famous athlete for one minute all that nervousness leaves one, for young Mr. Grange is just a big, bashful boy.

Imagination led me to suspect the hero would be seated on a throne surrounded by admirers and his time so taken up in the celebration that one would be fortunate to talk to him even a minute.

Consequently it was rather surprising to learn from his fraternity brothers who were at home that Red had gone downtown to a picture show with a couple of the boys. Just imagine for a moment, the hero of the day, the man that 67,000 persons had cheered and praised, and the man everybody was talking about, being down in some dark and secluded seat in a theater looking at a picture!

Every One Knows Him.

Presently he returned with his two friends, and immediately a number of fraternity brothers from the Michigan chapter, visiting at the house, stepped forward to meet him.

"My name is Smith," said one of the visitors as he grasped the hand of the hero and gave him the fraternal grip.

"I'm glad to know you," replied the hero. "My name is Grange."

"Say, you don't have to tell me your name," said Smith. "Everybody knows your name."

That was just a sample of the retiring modesty of the young hero. He actually doesn't seem to realize that he is being talked of by about 10,000,000 people in the country today. He thinks of himself as just Red Grange, the Wheaton boy who played football in high school there.

Modest and Shy.

Red doesn't know how to talk about himself. He doesn't know that anything he may say about his past life or about his future plans are of any interest to the public. But it was interesting to learn that for several summers he has earned money to help himself through school by toiling as an iceman in his home town. And it was interesting to learn that when he has finished his education, he aspired to coach football for a couple of years at least and then get into business.

"I might have made more money last summer," he ventured, "by writing life insurance instead of delivering ice because I was offered a good chance with an insurance company, but I figured that the hard labor of handling cakes of ice would put me in good physical condition for football this fall. I was overweight last spring and I took off ten pounds in the summer by hoisting ice. I expect to go back on the ice wagon again next summer because I have another year of football to play but after that I hope to get into some business.

Will Try for Ball Nine.

"I would like to try my hand at coaching some team, though, before I get too firmly settled into business. I love the game of football and always have. Maybe I could do some good to the fellows who are just learning it. I like all branches of sport but football the best. However, I intend to try for the baseball team here next spring as an outfielder. I've played quite a bit of baseball but don't know if I will be good enough for our team."

"What business are you preparing for?" was asked.

"No particular business," was his answer. "I'm in the School of Liberal Arts with the idea of getting a good general education which I believe will be helpful in any business one may enter."

"Maybe you'll turn out to be a professional baseball star like Ty Cobb," was suggested.

"I hardly think so," he answered. "At least, I feel now that I would prefer a business life rather than that and anyway, I may turn out to be a rotten ball player."

Brother Star, Too.

Grange has a younger brother, Garland, who is a freshman here this year and gives promise of being a running mate for him on the varsity eleven next fall. The younger brother isn't quite as heavy as Red, but is only 18 years of age. He is said to be just as fast and one of the best passers on the freshman squad. An injured shoulder kept him out of some of the recent work, but Red thinks that by next fall the kid will make good on the varsity.

"RED" AT HOME

Meet Mr. "Red" Grange, the elder, the father of the phenomenal gridiron satellite of the University of Illinois.

For in knowing Mr. Grange the elder, christened Lyle N. Grange, you'll know Harold "Red," the younger, better. In knowing that the once young and agile Lyle N. was king of the lumber jacks in the Pennsylvania mountains, it is easier to guess whence comes the power which has enabled the famous Red to tread the path to gridiron glory.

Mother Is Dead.

"Red" Grange's mother—described by the father as being a sweet and lovely girl—died when the Illini hero was 5 years old. It was her death which occasioned the departure of the small family, consisting of the father, Harold, the younger son, Garland, who is now a freshman at Illinois, and a daughter who married shortly afterward, from Forksville, Sullivan county, Pa., Harold's brithplace, some sixteen years ago.

Red's athletic tendencies asserted themselves early. He was only 4 years old when, after coming home from a Sullivan county fair, where he had observed some high school athletic events, he rigged up high jumping standards and proudly announced, "Pa, I can jump." He demonstrated his skill, leaping very nearly as high as his head.

Wins at Church Picnic.

After the removal of the family to Wheaton, the present home, Red participated in all the athletic events which were open to him, once attending a Sunday school picnic and coming home with his pockets stuffed with prizes, having won firsts in all the events he was eligible for.

Through the grades Red was interested in football and basketball and when he entered high school, the former was his chief interest. In his first year he played at an end under Coach Mitchell where his running capacities won him much applause. The next year he was shifted to quarter back by Charles Welden, the present coach, but after two games his value as a ball carrier and end runner proved too great for that position and he was shifted to a half.

During his high school career, the Wheaton team suffered only one defeat, and that was at the hands of Scott High, and in that game Red was taken out because of a kick on the head. Some of the notable points of his prep career were his thirty consecutive kicks after touchdown and his feat when the undefeated Wheaton team played the undefeated Downers Grove team. In that game Red scored six touchdowns and booted nine goals, Wheaton winning, 63 to 13, when doped to lose.

Active in Other Sports.

Red's career in other sports has been outstanding. In his senior year, in three weeks he entered nineteen events and copped nineteen firsts in the dashes, hurdles, and high and broad jumps. His performances in basketball and baseball have been most notable.

Talking about his success is distasteful to him, though. His father thinks him the most bashful lad he has ever seen, while in high school. And he's still self-effacing.

Around his home town Red is well liked. The kids call him Red and he likes to play with them. The townspeople are proud of him. He has converted the town into a city of football fans. His fellow citizens are considering naming the new high school athletic field Grange field in his honor.

Red has few intimate friends, but many who like him and whom he likes. He's a great kidder, joker, and trickster.

Illini fans may tremble at knowing how nearly Red Grange came to be playing on the Michigan rather than the Illinois team on Saturday. He had almost decided to enter the Wolverine school, but George Dawson, an Illini alumnus and intimate friend of Harold's, influenced him to the Champaign institution.

RED GRANGE—PAST AND PRESENT

CARL COOPER'S spectacular victory in the recent Three A race in Fresno, when he turned the 150 miles for a new track record of 1:25:13 in the Studebaker Special he has used all this season, places him in the lead for national racing championship honors for 1924. Following the tragic dirt track battle in Syracuse where Jimmy Murphy's death eliminated the 1,595 points which had set him far in the lead for the racing crown, Cooper stepped into the lead. He now has 980 points with Comer second in the running and Bennie Hill third.

Two more races are to be driven before the 1924 season is closed and the championship awarded. On Oct. 25 pilots of the "big league" will dedicate the new speedway at Charlotte, N. C. There Cooper will face twenty-three starters in the elimination contests. The final race will be run at Los Angeles Nov. 27.

Cedar Rapids highway experts, in checking over the year's expenditures on Iowa's dirt roads, estimate that about $500,000 have been "sunk" in the dirt routes of Linn county in the last four years. This money, they declare, has been spent by the county for maintenance and temporary repairs on the dirt arteries, while each hard rain covers the improvement in mud. Voters of the county will decide for or against the old mud enemy on Nov. 4, when a complete county highway program calling for surfaced primary and secondary roads and permanent drainage and bridge improvements will be submitted. The entire program calls for a total of 229 miles.

Col. Hackett to Address Illini Club Thursday

Col. H. B. Hackett, West Point '04, will be the speaker at the Illini club luncheon at 12:30 Thursday noon in the Ivory room of Mandel Bros. Col. Hackett is one of the most prominent football referees in the western conference.

INAUGURATE GOLF MEET.

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The first annual interfraternity golf tournament at the University of Iowa will open this week, according to Coach Kennett. The tournament is a part of the Iowa program to make "every man an athlete."

ILLINI LOUD IN PRAISE OF MICHIGAN CAPTAIN

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Mingled with the protracted rejoicing over the Illinois victory over Michigan yesterday was a general tribute among Illini players and students to the sportsmanship and bravery of Capt. Steger and his Wolverines.

The Illini rooters who applauded Steger yesterday were impressed again when the Orange and Blue players told them how Steger during the game arched his body over Grange while tackling him to prevent on injury to the man who blasted the hopes of Michigan.

Game May Be Fixture.

General campus belief now is that Illinois-Michigan games will become as much of a fixture as the Illinois-Chicago contests. According to the arrangement, the Wolverines, because of their home schedule, may play again in the Illinois stadium next year.

The Illini came out of the battle in good shape and began today to talk of preparations for Iowa. Fear that the overwhelming defeat of the Wolverines might inspire overconfidence is discussed.

Play De Pauw Saturday.

The line needs a lot of bolstering. Iowa's great battle last year is recalled and Burt Ingwersen has the same team, with few exceptions. The Illini encounter Jimmy Ashmore's De Pauw team this Saturday in the stadium.

Illinois' showing against Michigan stimulated the ticket sale for Iowa and thousands who could not get ducats yesterday will come.

25,000 WATCH I. A. C. RUNNER WIN ROAD RACE

C. A. Woods of the Illinois Athletic club won the ten mile road race held yesterday under the auspices of the Twenty-fourth Ward Democratic club. His time was 57:35. "Chuck" Mellor, a teammate of Woods', finished second in 58:96, with Thomas Wood of Elgin, Ill., third in 59:30.

More than 25,000 fans lined the course while hundreds of machines followed the runners. Col. A. A. Sprague was the starter, with Harry Berz in charge. The results:

1—C. A. Woods, Illinois A. C.	57:25
2—"Chuck" Mellor, Illinois A. C.	58:06
3—Thomas Wood, Elgin, Ill.	59:30

Waukegan High Athletes Score Well on Profs.

The tradition that athletes must be dumbbells was shattered at the Waukegan township high school when the posting of scholastic records showed that six of the eleven regulars on the football team are on the honor roll, having secured marks of 90 per cent or above in two or more subjects.

Cook County League to Make Rules Tonight

The regular meeting of the Cook County Football league will be held at the Windsor-Clifton hotel tonight. Rules will be formulated in reference to the cup series. Oscar Wolf's Boosters and the Hamburgs have the highest hopes of winning the championship.

MASON CITY WINS TWICE.

Mason City, Ia., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Victory perched twice on Mason City's shoulders yesterday. While the high school football team was defeating Charles City, 38 to 0, the local Junior college team was winning from Waldorf college, 31 to 7.

TWIN BROTHERS KEEP COACHES GUESSING; CAN'T TELL 'EM APART

BELOIT, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Twin football players, one a frosh and one a sophomore, are baffling Beloit college coaches. The two Rockford youths—Carl and Bob Brolin—change suits and play in each other's place. Bob was hurt and Carl, sophomore, ran the frosh team from the quarter position yesterday and Coach Kitteringham thought he had his regular frosh athlete in the field. When Bob was pledged to a fraternity at college Carl, already a member, changed neckties with his brother and received congratulations from the frat men.

AT THE FOOTBALL CAMPS

IOWA.

IOWA CITY, Ia., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The meager victory over Lawrence college has pointed out that Iowa has a bigger job than had been supposed in preparing for the big test of the season here this week-end when Minnesota arrives for the homecoming game. Every effort will be made to have the team in the finest shape. The situation is made more acute by the return of the scouts from Madison. They declared that Minnesota was forced to uncover a lot of plays that had not been seen earlier in the season in an effort to beat Wisconsin and that in its present condition, the Iowa line is in no condition to stave off the hammering of Lidberg and Graham.

INDIANA.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Wearing no sore spots, the Indiana football contingent returned from Chicago today where the Hoosier eleven was drubbed 23 to 0 by the Maroons Saturday. The Indiana coaches have two weeks in which to get a team into shape to meet Northwestern at Evanston. An entirely new set of plays will be taught the 'varsity this week and it is rumored further shakeups in the lineup will be made. Every man on the regular squad came out of the Stagg fracas in good shape, Trainer Ferguson said.

NOTRE DAME.

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Blocking traffic in downtown South Bend for more than one hour, thousands, including the Notre Dame student body, paid honor to Rockne's eleven on its return from New York tonight, where yesterday it whipped the Army. The city had never seen so wild a demonstration. The Notre Dame band led the parade of students and followers. Then the crowd gathered and cheered the players as they appeared on a hotel balcony. Capt. Adam Walsh paid a glowing tribute to his fighting team and declared the game the best a Notre Dame team has played in years.

ARMY COACH ANXIOUS TO PLAY N. D. IN WEST

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

New York, Oct. 19.—[Special.]—With the Navy going west to meet Michigan at Ann Arbor next fall in football, the Army would not have any objection to going to Chicago to meet Notre Dame, according to Army officials who attended the Notre Dame-Army struggle here yesterday.

Coach Rockne of Notre Dame has no choice in the matter, but he has often asserted he would like to meet the Army in the west for one year at least. Coach McEwan of the Army also is anxious to play the game in the west, but the matter is entirely in the hands of army officials at West Point and Washington.

PLAY IN GRANT PARK?

With the announcement that the Army-Notre Dame game next year probably will be played in Chicago, football fans are speculating as to the scene of the contest. Undoubtedly the best place for such a game would be the stadium at Grant park.

When the Grant park stadium is completed with seats on the end arranged for a gridiron contest, the seating capacity would reach upwards of 50,000, larger by far than any similar stadium. Stagg field seats, at capacity, 32,000, while the field at Northwestern can care for less than 20,000 fans.

The Grant park stadium will be in better shape next year for holding football contests, according to commissioners of the south park and the city, and more of the larger college football games will be sought to give more of the sports public of the city a chance to attend such contests.

DAN ZEI WINS AT LINCOLN PK.

Dan Zei, after a shootoff of a tie between the three classes competing in the Lincoln park traps regular monthly shoot yesterday at the local traps, won the trophy in the 75 target event, feature of the day. His score in the first shoot was 66, but in the shootoff he touched 22 out of 25 targets, giving him the victory. Other high scores were:

D. E. Thomas, 73; W. E. McCormick, 72; Charles Burmeister, 71; George Stahl, 70; Ed Troeh, 70; W. J. Host, 69; Joe Donlan, 69; O. H. Hassel, 69; F. Huseman [pro.], 70.

H. M. Rowley won the doubles shoot with 87 out of a possible 100. Ed Troeh and Dave Thomas were only one point behind with 86.

MAROON GRID SQUAD FACES TOUGH DRILLS

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

The University of Chicago grid outfit is in for a strenuous week of drill before the playing of Ohio State at Columbus Saturday afternoon. One thing which will be done will be to devise a defense against the passing attack which the Buckeyes are expected to expose as their major offensive tactics.

The Indiana game last week proved valuable to the Maroons in demonstrating to them that their defense against aerial attack is not impregnable. The Hoosiers weren't overly successful—especially when Harry Thomas was in the game to bat down their efforts. Yet twice they started offensives, with Salmi and Stevens hurling the oval, which might have been disastrous to the Maroons.

The Hoosier conflict also gave Coach Stagg an opportunity to inject his less experienced gridders into the fray. The result was that thirty-fie Maroons were in the conflict. None suffered serious injuries, Phil Barton, end, getting the worst bump, a kick on the leg.

It is likely that the Midway coach will drill his huskies on a bunch of new plays this week, since he didn't expose many of his tricks Saturday.

PURPLE TO BRACE

Greatly disappointed, but not downhearted or demoralized from the effects of the association with Purdue Saturday, the Purple warriors, trying to forget, will get down to serious business this afternoon to make ready for the coming of the Michigan Aggies next Saturday. The defeat was a bitter dose.

It was expected that the Boilermakers would spring a series of forward passes on the Purple, but they were not "supposed" to complete many of them, for almost every day last week Coach Thistlethwaite drilled his men against this style of attack.

The Purple came through the battle in excellent shape. No men were forced out with injuries, but many may be subject to the blues, especially after the Purple mentor explains about the sudden attack of sleeping sickness that seized practically every one near the end of the game.

CHICAGO COLT MAY AGAIN WIN 2 YEAR OLD TITLE

BY FRENCH LANE.

William Daniels, the Chicagoan who owns the fleet 2 year old colt Master Charley, announced yesterday that he had ordered him shipped from New York to Kentucky tomorrow to compete in the Kentucky Jockey club stakes on Nov. 1 at Churchill Downs.

This is the race that annually decides the 2 year old championship of the west, and for a number of years its winner has turned up as the favorite in the Kentucky Derby winter books. Master Charley will not only carry the hopes of many Chicagoans in the race but also of most eastern turf followers, for he is rated as about the best of the age that have been competing on New York tracks this season.

Wins Saratoga Hopeful.

Victories in the Tia Juana Futurity, the $50,000 Saratoga Hopeful stakes and in another handicap event at Jamaica a few days ago have all but clinched the eastern 2 year old title for him and should he win the Kentucky classic he will easily be the 2 year old leader for the year in America in the amount of money won. He shouldered as much as 130 pounds in both his big New York triumphs and has given every indication of being an extraordinary route goer.

His career has been shaped very much after that of Black Gold, as he is a product of winter racing, making his start at Tia Juana, and has been kept in training throughout his 2 year old season. He may also be prepared for next season's rich 3 year old events which, of course, will include the Derby, at one of the winter tracks.

Seldom Win Derby.

Winter track horses have seldom been able to come north and capture a derby, but Black Gold proved that it could be done this year.

It will be the second year in a row that Chicago colts have been prominent in the running of Jockey club stakes, as the race was won a year ago by Frederick Burton's Wise Counsellor. Mr. Daniels, who hails from the stockyards, has never raced a pretentious string of horses until this year, and most of the fame it has acquired has been due to the flying legs of Master Charley, an English bred colt by Lord Archer-Bachelor's Choice.

SOX AND GIANTS DANCE ON SHIP FOR TRAINING

On Board the Steamship Mount Royal, at Sea, Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The new York Giants and Chicago White Sox, en route to Europe, have a novel method of training on shipboard. They are riding electric hobby horses in the ship's gym. The horses are equipped with various gaits and canters.

The players spend hours on "horseback." The exercise has much the same benefit as a ride to the hounds. Rowing machines, boxing, wrestling, and electric vibrators aid the players to keep in shape for the approaching games.

President C. A. Comiskey of the Sox and Manager McGraw of the Giants encourage members of the teams to spend evenings on the dance floor and to fox trot at various speeds. This will help as much as anything to keep them in condition, these experts claim.

Muddy Ruel, who is listed as a Sox catcher, showed himself a versatile and adaptable athlete by breaking the ship's suffleboard record.

NEAR RIOT HALTS SEMIPRO GAME

The semipro championship of Chicago is still undecided. After the Cermaks had evened the series by blanking the Blues, 3 to 0, in the first game, a near riot halted the second affair in the third inning and before the field could be cleared darkness made it impossible to continue. The Blues, who were acting as the home club, were ahead, 5 to 0, at the time. In an effort to get the four and one-half innings in, the players began deliberately striking out. The Cermaks protested and the crowd swarmed on the field. A decision on the contest will be made at a special meeting tonight.

BELGIAN STARS WILL PUT ZIP INTO BIKE RACE

A team of hard riding, jam starting Belgians that will keep the rest of the field in an uproar was announced yesterday by Paddy Harmon, manager og the international six day bike racing which starts at the Coliseum next Saturday night. The team will be composed of Maurice De Wolfe and Alphonse Goosens.

De Wolfe has been seen here, but it will be the first appearance of Goosens in the United States. He is rated as one of the best road riders in Europe and also has plenty of experience on the small tracks. Like most of the Belgians, he is a great jammer.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—Epinard, noted French race horse that ended defeats in three international specials on American tracks by faring badly at Laurel, Md., on Saturday, will be shipped to New York during the coming week to sail for France within a fortnight.

In making this announcement tonight, Eugene Leigh, his trainer, explained that Epinard came out of the Laurel race with a cracked quarter that precludes him from going to the post again this year.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY FRANK RIDGWAY

ORCHARDISTS who failed to spray their apple trees this year have learned a lesson. Pests played their share with the weather in cutting down the 1924 apple crop. The effectiveness of spraying is evident in orchards throughout the middle west.

Reports show that the apple crop varies sharply in different sections of the state, but when estimates are totaled for all the apple growing countries the average will be better than a half crop. About 801,000 barrels will be packed for the market, compared with 1,351,000 barrels last year.

The apple crop of the whole United States is more than 7,000,000 barrels short of last year's yield—the commercial crop totaling about 26,942,000 barrels, according to the federal bureau of agricultural economics.

Fortunately, however, orchard owners in this state, at least, will be able to put up a fairly high grade pack, for the apples are of satisfactory size, quality and coloring.

HOPPE HERE FOR 3 CUSHION PLAY

Willie Hoppe, the balkline champion, will arrive today for his 400 point three cushion match against Augie Kieckhefer tomorrow, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, at the Kieckhefer Recreation room. The first block will start tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Seats have been selling rapidly and a capacity house is looked for. The arena has a seating capacity of between 400 and 450, the Kieckhefer Recreation company having taken down several tables.

HUGE CROWD TO SEE ENGEL AND TALABER CLASH

When Lou Talaber and Heine Engel clash for the world's middleweight wrestling championship at the Coliseum tomorrow night seats for 10,000 spectators will be available, according to Promoters Joe Coffey and Ed White, who yesterday completed final arrangements for the big bout. Present indications are that all seats will be filled.

Either Johnny McMahon or Charley Lavine will be the third man in the ring, it was announced yesterday. Engel wants Lavine to take charge, while Talaber has no choice and has left the selection of a referee in the hands of the judges.

Both grapplers are ready for the opening bell. Talaber yesterday took some limbering up exercises and announced himself as within the required weight, while the challenger indulged in a lengthy drill as he claims he is not in the best of condition.

While the main interest will center on the big bout, some real wrestling is expected when Johnny Meyers and Joe Parelli meet in the semi-windup. In the other preliminary Sammy Sandow of California will take holds with "Dutch" Feldman of Iowa.

ERROR PERMITS HILLDALE NINE TO TIE SERIES

Rogan's error on Santop's single to right in the fifth allowed two runners to score and Hilldale of Philadelphia beat the Kansas City Monarchs in the ninth game of the colored world series at Schorling's park, yesterday, 5 to 3.

The series now stands four all with one game a tie. The deciding game will be played this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Score:

Such popularity must be deserved

To convert critics into enthusiasts, whether for a new school of music or for a cigarette, requires something more than luck. There's sound reason for every big swing in popular taste.

So, to account for Chesterfield's swift rise, look to the cigarette itself, its tobaccos, its blending—in short, its taste. This one thing alone—its decidedly better taste—explains why thousands of smokers are changing from other cigarettes to Chesterfield.

MANY PREDICT HIGHER WHEAT PRICES TO COME

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Those who have been closest to the foreign situation in wheat and rye are bullish and expect higher prices. They consider the world's wheat situation as fundamentally sound and warranting a good advance, though it may not come all at once. With December wheat around $1.50, and within 3c of May, with the traders expecting December to advance to a point even with May and possibly to a premium, it may not be wise to get too enthusiastic on bulges for the present, while buying should be done on breaks.

The situation in Canada and Argentina should be watched closely. Canada has not moved much of its wheat so far as its prices are out of line. That country is in the same position as the United States was last year, the position of the two countries being reversed as to the wheat situation.

America Leading Seller.

America is selling its wheat at a good rate and its hard winter is as good if not better than the Canadian No. 3 northern. As there has been bad weather in western Canada and quality of grain has been lowered, it may be necessary for Canada to reduce its prices to sell liberal quantities abroad.

In case of Canadian prices coming down to the same basis as the American hard winter, there is a possibility Canada getting considerable foreign business, but with the high grade of American hard winters and the poor quality of the foreign wheats owing to the wet harvest, high grade American grain will be needed to a large extent.

What these conditions will mean in future prices is the problem confronting the wheat trade. Wheat is regarded as worth the money at present, and is expected to sell higher later, especially should the Argentine crop fall down as Canada's has. In such a case the world's situation will be strengthened and there is no telling how high wheat will go later in the season.

A pause in the foreign buying, with exporters holding off and refusing to take wheat from the west at reduced premiums on Saturday, looked as though it might be a basis for a moderate recession in value.

Primary Marketing Big.

A big movement is on and primary receipts of wheat since July 1 aggregate 266,000,000 bu against 171,000,000 bu last year. Exports are running the largest of the year at 15,000,000 to 18,000,000 bu a week, which taxes the seaboard capacity. Georgian Bay ports, Buffalo and Montreal are congested. Montreal has 3,500,000 bu of grain afloat and that port is likely to close in about thirty days. This may necessitate moving a large quantity of Canadian wheat through American ports, instead of Montreal.

December wheat in Chicago closed Saturday at $1.50 to $1.50¼, up 7½c for the week. May $1.53 to $1.53¼, up 2⅝c. July 1.34¼. Winnipeg October finished 8⅝c and deferred futures 6 to 6⅝c higher than a week ago. Minneapolis 4⅞ to 6c and Kansas City 5⅝c to 6¼c above a week ago.

Best Harvest in Five Years.

Referring to the harvest in the United States, the department of agriculture says: "It is by all odds the finest harvest in five years; not the greatest in physical value of products, but the best balanced and representing the best income. There is no single case of serious scarcity among the major products; neither is there any serious overproduction.

The corn belt and the wheat belt, two regions that were plunged into a nightmare of depression in 1921, will come back with this harvest; the south to fair prosperity and the wheat country to at least a more tolerable state of things."

Reviewing the corn crop and the situation, the report says: "The general index of purchasing power of farm products has moved up to 90, the year 1913 being considered as 100. The upswing of the last five months is the best sustained period of improvement since the war time boom in the spring of 1917. Agriculture is working back toward a more reasonable balance with urban industry."

Mild Weather Helps Corn Crop.

Mild weather has done much toward maturing late corn that was not hurt by frost and the government reports from different states suggest a better condition than was supposed to exist a few weeks ago. It has saved a vast amount of feed throughout the country as pastures are good and roughage abundant.

This should effect consumption of corn on the farms, and with fewer cattle and hogs on the farms to consume the large quantity of soft corn there is an unusual situation.

A readjustment of corn values from an old to a new crop basis is on and the general public is not in the corn market on the buying side, and speculation generally has dropped out. After a long period of bullish markets, corn is being left alone and professionals and pit element are furnishing the bulk of the business.

Farmers are disposed to sell old and new corn on bulges and speculators also take advantage of upturns to unload. For the present the corn market does not present attractive features to buyers who expect to get large profits in the near future. Ultimately corn values are regarded as likely to move very much higher.

Corn Prices for Week.

Closing trades of corn futures last week were at net losses of 2¼c to 2⅝c, December being $1.09¼ to $1.09⅝; May, $1.11⅝ to $1.11¼, and July, $1.11⅝. Week's prices follow:

Oat Movement Falls Off.

There has been an immense marketing of oats since Aug. 1, primary receipts being 110,129,000 bu, compared with 76,311,000 bu last year. Chicago, Minneapolis and Duluth combined have received more than 70,000,000 bu, against 43,000,000 bu last year. Primary receipts last week were 7,911,000 bu, compared with 11,289,000 bu the previous week, and 7,535,000 bu last year.

It is hardly to be expected that with the oat crop 209,000,000 bu more than last year, that this excess will more than compensate for the reduction of 587,000,000 bu in the corn crop, yet oats are being consumed at a big rate on farms because of their relative cheapness.

Supplies at primary markets, however, are heavy and the trade is carrying an immense amount of hedges, while the consumptive demand is moderate. There are inquiries from exporters, but limited sales and seaboard clearances.

Oats Prices for Week.

December Rye Congested.

There is a big local holding of December rye by one of the strongest local operators. This fact has forced it to 1c above May against a discount of ⅞c a week ago. It closed Saturday at $1.35, or 8c higher than a week ago with May $1.34¼, a gain of 6⅝c for the week.

The traders are talking about this large holding of rye having been bought at a price so low that the leading holder will take a delivery of the cash rye in December rather than sell in the open market to get profits, as such a movement would necessitate paying the government around 30 per cent. This has been the talk for a week. It is a peculiar situation and will force hedges with cash rye here and in the northwest to make a delivery. The big holder of December rye could allow the market to decline 35c or more and still have a good profit. It is a unique situation.

Hog Products Markets.

In the face of larger receipts of hogs, lard prices advanced to the highest of the season owing to heavy reduction in stocks and a better cash demand from exporters and domestic consumers, also to a large speculative trade. October lard is up 77c for the week and January 22½c. Short ribs are 10c higher to 12½c lower and bellies 2½c to 12½c lower.

Pan Am. Petroleum and Transport.

W. M. T.: The $12,000,000 Pan American Petroleum and Transport company ten year convertible 6 per cent bonds are issued to provide for the prompt redemption of the entire $7,494,200 Mexican Petroleum company, Ltd., of Delaware fifteen year 8 per cent convertible bonds and to furnish additional working capital. Approximately 98 per cent of the capital stock of the Mexican Petroleum company is owned by Pan American. These bonds not secured by a mortgage, but no mortgage or lien on present property may be created by the company or subsidiaries without including these bonds equally and ratably therewith. The consolidated balance sheet as of June 30, 1924, including owned and controlled companies, shows current assets of $43,718,828 and current liabilities of $20,472,896. Consolidated net earnings, including owned and controlled companies, based on present ownership of stock of Mexican Petroleum and the Caloric company, for 1923 (after depreciation and depletion, but before interest and federal income taxes) were $24,180,820. For the six and one-half years ended June 30, 1924, such earnings have averaged $23,011,757 per annum, or over nineteen times the maximum annual interest charges of $1,198,517 on the entire funded debt to be outstanding on completion of this financing, including this issue. For the six months ended that date such earnings were $9,503,649, or at an annual rate of $19,007,298. The company's outstanding capital stock at current market prices represents an equity of about $133,000,000 junior to these bonds. These bonds are convertible into class B common stock at $70 per share. These bonds, together with $7,030,533 other obligations will constitute the only funded or mortgage debt of the company and its controlled companies. We regard these bonds as a sound investment.

To Holders of Incompleted Applications for LOANS

For the remainder of October we will operate a special department to give attention to those persons who before this date have applied for a loan but who have not completed their applications and who have not returned them to the bank for consideration.

If you will refer such applications and inquiries, if any, to Department "B", we will endeavor to hasten action thereon. (If you have lost or mislaid your application, a duplicate will be given to you).

This special arrangement is for the benefit of those who may have been caused some previous delay—and to whom the saving of time will be a convenience.

The operation of Department "B" will in no way interfere with the usual attention and dispatch which we will continue to give to new or old customers.

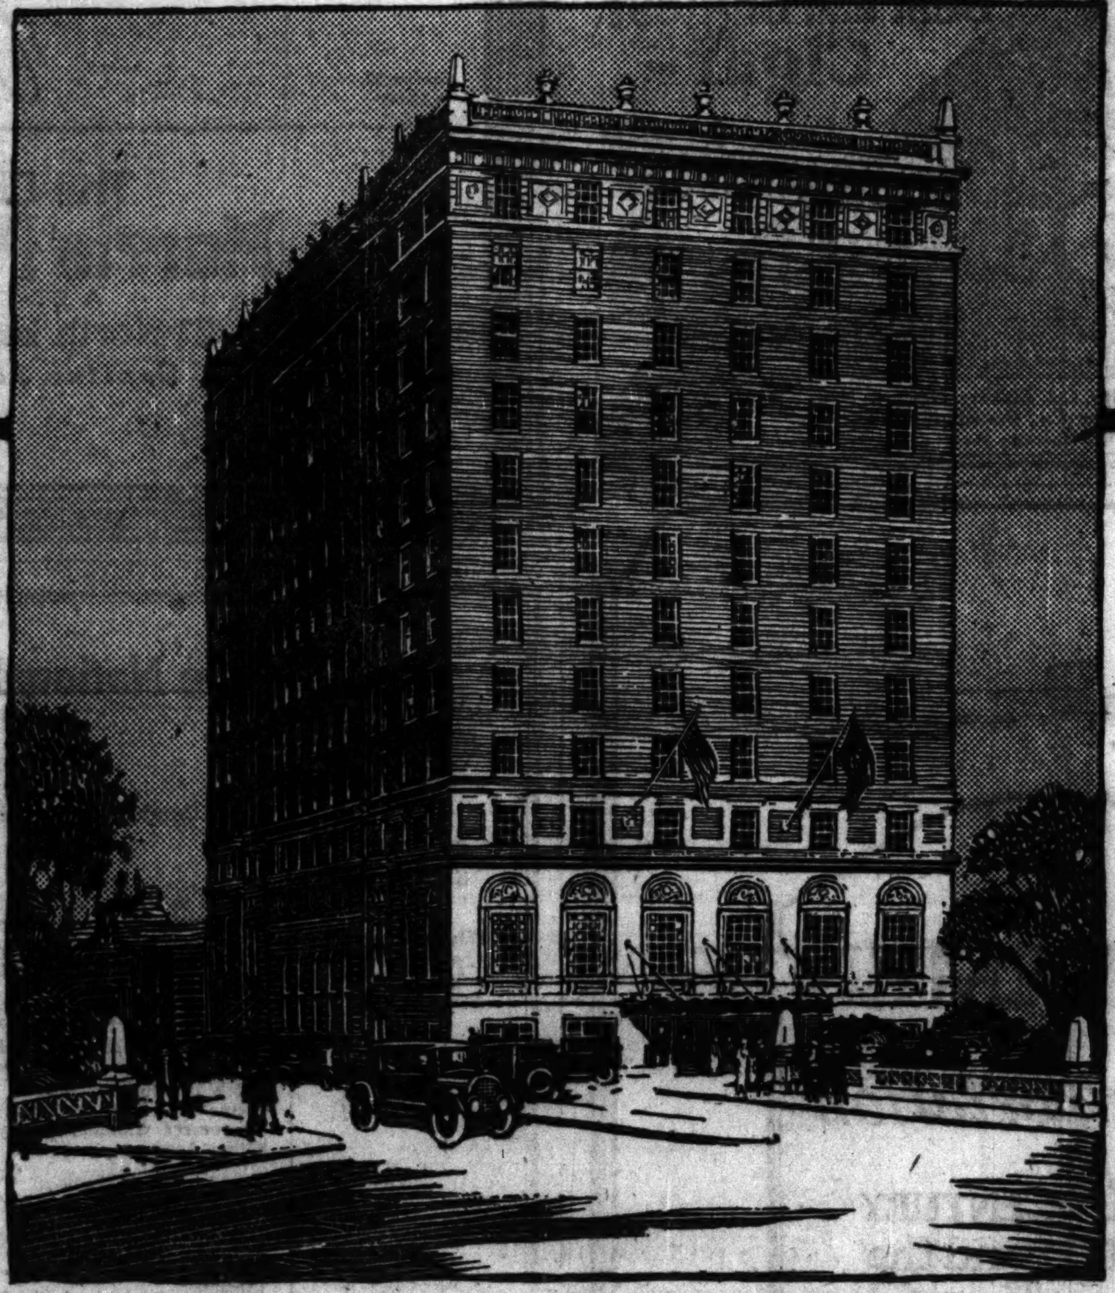
Andrew Jackson Hotel

Nashville, Tennessee

7% First Mortgage (Closed) Serial Coupon Gold Bonds

Dated July 1, 1924 — Due serially July 1, 1926—1939



THE Andrew Jackson Hotel, now being erected as an important integral part of the magnificent civic center of Nashville and the State of Tennessee, will overlook Memorial Park, the Tennessee War Memorial Hall and the State Capitol, harmonizing with these and with other imposing structures around Memorial Park.

Demand for hotel accommodations in Nashville is admittedly acute. The twelve-story Andrew Jackson Hotel will contain 250 guest rooms—being one-fourth larger than the only other strictly first-class hotel in Nashville.

The Andrew Jackson Hotel is being built to the very highest standards of construction and appointments by The Charles Loridans Hotel Company, who have been identified with other leading hotels throughout the South, and who will operate the Andrew Jackson Hotel on completion.

(1) the land, conservatively appraised by leading Nashville realtors at $125,000;

(2) the building, which is being erected at a cost of $940,000;

(3) all the hotel furniture, furnishings and equipment, to cost $150,000; making the total value of the security behind these bonds $1,215,000.

The bonds mature serially, beginning July 1, 1926, and ending July 1, 1939. Over 53 per cent of the entire issue will have been retired before the final maturity date. No part of the mortgage is released until the entire issue has been paid, thus increasing the equity behind the outstanding bonds from year to year.

Trustee for the bond issue is the Citizens and Southern Bank, Atlanta, Georgia. Interest coupons are payable January 1 and July 1. 2% Normal Federal Income Tax paid by borrower. Bonds are in denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100.

We will be glad to send a complete description of this hotel and details of the bond issue upon request.

TWO sons—one a steady young business man, the other a ne'er-do-well—inherited their father's estate. But the elder son, the business man, was given control as executor and trustee.

The arrangement that seemed so wise, was a constant embarrassment. Every act of the trustee was open to the charge of self-interest, because he was also a beneficiary. The feud between them grew until finally the court was compelled to appoint a new trustee.

The appointment of an able, unbiased trust company in the first case, would have avoided the family feud and protected both brothers against injustice.

To the Woman with Rooms to Rent

Your rooms must be rented promptly, or you are losing money. Each day that they remain vacant deducts just that much from your income. It is therefore the greatest economy to use Want Ads that are prompt, sure room renters. Any other kind is a serious waste of time and money.

A Tribune Want Ad will fill your vacancies without delay. People wanting rooms or housekeeping rooms use The Tribune for a directory. Mrs. A. Smith, 2720 Wilcox Street, reached these people through this Want Ad; you can rent your rooms by the same method.

WILCOX-ST., 2720—TO RENT—2 NICELY furnished rooms, for light housekeeping, $13.50 a week; children welcome.

It was ordered for three days, but it was canceled after the first insertion. Mrs. Smith reported these results:

"The rooms were rented the very first day the ad appeared. I don't know exactly how many replies we received, but there were enough to make it easy to get the people we wanted."

The New York Times.

New York, Oct. 19.—[Special.]—In week whose financial markets gave indication of any change in the eneral position, the incidents of real gnificance were the oversubscription the German loan, the renewed and pid advance in grain prices, on top our own largely increased harvest recasts.

As a sidelight on the grain situation, ere was the showing, in the Septemr foreign trade report, of the largest ports of any month since the beginning of 1921. In different ways, these teresting events served to emphasize e remarkable character of the present tuation.

German Loan Success Expected.

The success of the German loan was t at all unexpected. Indeed, the retion of the $200,000,000 borrowing to e putting in operation of the Dawes heme was such that the underwriting nkers had to be absolutely sure of a ll subscription before making the offer. In the conferences which arranged for e operation and fixed terms the consensus of the world's most experienced d sagacious international bankers was voked. Our own investment market, which $110,000,000, or more than half the loan was to be placed, could be sily measured from the fact that a 0,000,000 Belgian loan, offered a month fore at a price to yield more than 7 r cent, had been six times oversubscribed and had risen on the stock exchange to a 4½ per cent premium over e issue price.

Seen as Logical Event.

Keeping all this in mind, the fivefold versubscription of the German loan whose net interest yield was nearly 7¾ r cent], the drastic scaling down of lotments and the rise of the bonds on e stock exchange to a premium of 3⅝ r cent, will be seen to be wholly gical. It still remains for the market make its definite appraisal his will not be possible until, on the hand, underwriting bankers, who sold to their clients more of the nds than they actually received on lotment, shall have "covered" their gagements and until, on the other nd, subscribers who were disposed to tch quick profits by selling their own lotments at the premium shall have mpleted their operations.

The striking fact of the matter, however, is the wholly unruffled aspect of th the money market and the general d market, while this important operan was being carried out.

Money Rates Not Disturbed.

Money rates hardly moved, other instment bonds held absolutely firm, and e most active of the United States govment bonds actually advanced to a w "high record" while the German n was being distributed.

This is the clearest possible evidence the magnitude of American capital ailable for new home and foreign loan bscriptions. A situation thus defined ll certainly lead to important financg, not least of all for Europe.

The foreign trade statement for Sepber which reflected immense grain ports, showed the largest volume of port trade of any month since Febary, 1921, when the high prices of 1920 ll were influencing the returns, but the gest surplus of exports, $142,000,000 ce October of 1921, when the violent de reaction had cut down imports to ly half what they were in 1920.

Shows Change in Current.

The striking fact about this autumn lance of trade is that the huge Sepber export surplus comes on the heels a $1,900,000 excess of imports, as rently as last July.

This remarkable change of form is atbutable primarily to the export of ain. Of wheat alone, we sent out last nth 20,000,000 bushels more than in ptember, 1923, with the price averaging to 40 cents a bushel higher. That one oduct had increased export values over by upwards of $25,000,000; the same g happened with rye and oats, while tton, although selling last month $15 $30 per bale below 1923, contributed ,000 more bales than a year ago to the ptember export trade, an increase of arly 7 per cent.

It is possible that but for this great rease in agricultural exports, last nth's outward trade would have shown very much as it was in summer time.

Follows Harvest Season.

This great rise in the export trade and e export surplus is a natural accomniment of a harvest season such as the rld has witnessed in 1924. All the familiar earmarks of the season of foreign arcity and home abundance of which e people learned in such years as 1915, 97 and 1879, have already been repeated—the crowded freight cars, the congested seaboard market, the prosperous mer and the huge export balance, but ere has still been one thing missing.

The revival of home trade, which, on ose occasions was always impressive d somewhat spectacular, has as yet me into sight only faintly. A month m now, perhaps, we shall be able to y more positively how far the analogy ll be rounded out.

The Men Who Talk Advertising Outnumber Those Who Can Make It Perform

There are too many fortune tellers in the advertising business. Too many advertising men whose salesmanship will not reduce to print.

The most ardent advocate of advertising may lack all knowledge of its application. The enthusiasm of inexperience. Predictions based on hope. What weight have the recommendations of one whose only connection with advertising is a roving commission to sell it?

Making advertising pay is a shirtsleeve job. Selling problems don't succumb to slogans. Nor to the impressive names by which some advertising organizations choose to designate their efforts. Dominance—Prestige—Acceptance—there are many ready-to-sell brands of publicity. They have never acknowledged defeat. If they don't distribute merchandise you haven't spent enough. You have merely met Sales Resistance that will yield in time to Cumulative Value. Have no concern; the Never Say Die school of advertising will not desert you while you have a dollar left!

All of which has nothing to do with the advertising man whose experience is larger than his vocabulary. The man who has no synonyms for sales; no substitutes for straight thinking. Who believes a good advertisement is one that sells goods, and that every other kind is a poor one. And who has heard of overhead—knows the meaning of turnover—and will evince some interest in your costs. When you talk with such a man his ideas of advertising will prove to be surprisingly like your own. So will his method of working. He will spend no time in "research" but will assume that you can tell him more about your business than he can learn from questionnaires. If he holds any conferences they will be with auditors, not artists. After which he will submit a selling plan that you will approve with confidence. There will be no talk of appropriation until the advertising has been tested. There are three ways to test the worth of an advertisement. No careful operator wants you to invest any important sum in untried copy—regardless of his record for being right.

There are advertising men who know their business. When they are the higher-ups they have had a hard climb. They speak from their experience and their talk is confined to facts. All else is ballyhoo.

First Joint Stock Land Bank of New Orleans
(New Orleans, Louisiana)

Five Per Cent Bonds
Price 101½ and Interest

To yield over 4.80% to the optional date (1934) and 5% thereafter

Due November 1, 1944, redeemable at par and interest on any interest date on and after November 1, 1934. Acceptable as security for Postal Savings and other deposits of Government funds.

The First Joint Stock Land Bank of New Orleans operates in Louisiana and Mississippi, restricting its loans to selected sections. The officers have had many years of experience in the farm loan business in the territory in which the bank operates.

The Bank operates under Federal charter and Government supervision. The issuance of its bonds and the collateral pledged as security have been approved by the Federal Farm Loan Board, a bureau of the Treasury Department. By a decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, the constitutionality of the Act creating the Joint Stock Land Banks and the tax exemption features of these bonds were fully sustained.

These bonds are secured by either first mortgages on farm lands or United States Government bonds or Certificates of Indebtedness deposited as collateral. The liability of the bank's stockholders is double the amount of their stock.

We recommend these bonds for investment and shall be pleased to send circulars describing the issue in detail.

TRADE ON LONDON BOURSE DULL AS ELECTIONS NEAR

BY ROBERT STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Oct. 19.—One event of the week was the long talked of issue of the British portion of the German reparations loan and the subsequent heavy oversubscription came as no surprise to financial circles, although it had been recognized from the first that a large section of the investing public would refrain from subscribing owing to sentimental reasons.

The successful floating of the British, as well as American, and Dutch portion of the Dawes plan loan contributed to impart a confident tone to the markets. Home politics, as last week, continued to exercise a definite influence on the trend of prices, but the confidence in a Labor defeat at the polls grew rather than diminished and the sentiment brightened as a result.

Gilt Edged Securities Gain.

Throughout the week, however, business was rather dull, the general elections naturally having an unsettling effect. A general advance in quotations was noted in the gilt edged section. In the foreign market French rentes were somewhat easier, but Brazils displayed a firm tone. Chinese issues became more firm on more cheerful news from Shanghai.

Moderate business was registered in the home rail market. An irregularity prevailed at the outset, but the market quickly became infected with the prevailing feeling of confidence, and prices responded accordingly. Home rails were good and foreign rails developed no startling features, Argentines remaining firm on the whole, and American rails showing a slight irregularity.

The industrial department was fairly active, with several bright spots developing, in textiles especially. Tobaccos were strong, insurance shares grew firm in places, and banking shares were steady. Interest in rubbers continued to broaden on the firmness of the commodity and the confident feeling that American buying will be on fairly substantial scales.

Oils Show Gain.

Oils were in rather better fettle following an improvement in the price of crude. Mexican eagles continued lively and both Shell and Royal Dutch rallied moderately.

Kaffirs in mines maintained a firm front, without any display of activity. Base metal descriptions were fairly active, Mexican silver issues particularly being more lively and optimistic.

OPEN 8 OFFICES FOR PROMOTING FOREIGN TRADE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Announcement of the opening of eight new trade promotion offices in foreign countries was made today by Dr. Julius Klein, director. They will be located at Ottawa, Canada; Hamburg, Germany; Stockholm, Sweden; Helsingfors, Finland; Bombay, India; Canton, China; Montevideo, Uruguay; and San Juan, Porto Rico.

The Ottawa office will be in charge of L. W. Meekins. E. C. Squier will be at Hamburg, T. O. Klath at Stockholm, E. A. Kiech at Helsingfors, J. E. Miller at Bombay, O. F. Watson at Canton, L. B. Clark at Montevideo, and L. W. James at San Juan.

All of these trade commissioners have been trained in the service of the bureau.

Dr. Klein said that results already obtained through existing offices were so substantial that the expansion of the service was regarded as essential. The bureau especially desires to be more helpful for American industries with the stabilization of Europe.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 19.—Germany's new financial leader, Jacob Michael, is outdoing the feats of the late Hugo Stinnes, according to the Vorwaerts and bourse circles. Herr Michael, who was practically poor in 1914, is now worth more than 120,000,000 gold marks [$30,000,000] today. It became known today that he had bought a majority of the shares of the "Mittel Deutsche Credit Bank." This makes the seventh important bank of which he has gained control. Chemical plants, metallurgical enterprises, insurance companies and hotels have been accumulated by the new financial wizard through clever bourse and real estate speculations.

DRY GOODS AND GARMENT NEWS

[Copyright: 1924: By Fairchild.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Gray goods closed the week with a firm tone and prices on several numbers were advancing. Trading was also in better volume. The 64x60, 5.35 yards to the pound, moved up to 8⅝c and the 68x72, 4.75 yards to the pound, were 9¼@9⅝c. The 72x76, 4.25 yards to the pound, sold at 11¼c and the 80 squares, 4.00 yards to the pound, were 12⅝c.

NEW YORK.—A slight decline in the Fairchild cotton goods average price and index number for last week is shown at 15.475, which compares with 15.635 for the preceding week. There was a sharp decline in the average price of raw cotton for the week at 23.53c, which compares with 25.40c for the previous week.

NEW YORK.—Week-end trading in the raw silk market was active, with prices 5@10c a pound higher. Double extra A sold at $6.05@6.10 a pound and best No. 1 at $5.80@5.85. New style cantons were also included in the forward movement, 14-16s selling at $5.75@5.80 and the 20-22s at $5.40@5.45. The primary market at Yokohama was also exceedingly active, cables telling of 3,200 bales changing hands. Prices were up 40 yen a bale.

NEW YORK.—Burlap trading was quiet and featureless over the week-end, with prices practically unchanged. Cables from Calcutta told of an easier tone in the primary center and as a result buyers held off in the expectation of lower prices Monday. Spots sold at 8.40c for 8s and 10.40c for 10½s, and October shipments were 8.15c for 8s and 10.15c for 10½s.
